MAYOR MURPHY OF DETROIT GETS PHILIPPINES POSTRoosevelt Selects Him for Governor-General, Retaining Cummings in Justice Department.ATTORNEY-GENERAL PLEASES PRESIDENTExecutive Likes Promptness, Decisions, Activity

ed for T. J. Walsh.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit has been selected for the governor-general-ship of the Philippines, President Roosevelt announced today.

This means that Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, who was originally selected for the governor-generalship but was placed at the head of the Department of Justice after the sudden death of the intended appointee, Senator Walsh of Montana, will be retained as Attorney-General. Cummings is now engaged in an extensive departmental reorganization that is expected to abolish numerous jobs.

Murphy is a Democrat of highly progressive leanings. He was one of the speakers at the progressive conference held here a couple of years ago under the sponsorship of Senator Norris and others of the Progressive group in Congress.

Couzens' Son Successor.
A few days short of 40 years old, Murphy is now serving his second term as Mayor of Detroit. He is a lawyer with a degree from the University of Michigan and has been assistant United States District Attorney in Michigan, an instructor in law at the University of Detroit, and a judge of the Recorder's Court of Detroit. He has been Mayor since 1930. He was a Captain overseas in the World War and was with the American army of occupation.

Murphy's present term as Mayor will expire next January. It is an interesting angle of a stop-gap appointment that he will be succeeded for the remainder of the term by Frank Couzens, who is now vice-Mayor by virtue of his presidency of the Detroit Common Council. Frank Couzens is the son of Senator James Couzens of Michigan, a former Mayor of Detroit.
The Department of Justice in the emergency caused by the sudden death of Senator Walsh two days before the inauguration, the presumption was that the appointment was in the nature of a stop-gap to give the President time to look around for a permanent choice.

Speculation centered largely around the names of Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, to whom a Federal Circuit judgeship has since been offered and declined; former Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin; Prof. Felix Frankfurter, of Harvard, also mentioned for Solicitor-General, and Donald Richberg of Chicago, attorney for the railroad labor organizations.

More than a month has now elapsed, and Cummings continues at the head of the department. It is known that the President was highly pleased with the promptness and the character of his decision during the banking crises. His recent activity in the department, moreover, is taken by subordinates to indicate that he will remain in charge. He has reorganized the press service, with a view to increasing and facilitating the flow of information from the department, and other more important changes are believed to be pending.

Both at the White House and at the Attorney-General, all questions of reporters as to the length of his tenure have been turned aside.

SCIENTIST PREDICTS

NEXT TWO YEARSPossibility That Earth Will Be Affected in Some Way as Yet Unknown.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—A prediction that the sun will be colder for the next two years, with the possibility the earth will be affected in a way as yet unknown, was issued today by the Smithsonian Institution.

For the next 24 months, said Dr.
Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the institution, the heat that issues from the sun and makes life possible on earth will be somewhat below normal. This does not necessarily mean that the earth will have two cold years, for earthly weather is affected by many influences besides the sun's heat. However, it is believed the cold years on the sun must have some effect on the earth, though what it will be is unpredictable.

OFFICIAL SECRETS
BILL DESIGNED TO STOP NEW BOOKMeasure Rushed Through House After Author of "American Black Chamber" Writes New One.SENATE TO LIMIT SCOPE OF PROPOSALCertain Provisions Which Might Interfere With Freedom of Press to Be Deleted.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—It is an open secret in Washington that the mysterious censorship bill rushed through the House last Monday at the behest of the State Department was drafted with a view to stopping the publication of a book written by Herbert O. Yardley, former code expert for the Government, whose book "The American Black Chamber" about two years ago created a sensation.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to which the measure was referred, is now engaged in whittling it down to confine it rigidly to the purposes that the State Department says it was intended to serve. As originally drafted and passed by the House, it was open to a broad interpretation which, if applied, might have interfered seriously with the normal activities of the press in reporting governmental affairs.

When this possibility was called to the attention of Senate and House leaders, all haste was made to give assurance that the bill was not designed to interfere with the freedom of the press and that before passage by the Senate all the sections appearing to tend in this direction would be taken out. There is no doubt that this will be done.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which was charged with the task of reviewing the bill, discovered that it was intended to muzzle the press. He declared that any such course would be revolting to him personally and contrary to the ideal of free speech which he was serving. The purpose of the bill, he said, was to prevent interference with the State Department's code information and with similar information passing between a friendly foreign government and its diplomatic agents in this country.

The bill was passed by the House by a vote of 800 to 29, in response to a statement by Chairman Hatton Sumners of the Judiciary Committee, who said that the bill was a branch of the Government desire the prompt passage of the bill and had satisfactorily demonstrated to the committee the need for it. There was scarcely any discussion of the measure.

When press gallery members began pressing for information and pointing out the censorship possibilities in the bill, many of the members hastened to profess their ignorance of the offending sections and to promise their influence in the Senate to rewrite the bill.

The reasons behind the State Department's urging of the bill finally came out in the cloak room discussions. A couple of years ago Yardley, a former communications officer in the State Department, wrote in his sensational "American Black Chamber" that code experts of the American Government functioned not only during, but after the war in breaking down the code messages of foreign governments.

He himself, broke down the Japanese code, and he illustrated his book with code messages and other material, some of it in facsimile, to prove his point. Yardley said that thanks to efforts of himself and his associates, the American delegates at the Washington Naval Arms Conference of 1921-22, where the five-five-three ratio for capital ships was fixed, knew all that passed between the Tokyo Government and the Japanese delegation at the conference. Yardley assailed Secretary Stimson for his abolition of the "Black Chamber" (the decoding agency) on becoming head of the State Department in 1929.

Manuscript Seized by United States.
The book sold heavily in Japan, and it is said, did much to inflame anti-American feeling in that country.

Some time ago, the Government learned that Yardley was about to bring out another book, to contain disclosures of more recent American-Japanese relations. On Feb.
21 last, United States District Attorney Medalle of New York caused the manuscript of this book to be seized in New York.

There was, however, no prosecution. Whether this was due to the absence of a law to fit the case, or

With beer back today the routine luncheon service in restaurants was upset by urgent demands for the 3.2 per cent product which is being sold in Missouri and 18 other states.

The two breweries making beer in St. Louis were so busy filling orders that it was difficult to get a telephone connection into their establishments.

As an industry and as an indulgence, beer returned with appropriate ceremonies after a legal absence of nearly 14 years.

Legalized by Federal and state enactments, it was sent out in hundreds of trucks from the two St.
Louis breweries, beginning at 12:01
a. m. and was consumed by thousands of thirsty celebrants, who were served a half hour to two hours after midnight, according to distance from the breweries or the speed and efficiency of delivery service.

Hundreds who did not wait up ordered it for breakfast, at luncheon, in the interim. Householders kept phones busy ordering it delivered in cases to their homes from retailers. Things were decidedly on the move in the beer business and its related trades.

Warehouses were swamped with orders for beer at the luncheon period. They struggled to acquire the knack of opening bottles and disposing of the dregs.

The biggest crowds of the night were not those gathered in hotels and restaurants to spend their money, but those who stood around the brewery entrances, watching the busy scenes of dispatching the seemingly endless lines of trucks, loaded with draft and bottled beer.
For many of these watchers, there was no immediate prospect of a drink from the foamy cargo, but their cheers were as heartfelt as those of the crowd who "Goesend or "Prosit" heard in hotel dining rooms.

Crowds at Busch Plant.
Carnival spirit held sway around South Broadway and Arsenal street, where thousands, of all ages, stood for hours within view of the loading platforms and shipping yards of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

The sightseers began assembling in mid-afternoon, and from 9 p. m. on, the crowd pressed so closely that it took the work of police details to keep a way clear for the constantly arriving trucks. Street cars were delayed, some of them for a half-hour or longer, and automobiles could find no parking place within blocks of the entrance.

When the clock in the brewhouse Aber clock striking 12, only the first stroke could be heard. The rest were drowned by the roar of the crowd, the shriek of sirens, the blaring of bands, and the din of motor horns.

Within a minute after the clock struck, a scarlet-hued truck came out, carrying to Lambert-St. Louis flying field the cubes of beer addressed to President Roosevelt, Vice-President Garner, Speaker
Rainey, former Gov. Alfred E.
Smith, and Gov. Park. Airplanes waited at the field for these souvenir shipments.

Other trucks, some of them loaded since morning, followed, on their way to downtown hotels and to outside communities. Springfield, Ky., Peoria, Ill., and Hopkinsville, Ky., were among these places whose attended names showed the trucks' points of destination.

About 300 trucks were loaded with cases and ready to go, while about 1200 others were in line, along Arsenal street, as far west as Jefferson avenue. They moved in a steady line through the Seventh street entrance, and came out on Broadway, laden with closely packed cases. Among the trucks were those of chain stores and industrial establishments, some of them borrowed by beer retailers.

Some of the trucks paused to take on barrels of draft beer from the plant at St. Louis and Dorcas streets, which had been held at a temperature of 32 degrees.

At the same time, 135 freight

ROOSEVELT INVITES CHIEFS OF FRANCE, GERMANY, ITALY
TO COME TO U.S. FOR PARLEYS

The Mayor-Elect Crooks an Elbow

BERNARD F. DICKMANN at the Elks Club celebration early this morning.SCIENCE WRITER MAKES HIS OWN
NOBLE EXPERIMENTDrinks Six Bottles of New Beer in Hour and Notes Effect for Posterity.

International News Service sent its science editor, Leigh Matteson, out to conduct a practical test of the new 3.2 beer. Following is his report, unedited, uncorrected and wholly as he wrote it:

NEW YORK, April 7.—Leigh Matteson, International News Service science writer, do hereby affirm and attest that I am writing this story under the immediate influence of the alcohol contained in 10 eight-ounce glasses of the new 3.2
beer.

As a volunteer "guinea pig," I just finished consuming these bottles, or six and three-fourths bottles, of the new beer in one hour flat. Biologically speaking, the multi-cellular organism which is me, feels distinctly different than it did immediately after breakfast, when the drinking experiment began.
The sensation of difference might be described as a feeling that the cells in my tissue have ceased crating against each other through the influence of a delicate lubricant.

When the experiment began, this "guinea pig," felt like a tennis ball might after the second season of continuous use. There was a distinct absence of faith that he would "bounce" properly in given circumstances. That faith has returned.

In fact, it began to return with considerable celerity at the introduction into the subject of the twenty-second ounce of Fischer's "extra beer"—that is, toward the latter part of the quaffing of the third glass of 3.2. From the twenty-second ounce to the fortieth ounce the faith in one's ability to "bounce" returned in full.

Between the fortieth and fifty-sixth ounces, or on the sixth and seventh drinks, there seemed to be some profit-taking among the cells, but this was checked and all lost ground was regained in the first sip of drink No. 8, that is, the fifty-seventh ounce. This new upturn
ounce by ounce, until the tenth drink, the last ounce of the eighty-fourth ounce, when the driver had failed to halt at the command.

The hall used by Progressive miners as their headquarters here was closed by county officials last night, because of the situation brought about by the struggle between the union and the United Mine Workers for supremacy in Perry County.

In Franklin County, heretofore the chief field in this section of conflict between the two unions, meetings of both unions had been barred by Sheriff Browning Robinson, who said the order would remain in effect as long as it is "considered advisable during the mine union emergency." The Sheriff also barred mine union dances and meetings of women's auxiliaries.

ery With Him.JAPAN, CHINA, BRAZIL,

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—The chiefs of the French, Italian and German Governments, as well as the English, have been invited to come to Washington to discuss plans for world economic recovery with President Roosevelt.

The State Department announced late today that invitations had been extended to Japan, China, Argentina, Chile and Brazil to send representatives to participate in world economic conversations at Washington. The invitations were extended orally by Undersecretary William Phillips.

The Peruvian Minister also visited Phillips this afternoon but department officials said he had not received an invitation as had the other South American Powers.

Invitations to Italy and Germany were extended orally today through their embassies.

A similar invitation to France was extended through the French Ambassador previously.

Each nation has been invited to send the head of its Government, in the use of Germany and Italy, presumably the dictators Hitler and Mussolini; for France, Premier Daladier.

MacDonald will sail April 15.
Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain already has accepted a formal invitation and will sail for the United States April 15.

If the head of the state is unable to come, the three Powers have been informed that a member of the Government will be welcomed, or, failing that, the exchange of views would take place through diplomatic channels.

In addition to those who have been invited, the United States will receive representatives of any other nation recognized by this Government which desires to have a voice in arranging for success of the world economic conference at London this summer.

As the United States does not now recognize the Soviet Government, Russia is not expected to be heard from, although that nation is counted among the probable participants in the London conference.

The conversations with the various Government heads will be carried on singly rather than in roundtable fashion.

The program was said in a high official source today to contemplate elimination of strangling trade barriers, excessively high tariffs and exchange restrictions.

It does not include discussion of war debts. If war debts are discussed with any individual nation they will be treated as merely one factor in the world economic situation.

Davis Leaves Paris for Berlin.
Norman H. Davis, Roosevelt's special ambassador abroad, left Paris last night for Berlin.

Another possibility is a visit to Prime Minister Bennett of Canada, President Roosevelt having expressed to the Canadian Minister some time ago the hope that the Chief of his Government could visit Washington.

Prime Minister MacDonald notified the President he would sail April 15 but could be in the country only five or six days. He will return April 26 on the Berengaria on which he will make the crossing both ways.

The purpose of the visit as stated by the President in his invitation was the "need for making further progress toward practical disarmament."

BILL TO GUARANTEE DEPOSITS 100 PCT. READY FOR ACTION

Based on Principle of Glass Banking Measure; Steagall and Glass Will Sponsor It.

BILL'S PROVISIONS AND REGULATIONS

$2,000,000,000 Corporation Would Be Created, With Initial Capital of Half Billion; U. S. to Contribute.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A banking reform bill based on the principle of the Glass banking measure and carrying a 100 per cent bank deposit guarantee plan will be introduced by Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee Monday.

The measure's principal was understood by the Alabama Democrat to have the approval of the administration.

In announcing the proposal after a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House, Steagall told newspapermen that Senator Glass (Dem.), would introduce the measure in the Senate.

Steagall called newspapermen to his office to make the announcement. He said the guarantee deposit plan was "in no sense a Government guarantee deposit proposal."

A $2,000,000,000 corporation will be created to handle the guarantee deposit system, he said. It will have an initial capital of $500,000,000 with the right to sell obligations of $1,500,000,000.

Although the Government would contribute to the formation of the corporation, he said, it would not be strictly a Government corporation, and thus not a Government guarantee of deposits.

"The bill will have regulatory provisions; will separate affiliates in about two years from banks and will separate investment banking from commercial banks," he said. "It will require a higher minimum capital of national banks increasing it from $25,000 to $50,000. It will provide for dismissal of bank officials who for any cause are found unfit to serve."

GOV. HORNER RECEIVES DELEGATION OF UNEMPLOYED

Guards Turn Back Many and Thwarted Proposed Demonstration at Springfield, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 7.—Local authorities thwarted plans for a march of 15,000 unemployed on the State capital, but Gov. Horner today received a delegation of 20 representing them.

Only the delegation of 20 was permitted to enter Springfield as Deputy Sheriffs and highway policemen for two days had turned back caravans from several cities intent upon holding a demonstration in the capital. Eight highways into the city were barricaded.

Gov. Horner dismissed his guard of highway policemen from the room while he heard the delegation. John F. Sloan of Westville presented the demands for cash relief, unemployment insurance, a debt moratorium, full rights of organization, guarantee of civil liberties, demobilization of State highway police, withdrawal of the National Guard from the mine fields and repeal of the criminal syndicate and sales tax laws. The Governor also heard a protest against the refusal of authorities to permit the scheduled demonstration. Sloan demanded the release from jail of Earl Lockner, president of the Illinois Committee of Unemployed Councils, who was arrested at Ottawa yesterday. There were three women and 17 men in the delegation.

EX-INSURANCE CHIEF INDICTED

J. I. Reese, Brother, Another, Accused, in Case of $100,000 in Bonds.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 7.—Joseph I. Reese, former State Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, his brother, Lem Reese, Elizabeth attorney, and J. P. Bowers, stock dealer, were indicted by the county grand jury today in connection with the alleged theft of $100,000 in bonds from the Insurance Department.

Charges against the former State official are grand larceny and receiving stolen property. Lem Reese is charged with accessory before the fact to both counts, and four accessory counts were made against Bowers.

CROWDS IN CAFES, HOTELS GIVE BEER ROUSING WELCOME

Cars were pulled up from sidewalks, some of their cargoes billed for points as far distant as California.

The first commercial truck out, after the city delivery fleet, was a transfer line to Mexico and Fulton, Mo.

Three breweries are thus far in operation in Missouri, Anheuser-Busch and the Falstaff Brewing Corporation here, and the Goetz brewery in St. Joseph. All have had large rush orders from towns near the State lines of dry Kansas and Oklahoma.

Busch on Radio Hookup.
August A. Busch Jr., vice-president and general manager of Anheuser-Busch, spoke over a nationwide radio hookup, which carried also the stroke of the brewery clock and the announcement of the departure of the first case of beer for the White House.

He estimated later that 45,000 cases of 24 bottles each, and 3000 31-gallon barrels had been sent out by daylight. Loading and bottling will continue day and night over the week-end.

At the Falstaff plant, Spring and Forest Park avenues, several thousand persons stood around the bunting-draped building, and cheered the departure of the first of a long line of trucks after midnight. About 75 trucks, several of them from points outside the city within a 300-mile radius, were waiting at the Falstaff gates before midnight, and more continued to arrive through the night.

Both breweries gave preference to city deliveries, and the downtown hotels were reached and served in a half-hour or less. The hotels had icing facilities on their trucks.

The hotel dining rooms and coffee shops, some of them open until late, were all ready for the arrival of beer, and their customers, in considerable number though not in any overwhelming force, were also ready and eager for it.

Many ordered late dinners, then sat talking and occasionally singing, with occasional recourse to bottles containing beverages not yet having legal sanction. On some tables, the waiters bringing beer had first to clear away glasses used for the stronger drinks.

Hotel Jefferson had 500 to 600 dining room guests, somewhat more than its customary Saturday night business. As on Saturday nights, the guests danced, and some of them were not at their tables when the serving of beer, heralded by strains from the orchestra, began about 1.

At the Coronado a dancing party of about 400 showed lively enthusiasm, and steins were waved as the waiters appeared with brimming trays.

Few special guests were at the Statler, but at the adjoining hotels Mayfair and Lenox, the new beer-serving facilities were tested by several hundred persons. The first beer, rushed from the Falstaff plant, reached the Mayfair at 12:15.

Count Henry Hoffman, widely acknowledged caterer, was in charge as "wine steward."

The Park Plaza had about 300 guests in the coffee shop and dining room when the first beer was received at 12:25 a. m., and the party continued until after 3. Hotel Chase did not send for a supply of beer, and its dining room was closed.

Hotel drinkers paid from 10 cents a glass up to 35 cents a pint (12-oz.) bottle. The latter price was charged at the Jefferson, for guests who had the bottled beer, which was served in the dining room, and who did not otherwise pay the cover charge made after 10 p. m. The 10-cent rate, made at the Mayfair and elsewhere, was for 10-ounce steins, and a 15-ounce stein was served for 15 cents.

On South Grand boulevard, some restaurants got an early supply of beer, and 10-cent schooners were served at tables and carried to automobiles. Some places announced curb service, but the rule that customers must be served while seated was observed, so far as could be noticed.

The restaurants sold not only to drinkers on the premises, but in "packages" as small as one bottle, for home consumption. Some grocery firms supplied beer to their customers before daylight.

Downtown restaurants today got many demands for beer for breakfast from persons who had not stayed up for an earlier drink. Some commented that, while beer was not usually considered a breakfast drink, it "beats sauerkraut juice."

Some Carry "Growlers."
Some of those who waited around the breweries went to hotels or restaurants in time to have the drinking there. But the greater part of the sidewalk throng wanted beer without a taste of the legalized product. It could be seen that this was a disappointment to some, who had carried tin "growlers" in the hope that a free distribution might occur. They waved these pails at the drivers, some of whom called back, "I haven't had any, either."

To the midnight group within the brewery, August Busch Jr. spoke of the employment afforded by the newly legalized industry. He said that in 16 days the Busch brewery has added 7700 to its force of employees, and will hire more as the market widens. There are now about 2800 on the payroll, he said. Falstaff has about 150 at work.

Both Busch and Alvin Griesbeck, vice-president of Falstaff, said they were not content merely to rejoice in the legalization of beer, but were anxious for early repeal of the eighteenth amendment. In his radio message, Busch said that "the permanency of personal liberty and of the brewing industry" depends upon repeal. He advocated State control systems, the dissociation of malt beverages from hard liquor, and "for all time divorce of the business completely from politics."

"Happy days are here again," he said, and a few minutes later, at the guest bar, announced to the invited group, including men and women of social and political prominence, that "Beer is now being served."

Federal permits, known as stamps, were issued to 3750 persons and firms up to the close of the United States Collector's office yesterday. Most of these permits were for retail sale. Collector Becker's district includes St. Louis and the eastern half of Missouri.

At the office of the State Food and Drug Commissioner, in Jefferson City, permits to sell beer for consumption on the premises had been issued to 2207 persons and firms up to yesterday afternoon, besides 633 permits for sale in packages for home consumption, 222 wholesalers' permits, and the manufacturers' permits of the three breweries now running. This is for and the eastern half of Missouri. The number of applications continued to be large today, and 18 employees of the office were engaged in issuing the stamps and receiving the money.

Until today, beer and malt beverages of more than 1/4 of 1 per cent alcoholic content have not been legally sold since July 1, 1919. On that day the so-called wartime prohibition act went into effect, though the war had ended more than seven months before. Jan. 1, 1920, constitutional prohibition began, under the eighteenth amendment. For some time before July 1, 1919, restrictions on brewing materials, imposed by the Food Administration, had greatly lessened the amount of beer brewed, and had made the quality of some brews unsatisfactory to drinkers.

Little German Bands Welcome Beer
In Milwaukee, Wis., April 7.—Legalized beer came back to Milwaukee today to the tune of "Ach du Lieber Augustin" played by little German bands.

The police estimated that new brew was being sold in some 2000 "soft drink" establishments, with no closing or licensing regulations as yet in effect, and with the customers paying 10 cents for an eight or 10-ounce glass and 15 cents for a 12-ounce bottle.

There was no delay in getting for police to form lines as they started in Milwaukee. Hundreds of trucks were hurried from the breweries promptly after the stroke of midnight to supply clubs and cafes and the handmen tooted their German tunes.

Spectators by the thousands gathered at the breweries to watch beer's re-birth, making it necessary for police to form lines as they watched the trucks depart. Much of the new product, however, was shipped to other cities. Two breweries dispatched 100 carloads each, while another got rid of 80 shortly after the beer ban was lifted.

Much of the beer distributed to Milwaukee residents was for "watch parties" welcoming beer in the homes. The cost was $2.50 a house. The hotels, however, did not participate in the early morning informal celebration, having agreed not to open their tap rooms until 7 a. m.

Airplanes carried some of the beer away, some going to parties being held in Chicago. One was dispatched with a case of beer for President Roosevelt. Every brewery of the city contributed some bottles to the President's case, which was accompanied by a communication assuring him it was sent "with gratitude."

New York Celebrates and Prices Drop in Speakeasies
NEW YORK, April 7.—On Broadway, New Yorkers paraded

early today behind a hearse lettered "Near Beer Is Dead," while a band in bright Bavarian uniforms played dirges and drinking songs. The brewers of the metropolis had refused to deliver before 6 a. m., but by 1 a. m. some hotels, cafes and restaurants had managed to get beer from New Jersey and elsewhere. Throngs celebrated. In speakeasies, where prices tumbled before the competition, customers toasted with "needle beer" and gin) the advent of legal beer.

Alfred E. Smith, old foe of prohibition, found himself the center of felicitations. Brewers hastened to send him their first cases of beer. One dispatched six Clydesdale horses to draw a four-ton brewery stake wagon up to Smith's Fifth avenue home with a case of the new beverage.

to the Government's desire to avoid publicity, is not clear, and the Department of Justice declined to throw any light on the matter. In any event, no further official steps were taken, though one report has it that the department sought unofficially to pledge New York publishers not to bring out the book and succeeded with most but not all of them.

Finally, the department turned to Congress, and, as stated, procured the passage of the official secrets bill by the House. Secretary Hull in the interview already referred to said the bill was drafted by lawyers of the State and Justice departments and of the House Judiciary Committee. There is evidence that the White House was not consulted.

From all quarters the word has come that nothing in the bill is intended to set up a censorship over the press. Senator Borah and others have said that it ought to be clearly limited to the sale of coded or other confidential information by employees of the Government, and this in all probability is about the line that the redrafting will take.

MAN THROWN OUT OF RUMBLE SEAT, KILLED IN CRASH

William M. Ries, 24, Fatally Hurt When Auto Hits Tree on 18th, Between La Salle and Hickory.

William M. Ries, 24-year-old unemployed photographer, 1825 Schild avenue, died at City Hospital at 8 a. m. today of a fractured skull suffered four hours earlier when he was thrown from the rumble seat of an automobile which struck a tree on Eighteenth street between LaSalle and Hickory streets.

The driver of the car, who said he was James Trautwein Jr., 4116 Lafayette avenue, told police he was crowded over to the curb by another machine which was driven on. At City Hospital physicians said he had been drinking but he was not drunk.

Vernon Sisson, 1835 Schild avenue, who was thrown from the rumble seat with Ries, suffered a broken nose. Albert Horlvy, 2015 South Thirteenth street, riding with the driver, sustained a skull injury. William Ludwig, 1740 South Eighteenth street, another occupant of the front seat, was cut and bruised.

Ries is survived by his widowed mother, Mrs. Bridget Ries; a sister and four brothers.

DR. ECKENER COMMENTS ON DISASTER TO AKRON
Says Dropping of Too Much Ballast May Have Caused Trouble.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, famed German authority on dirigibles, last night said the dropping of too much ballast may have caused the Akron crash.

Speaking from Berlin over a National Broadcasting network, Dr. Eckener based his observations on the statements made by Lieutenant-Commander Herbert V. Willey, one of the three survivors of the tragedy.

He pointed out it was a well known fact that a heavy airship aloft pointed its nose upward while a lightened ship invariably dropped altitude, adding:

"A great quantity of water ballast was dropped when the Akron started falling the first time and the airship was brought to its former altitude. It is possible that in such a terrible situation, too much ballast was dropped and the airship was no longer properly trimmed."

Roosevelt's Note to MacDonald And English Premier's Reply

WASHINGTON, April 7.
FOLLOWING is the text of President Roosevelt's invitation to Premier MacDonald of Great Britain to come to Washington:

Ever since my conversations with the British Ambassador at Warm Springs, I have been hopeful that you might find it possible to visit Washington. I should particularly welcome such a visit in the near future for making further progress toward practical disarmament.

In my judgment the world situation calls for realistic action; the people themselves in every nation ask it. I therefore hope that you will find yourself free to come to Washington during the present month. If you can come, I trust that you will stay with us at the White House and bring with you any of your family you may desire.

The reply of Premier MacDonald follows:

I am most touched by your friendly invitation to me to come to Washington to discuss with you the preparations for the world economic conference and the need for making further progress toward practical disarmament. My colleagues with whom I have discussed the matter urge me to agree; and it is with the greatest possible pleasure that I accept your invitation.

If it is convenient to you I will leave England by the Bengaria on April 15, returning by the same boat. I shall be very happy indeed to stay with you at the White House.

White House as the President has requested. Anglo-American economic discussions were resumed meanwhile at the State Department between Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, and Secretary of State Hull.

Following the lines of the earlier conversations they went over matters on the program of the coming world economic conference in London with a view to finding possible contributions by their governments to the success of the meeting.

At the State Department representatives of 13 nations, nine of them countries which owe the United States war debts, called on the Secretary of State yesterday. Indications were that economic matters were discussed.

Daladier Chooses Herriot Who Takes Time to Consider.
PARIS, April 7.—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, leading advocate of payment of the debt to England, said this evening that Premier Daladier had requested him to go to Washington as a member of the French delegation which will discuss the debt issue and the world economic conference with President Roosevelt.

"I did not accept immediately," he said. "I asked for time to think it over."

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 7.—Gov. Pinchot today vetoed a bill which provided for a State convention to ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The Governor said the measure was not a fair bill.

The bill provided for 51 delegates from each of the 34 congressional districts and 17 at large. Pinchot in his veto message said he was not in favor of a convention based on 50 senatorial districts because it would secure "the fairest representation of all people."

He said by congressional apportionment, which pretends to electors of districts of this voice on this question, and provides a means for nullifying their wishes.

Boarder Pleads Guilty of Murder of Woman and Two Children in Grand Rapids, Mich., Home.

By the Associated Press. The sentence is the maximum for first degree murder under Michigan law. Bedford had admitted to officials that he strangled to death Mrs. Bedford and her son, Carl, 8, placed her 5-month-old son in a gas-filled bag and then strangled him. He also admitted to the murder of her 2-year-old daughter, Margaret, by smothering her.

Bedford had been principal of the Turner Public School here for three years. Before that, he held positions in schools in Ohio and St. Charles, Mo. A divorced wife and two children live in Tennessee.

Accused Banker Furnishes Bond

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer. HENRY P. MUELLER, President of the Cherokee Bank, on his appearance at the Federal building yesterday.

CHEROKEE BANK PRESIDENT GIVES $25,000 BOND

Henry P. Mueller, Charged With Embezzlement of $50,000, Says He Will Plead Not Guilty.

Henry P. Mueller, president of Cherokee National Bank, surrendered at the Federal Building yesterday afternoon to make bond on a charge of embezzling $50,000 of the bank's funds. Three other officers and employees of the bank, jointly accused with him, were released on bond Monday.

At bond hearings before the Federal Building judge, Mueller and three other officers of the bank were not asked whether they would plead guilty or not guilty, but Mueller volunteered the information that he would plead not guilty.

Mueller was accompanied to the Federal Building by his attorney, Clarence E. Martin, and four friends who signed his $25,000 bond. They were Leonard and Catherine Holdenreid, Fred Heger and Barbara Vedder.

The bond is returnable, as are those of the others accused, before the Commissioner May 3. It is anticipated, however, the hearing will be continued until the matter has not been placed before a Federal Grand Jury by that time.

In the office of the United States Marshal, Mueller's fingerprints were taken, as is the practice with prisoners arrested on Federal warrants. He was escorted then to the Commissioner's office where the bond was signed. Mueller declined to make a statement, but posed for newspaper photographers.

Mueller suffered a nervous breakdown a week ago when a large shortage in the bank was discovered by national bank examiners. He had been ill at his home, 3630 Humphrey street, and in technical custody of his attorney.

Harry G. Freiert, vice-president of the bank, has aided bank examiners in tracing the shortage which may approach $200,000. Freiert is charged with embezzlement, with Mueller, Rudolph Provaznik, the assistant cashier, and Edward Remmert, the bookkeeper.

TWO MEN AND TWO WOMEN CAUGHT, HELD AS ROBBERS

Captured by County Officers in Auto Chase—Men Identified in Oil Station Holdups.

Two men and two women were held at Clayton jail today pending investigation of a series of gasoline station holdups in the city Wednesday night and again last night. Both men have been identified by station attendants, according to police.

Deputy Constables Juengel and Wohlschlaeger of Carondelet Township were riding on Bayless avenue in Luxemburg and had a police broadcast of two holdups and an attempted holdup a few minutes before. Suddenly an automobile with the men and women in it sped by the officers and into Telegraph road. The officers gave chase.

They reported seeing the automobile slow down as it passed several gas stations. The car pulled to a stop at Lemay Ferry and Telegraph roads and the lights were extinguished. The officers drew up in front.

Juengel and Wohlschlaeger reported a loaded revolver was thrown from the machine and that an empty automatic pistol was in a pocket of the car. The men said they were Jerry A. Quillo, 42-year-old merchant, 1600 North Nineteenth street, and Francis Adams, 22, a chemist, 906 North Twentieth street. The women were booked as Miss Eva Joseph, 41, and Miss Hazel McGuire, 24, both of the North Twentieth street address. All denied any connection with the holdups.

St. Louis police took Robert Licklider, a gasoline station attendant, to Clayton and reported he identified the men as the pair who had held him up at a station at 6832 Gravois avenue at 8:40 o'clock last night and required him to ride in an automobile with them and two women. Licklider said he was robbed of $7 and put out at Quincy street and Salzburger avenue.

Adams was identified, according to police, by Wendell Bowman, attendant at 1175 South Kingshighway, and John Fleishman, in charge of a station at 343 South Vandeventer, as one of three men who held them up Wednesday night. In each of the holdups Wednesday night and last night the victims were compelled to ride a short distance with them.

Robbery That Failed. Fifteen minutes before Licklider was held up, David Riding, an attendant at 4918 Southwest avenue, was forced in an automobile, robbed of $7 and put out at Botanical and Southwest avenues. Twenty minutes after the Licklider holdup, two men in an automobile attempted to rob Lester Paulus at 8030 Ivory avenue. He ducked behind a gasoline pump and fled across the street.

The third holdup Wednesday night occurred at 8:30 a. m. at South Kingshighway within 10 minutes of the other robberies. Elmer was ordered into an automobile, robbed of $21, then ejected.

CACHE OF COUNTERFEITS UNDER M'KINLEY BRIDGE

Secret Service Find $800 in Bogus Money on Trip From Chicago. Eight counterfeit $100 bills were dug up under the east end of the McKinley Bridge yesterday by Secret Service operatives on information given by Frankie Silver, arrested in Chicago recently. The operatives said Silver admitted that he came here last month with a woman and James P. Moran, who was arrested by St. Louis police March 18 when he attempted to pass a counterfeit bill at a downtown store. Moran is held in default of $25,000 bond. Silver and the woman have furnished $5000 bond each.

BUNGSTARTERS

FOR all the merriment there were only seven arrests for drunkenness last night, about half the usual number. Of these only three said they had been drinking the new beer and each of them said he had quenched his thirst with stronger stuff while waiting the new brew.

Eight policemen were assigned to the vicinity of the Anheuser-Busch plant, but as the throng grew hurry calls were sent for more, and when the celebration reached its peak, about 2 a. m., there were 35 on duty.

The celebration began to abate about 2 a. m., and by 3 things had quieted down to about normal. Automobile traffic was unusually heavy for several hours after midnight.

Among the hundreds of trucks of all descriptions which waited at the breweries were some from other Missouri cities and towns in Illinois, Arkansas and Iowa. Distributors pressed into service all kinds of delivery equipment to make certain they would be supplied promptly.

There were crowds at many restaurants throughout the city, and some of the older ones, favorite eating and drinking places in other years, were filled to overflowing. At Broadway and Gasconade street, a restaurant was jammed with celebrators and others, who could not get in, passed their money in and foaming steins were passed out hand to hand.

Jefferson City got its first St. Louis beer at 2:35 a. m. by airplane. George Gates, pilot for the Richard Gates Flying Service, left Curtiss-Stearns Airport shortly after 1 a. m. with four cases of Falstaff for Gov. Park, Secretary of State Brown and Senator Brogan and Representative Roberts. The beer was a gift from the Falstaff company. Anheuser-Busch sent complimentary cases to the flying service.

Four youths who wandered into the Mart Building, Twelfth boulevard and Spruce street, at 1 a. m., met the watchman and demanded to know where the "beer dance" was being held. Indignant when he told them there was none and ordered them out, one of their number punched the watchman. Another seized the watchman's revolver when it fell to the floor and all ran out. They were arrested nearby and held for peace disturbance. The revolver was found in the street.

Police were called early today to the Elks Club, 3019 Lindell boulevard, on a report of a disturbance there. All was quiet when they arrived and they were told there had been a controversy over whose turn it was to buy the next round.

Otto Mathi, general representative of Anheuser-Busch, greeted the return of beer with a stein which was the last filled out of the last barrel of beer at Tony Faust's, famous downtown restaurant of pre-prohibition days. Mathi had been keeping the stein in anticipation of today.

DR. KERWIN DIES AFTER FOUR MONTH FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE

Head of Gynecology Department at St. Mary's Hospital Succumbs to Pus Infection of Heart.

After facing death for four months, Dr. William Kerwin, head of the department of gynecology and obstetrics at St. Mary's Hospital, finally succumbed yesterday at the hospital to a streptococcus infection of the heart. He was 47 years old.

Associates of Dr. Kerwin determined last November that rheumatism and a heart ailment from which he had been suffering had finally led to the infection of the heart, but they were unable definitely to trace the origin.

Searching all the medical literature on the subject they found that only two cases of streptococcus infection of the heart were recorded, and that in both cases there was considerable doubt that the diagnosis was correct.

DR. KERWIN DIES AFTER FOUR MONTH FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE

Head of Gynecology Department at St. Mary's Hospital Succumbs to Pus Infection of Heart.

After facing death for four months, Dr. William Kerwin, head of the department of gynecology and obstetrics at St. Mary's Hospital, finally succumbed yesterday at the hospital to a streptococcus infection of the heart. He was 47 years old.

Associates of Dr. Kerwin determined last November that rheumatism and a heart ailment from which he had been suffering had finally led to the infection of the heart, but they were unable definitely to trace the origin.

Searching all the medical literature on the subject they found that only two cases of streptococcus infection of the heart were recorded, and that in both cases there was considerable doubt that the diagnosis was correct.

Dr. Kerwin, forced from active practice a few days after diagnosis of his trouble, followed his case with interest and to his wife, who knew his death was inevitable, often expressed the hope that the determined fight being made by his associates to curb the disease might prove successful.

Meanwhile specimens of blood were sent to every large biochemical laboratory in the country with an appeal to find some agent to stop the progress of the disease. Research workers on the St. Louis University Medical School staff worked to develop a remedy. Doctors at St. Louis Medical Society meetings were asked to give their advice that might assist in the fight.

Several times laboratories wired that they thought they had a possible remedy and their preparations were rushed to St. Louis by airplane. Finally, with all available resources exhausted, Mrs. Kerwin accompanied her husband in February on a trip to Panama, hoping he might get some benefit from a change in climate, but physicians in the tropics advised him that he was making no progress and told him to return to his four children before death came.

He returned to St. Louis March 6 and was taken at once to St. Mary's. Three days ago, St. Louis University research workers took to the hospital a newly developed preparation which seemed to improve his condition for a time. However, he began to sink rapidly Wednesday.

Dr. Kerwin was graduated from Washington University Medical School in 1907 and after 17 years in private practice joined the teaching staff of St. Louis University. He was to have been head of the department of gynecology and obstetrics at the new Desloge Hospital.

He was married in February, 1913, to Miss Myra Stromberg, daughter of Ben P. Stromberg, former member of the Board of Education, with whom he eloped to Arcadia, Mo. Dr. Kerwin was the Stromberg family doctor. The marriage, and the bride's adoption of the Catholic faith of her husband, received the blessing of her father who had reared his family in the Jewish faith. Later his son, Hunt Stromberg, now a moving picture director at Hollywood, married Dr. Kerwin's sister.

Dr. Kerwin's children are Mary Jane, 18 years old; Myra Elizabeth, 17; Virginia Lee, 15, and William Kerwin Jr., 14. The Kerwin home is at 23 Cornell avenue, University City. His sister has been in St. Louis for several weeks at the home.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow at the home of Dr. Kerwin at 23 Cornell avenue, University City. His sister has been in St. Louis for several weeks at the home.

Later his son, Hunt Stromberg, now a moving picture director at Hollywood, married Dr. Kerwin's sister.

Dr. Kerwin's children are Mary Jane, 18 years old; Myra Elizabeth, 17; Virginia Lee, 15, and William Kerwin Jr., 14. The Kerwin home is at 23 Cornell avenue, University City. His sister has been in St. Louis for several weeks at the home.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow at the home of Dr. Kerwin at 23 Cornell avenue, University City. His sister has been in St. Louis for several weeks at the home.

JANET GAYNOR GETS DIVORCE

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Janet Gaynor, motion picture star, today obtained a divorce from her writer husband, Lydell Peck.

Miss Gaynor took the witness stand to testify how her movie career caused a rift in the family relations. Peck continually criticized his wife's film work and objected to her staying late at the studio, Miss Gaynor asserted.

ROBBER KILLED IN LEAP, LEAVES CHURCH $8570

S. G. Pintarich Fatally Hurt in Laclede Hotel Holdup; $500 Willed Pastor.

A second will made by Stephen G. Pintarich, also known as Price, who was killed in a leap from the second floor at the Laclede Hotel on March 12 after he had shot and wounded a guest in an attempted holdup, was filed for probate today. It directs that $8570 insurance go to Frieden's Evangelical Church, "to be used as the directors see fit."

The will, dated April 25, 1932, seven weeks later than a will previously filed in Probate Court, also leaves $500 to the Rev. Paul Preis, pastor of Frieden's Church, and directs that the remaining space on Pintarich's lot in Frieden's Cemetery be used for the burial of orphans of members of the congregation. As is the case in the first will, Pintarich left $1 to his estranged wife.

In the earlier will Pintarich requested that he be buried in a $600 metal casket and that $600 additional be spent on his funeral. He directed that $400 be paid to Mrs. Minnie Bauman, who, he wrote, lost that amount in a stock transaction in which he was agent. After setting aside $200 as a trust fund for the children of his late wife, George, Wilbert and Evelyn Anger, and bequeathing $200 to the Rev. Mr. Preis, Pintarich left the rest of his estate to his attorney, Charles A. McIntyre, who was named executor. The attorney's share included property at 4226 North Florissant avenue, where Mrs. Price resides with the children of her husband's former wife.

Under the second will Attorney McIntyre receives the North Florissant avenue property, but is replaced by the Rev. Preis as executor. McIntyre's residue share is considerably less because of the bequest to the church.

Pintarich, a former convict, shot Ben F. Morrow, 66, of Athensville, Ill., after knocking his victim down with a rifle. Morrow fought his assailant, attracting the attention of other guests, who called the house detective. Finding that he was trapped, Pintarich leaped out the window. Morrow recovered from a bullet wound in the chest.

PINCHOT VETOES BILL FOR RATIFICATION CONVENTION

Pennsylvania Governor Terms Measure Based on Congressional Districts Unfair. By the Associated Press. HARRISBURG, Pa., April 7.—Pinchot today vetoed the bill which provided for a State convention to ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The Governor said the measure was not a fair bill. The bill provided for 51 delegates, one from each of the 34 congressional districts and 17 at large.

Pinchot in his veto message said he was ready to sign a bill providing for a convention based on the 34 senatorial districts because it would secure "the fairest representation of all people."

He said he could not approve the present bill, which pretends to give to electors or districts of this State a voice on this question, and clearly provides a means for nullifying their wishes.

DEMOCRATS SEEK COMPROMISE ON STATE DRY REPEAL

Caucus in Missouri House Decides to Let Present Law Stand but to Lighten Penalties.

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—
The Brogan bill proposing outright repeal of the State bone dry law has been discarded by the Democratic majority in the House and a compromise measure, embodying repeal of parts of the law, including the drastic felony sections, and a revision of the regulatory provisions, is being drafted by a special committee.
House leaders this afternoon agreed to defer action on the proposed amendments for the Brogan repeal bill until Monday afternoon.

The delay was agreed upon because of the light attendance in the House, which was working with slightly more than a quorum, and the desire of a number of the St.
Louis representatives to return to St. Louis this afternoon.

The compromise measure is designed to harmonize differences of opinion between House anti-prohibitionists and drys on repeal of the bone dry act, and to provide a substitute law which would serve as a State enforcement act pending action on repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution and later as a regulatory law, temporarily at least, in the event the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

Change on Prescriptions.
Amendments being drafted by the special committee would repeal all sections of the bone dry law which define in certain offenses as felonies punishable by prison sentences, and would classify all offenses under the act as misdemeanors. The mis-deemeanor penalties in the act would be made lighter. Limitations on issuance of whisky prescriptions by physicians would be revised and liberalized to conform to recent changes in the Federal law by Congress.

General provisions of the present bone dry law for control of illicit liquor traffic would be retained, with some revision. The act would be modified throughout to eliminate any conflicts with the law passed by this Legislature, and now in force, defining beer with a content of 3.2 per cent of alcohol, by weight, as non-intoxicating.

This course was agreed on in a Democratic majority caucus held yesterday afternoon, following a row in the House over demands of anti-prohibition members, headed by the St. Louis and St. Louis County delegations, that the Brogan bill previously passed by the Senate, be brought up for passage by the House.

The attempt to put the bill up for passage, when it was reached on the calendar, resulted in a stormy scene between drys who insisted the House members had entered into a "gentleman's agreement" not to pass a bone dry repeal bill and anti-prohibitionists who declared they had not entered into such an agreement and were not bound by it.

Stormy Scene in House.
Calling of the caucus to iron out the differences abruptly terminated a move by House leaders to kill the Brogan bill on a motion for indefinite postponement and ended a disorderly scene in which most of the members were loudly shouting and few, if any, were listening. Speaker Meredith almost shattered his heav-est gavel in an effort to restore order.

The "gentleman's agreement" in which dry members agreed to aid in passage of the 3.2 per cent beer measure in the House, if the repealists dropped plans to pass a bone dry repeal bill, was entered into several weeks ago in a Democratic caucus on the beer bill. In keeping with it the repealists killed two House bills, identical with the Brogan bill from the Senate, which would have repealed the State prohibition enforcement law.

The demand that the Brogan bill be pressed was presented by St.
Louis members in the caucus, but they agreed to go along with the course finally adopted. Other majority members urged that it was inadvisable to repeal the bone dry law at this time without substituting an effective regulatory measure. Chaotic enforcement conditions and possible lawlessness would result from outright repeal, it was said, and might have an adverse effect in Missouri on ratifying the amendment to the Federal Constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment. A convention to consider ratification of the repeal amendment likely will be convened in Missouri in October.

Sentiment shown in the caucus indicated the Brogan bill would not have mustered the 76 votes required for passage in the House, if it had been put to the test. About 110 of the 149 House members were present yesterday. The House membership includes 139 Democrats and 10 Republicans.

DON'TS FOR DRINKERS OF THE NEW 3.2 BEER

Attorney-General Lists Law Violations for Which Consumer May Be Liable.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—
Beer drinkers may be fined or imprisoned for violations of the law relating to sale and consumption of the new "non-intoxicating" 3.2 per cent beer, Attorney-General McKittick has decided.

The Attorney-General announced that any beer consumer will be liable to a fine up to $1000, imprisonment up to one year, or both, who shall:

1. Pour into, mix with, or add to any non-intoxicating beer any alcohol or other liquid, alcohol cube or any ingredient that will increase or tend to increase the alcoholic content of such non-intoxicating beer.

2. Open any original package containing non-intoxicating beer on the premises where purchased.

3. Drink any non-intoxicating beer purchased in the original package on the premises where purchased.

4. Drink any non-intoxicating
beer purchased in the original package in any place of business wherein merchandise (including food and drink sold and served for consumption at the place of sale), is kept or offered for sale.

Every consumer should know, McKittick said, that the seller has a permit; that the original package containing the non-intoxicating beer bears the label of the brewer and the certificate of the Food and Drug Commissioner; that bottles

beer bear the label of the brewer, and that the cap bears the full name of the brewer. Any violation of the foregoing should be reported immediately to the State Food and Drug Commissioner.

ICKES ASKS CHICAGO TEACHERS TO DELAY PLEA TO ROOSEVELT

Secretary of Interior Suggests Indefinite Postponement of Proposed Trip.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Secretary of Interior Ickes, himself a Chicagoan, said last night he again had advised Chicago school teachers to postpone indefinitely their proposed trip to present their troubles to President Roosevelt.

It was learned that little hope remained among Illinois legislators for enactment of the proposed amendment to the Wagner bill which would permit the Chicago School Board to borrow $22,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with which to pay teachers many months of back salaries. The Wagner measure is pending before the House. It would enable the school board to post its tax warrants as collateral for loans.

LIVING COST DROP HERE ABOUT U. S. AVERAGE

Decrease of 21.9 Pct. From Reduction at Birmingham, Ala.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—The cost-of-living index of Birmingham, Ala., dropped 26 per cent from 1928 to 1933, while the figure for the nation as a whole, as announced by President Roosevelt in making the Federal per cent decrease, only 21.7 per cent. Seattle showed the smallest decrease with 18.6 per cent.

City-by-city percentages were computed for the same period, with the same set of figures and by the same methods used by the Labor Department in reaching the 21.7 per cent figure cited by the President. Computations included 32 principal cities.

Living costs decreased more than 21.7 per cent in Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Jacksonville, Mobile, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Birmingham, Indianapolis, Memphis, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. New Orleans is the only "average" city having a decrease of 21.7 per cent.

Cities showing the smallest decrease in living costs since the first half of 1928 are Seattle, Portland, Me.; San Francisco and Oakland, Cal.; Kansas City, Minneapolis and New York City.

While 1932 was the year taken as a base for the first half of 1928 for the nationwide average, the base year was not the same in city-by-city studies. An official of the Bureau of Statistics said that variations would not affect the percentage of change by cities for the period.

WHAT LIFE IN FOREST CAMPS WILL BE LIKE

Three "Squarest" Meals, Welfare and Recreation Aid Planned.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—It won't be easy, but the life of the Forestry Conservation Corps being organized will be in striking contrast with the punishing routine of the rugged lumberjack who went into the woods before them.

The old logger worked in the winter, often in severe cold. There were long hours, usually seven days a week. The food was heavy and pretty much the same.

Now comes the Conservation Corps recruit to build up the forest thinned out by his predecessor. He will work a maximum of 40 hours, five days each week, and in the warmer months of the year. The forest service promises he will be fed three of the "squarest" meals known to man each day.

Crews of 20 to 100 Workers. Recruits—The jobs of the city will work in crews of from 20 to 100 men living in army tents. Camp sites will be moved in many cases once or oftener each week, depending on the time required to complete a project.

Welfare organizations, including the Y. M. C. A., are planning to supply recreation. The Knights of Columbus and other organizations expect to contribute to the amusement. There will be movies, baseball clubs will be organized and library service provided. Hospital tents will give necessary first aid treatment.

Cooks will be drawn from the ranks of the new men. In some cases the Forest Service will assign one or more men, technically trained to supervise the camp. "Straw bosses" to direct smaller groups on projects requiring only a few men will be selected from the recruits who have knowledge of woodmanship.

Travel From Camp to Camp. Travel from one camp site to another will vary in different sections of the country. In the South and Eastern forests roads are well enough developed to make movements by motor truck possible. In Idaho and other mountain states trains of pack horses will be needed. In Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan canoes will often be pressed into service for lake and river travel.

A tentative daily routine: 6 to 6:30 a. m., rising; 6:30 to 7:30, breakfast; 8 to 12 noon, labor; 12 to 1 p. m., dinner; 1 to 5, labor; 5:30 to 6, recreation; 6 to 6:30, supper; 6:30 to 10, recreation, reading; 10, "lights out."

BOARD OF ALDERMEN ENDS SESSION TODAY

13 Republicans Go Out of Office; Kuhs Wields Gavel Last Time.

The annual session of the Board of Aldermen will end this afternoon. The final meeting was called for 4 o'clock.

Thirteen Republican Aldermen, if they attend, will be present for the last time. Nine of them were defeated for re-election last Tuesday in the Democratic landslide, two failed of renomination in the primary and two did not seek to return to the board.

Alderman Edward L. Kuhs, First Ward, vice-president of the board, is to wield the gavel for the last time. He is acting president, since President Neun is Acting Mayor in Mayor Miller's absence. Neun, defeated for Mayor, will serve as aldermanic head for two more years.

Aldermen, besides Kuhs, who were defeated Tuesday, are W. F. Niederluecke, his cousin, A. H. Niederluecke, Edward W. Wiehe, Louis Fischer, Martin D. Lehmann, John A. Fett, Thomas S. Watts and William J. Studt. Those who lost in the primary are Rudolph H. Brock and Clarence C. Kaufmann. Harry P. Rietling, Fifteenth Ward, did not seek re-election. John Neu Jr., Thirteenth Ward, made an unsuccessful race for the Republican nomination for Mayor.

The board held a special meeting yesterday to handle last-minute routine matters. The new board, which will have a Democratic majority, 16 to 13, will convene on April 18.

Yesterday the Legislation Committee decided to kill a bill amending the billboard and sign law by making no report on it. The bill would have permitted erection of billboards within five feet of the front property line, instead of 15 feet, and the erection of signs protruding 10 feet from the buildings, instead of three feet. A favorable report on the bill had been voted last week, but it was recommitted because of opposition.

Representatives of civic, manufacturing and downtown business interests and of the City Plan Commission, American Institute of Architects and the Safety Council opposed the bill at a public hearing yesterday. They said signs extending more than three feet from buildings would offer numerous hazards and interfere with sight of smaller signs. Various hazards in connection with the billboard clause also were mentioned. Both provisions were denounced as tending to make the city less attractive.

Two representatives of sign and billboard interests, which had been heard previously, disagreed briefly with the arguments presented yesterday. The bill was drafted in the city building division at the request of sign and billboard men.

MISSING WITNESS RETURNS TO DENY NEGROES' ATTACK

By the Associated Press.
DECATUR, Ala., April 7.—Arguments in the trial of Heywood Patterson, first of seven Negroes to face retrial for an alleged attack on two white girls in the Scottsnouncement and denied her previous testimony. In the first trial of the Negroes at Scottsboro, Ruby said she was assaulted.

WOMAN WITNESS IN SCOTTSBORO CASE

The girl appeared just as the defense prepared to rest its case for Patterson.

She said she went to New York and worked for "Marguerite" she didn't know her last name. She met Dr. Foadick, pastor of Riverside Baptist Church, she said, and he sent her to Birmingham to see Dr. Charles Clingman, an Episcopal rector there. A social worker brought her here from Birmingham.

Mrs. Victor Price, the other alleged victim, was present when Ruby entered. The two women appeared to be unfriendly. Miss Bates said she told her story at the first Scottsboro trial "because I was excited."

Only Remembers Marguerite.
Through a long cross-examination, in which at times she was obviously flustered and hesitated on some questions, she reiterated that she was not attacked.

"I can't remember," she replied to several questions propounded by Attorney-General Thomas E. Knight Jr., particularly as to the surname of a woman for whom she said she worked while in New York. "Marguerite is all I remember," she said.

Lester Carter of Knoxville, Tenn., who was on the stand during the morning, was brought in and the girl identified him. Carter in the forenoon, in a three-hour recital during which he gestured almost constantly, told of a clandestine meeting with Miss Bates at which Mrs. Price and Jack Tilley were present and of intimacies with her.

Taking up a recital of her movements from March 23, 1931, until she was taken from a Southern Railway freight train at Paint Rock, Ala., she admitted intimacies testified to in the forenoon by Carter.

See said she spent the night with Carter, Jack Tilley and Mrs. Price in a box car when the "hobo" trip was planned.

On March 24, 1931, she said, she, Mrs. Price and Carter caught a freight train to Chattanooga and there they met Orville Gilley (Carolina Slim) and spent the night in a "hobo swamp."

Flight in Next Car.
Unable to find work, she said the four boarded a freight train the next day to return to Huntsville and rode a box car to Stevenson.

"Mrs. Victoria, Lester and Gilley boarded a 'box car' with us, we rode to Stevenson, and there we got in a 'dolla," she said. The fight between the Negroes and seven white boys occurred in the next car, she testified.

When taken from the train at Paint Rock she said she was excited and continued in that state in jail.

"She (Victoria) told me if I didn't say it (that she had been attacked) they would put us in jail," the girl testified when asked by Leibowitz if anyone told her what to say.

The girl said she came here from New York, leaving there Monday and going to Birmingham.

"I certainly did," she said, when Leibowitz asked her if she met Dr. Harry Emerson Foadick, pastor of Riverside Baptist Church, in New York.

The girl said she told him her

GREAT LAKES SAILORS ASK FOR END OF 12-HOUR DAY

Appeal to President and State Officials for "New Deal" in Working Time on Vessels.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, April 7.—Elimination of 12-hour working days is asked by the Sailors' Union of the Great Lakes today in letters sent to President Roosevelt and Federal and State officials. The letters, signed by C. M. Goshorn, acting secretary, asserted: "Five thousand Great Lakes sailors, both union and non-union, earnestly feel that the time has arrived for a 'new deal' in working hours on board bulk freight vessels."

Exploitation of these sailors under the 12-hour day is a disgrace to American industry and should be ended now. . . the bulk freight vessels owners of the Great Lakes are the last important group to cling to the obsolete two-watch system or 12-hour day." The letters listed 22 steamship companies which Goshorn said employ the 12-hour day.

story and that Dr. Foadick sent her to Birmingham to Dr. Clingman.

Got Money From Pastor.
Taking up cross-examination, Attorney-General Knight said "Where did you get that hat and coat?"

"I bought it," she replied, and hesitated. When asked who gave her the money, she said in an almost inaudible voice, "Dr. Foadick."

Knight switched to her disappearance and she said she had gone from her home in Huntsville to Montgomery with Rosetta Brown and two "boy friends."

It took her 12 days to make her way from Montgomery to New York, she said, hitch-hiking to Chattanooga and there deciding to go to New York.

She admitted writing her mother that she was with "Mr. Jackson," whom she could not identify further. Later during the examination she said he had given her $20, and that she had $15 of her own when they left Huntsville.

Worked at Tourist Camp.
Knight asked her who came from New York with her. She replied she came alone on money borrowed from the woman for whom she worked.

Knight asked what she did in New York and she said she was employed at a tourist camp at $9 a week.

The woman could give no explanation for going to Dr. Foadick. She said the woman for whom she worked gave her Dr. Foadick's address.

"Why did she give it to you?" Knight asked.

"I asked for it," she replied, and said she did so because she had seen his name in a newspaper.

POLICE HUNTING BEER THIEVES NAB 4 MEN IN CHASE

Wild Auto Pursuit in West End After Supposed Attempt to Stop Two Brewery Trucks.

After a hot chase through the West End early today, two detectives, on the beer truck robbers, captured four men in an automobile, which they reported, had been stopped suddenly a few minutes before in front of two loaded Anheuser-Busch trucks on Delmar boulevard.

During the chase the driver of the automobile five times circled the district bounded by Kensington avenue, Union boulevard, Cates avenue and Kingshighway boulevard, with the police automobile always close behind.

The four men in the car were Felix McDonald, variously known as Francis and "Hooley" McDonald, convicted kidnaper; Wynn Urban, Cass avenue gangster, under conviction in Iowa on an attempted bank robbery charge and recently acquitted here on a charge of complicity in the million-dollar Grand National Bank robbery; Eugene Tebeau, ex-convict Cuckoo gangster, and Frank Wortman. All declined to make statements.

Order on Beer Shipments.

The chase began at 2:30 a. m., shortly after Detectives James Shelton and Forrest McDermid had begun to follow the two trucks west in Delmar boulevard in conformity with an order to policemen, broadcast by the department radio every 15 minutes during the night, to be on the watch for possible attempts to steal beer shipments.

A half block east of Kingshighway boulevard an automobile pulled out from the curb and stopped so shortly that the first of the beer trucks struck it lightly and the second had to stop. As it did, a second car pulled from the curb and stopped beside the second truck.

The men in the cars caught sight of the detectives and the chase began. The policemen set out after the first car followed it north on Kingshighway, west on Kensington, north on Union boulevard, east on Cates avenue. Over these streets they traveled five times at high speed, the men in the eight-cylinder car in front vainly trying to out speed the policemen in the four-cylinder car of the same make that followed them.

Rope and Wire Found.

After the men had been crowded finally to the curb, the policemen found in the car a sugar sack, a coil of rope and some wire. The men were unarmed, but the detectives recovered on Kensington avenue, a loaded .45-caliber automatic pistol which they said had been thrown from the car during the chase. The serial number had been filed off the weapon.

After the chase the detectives went back to the point where the beer trucks had stopped, but the drivers had gone on their way.

McDonald, who was driving the automobile in the chase, is at liberty on appeal bond on a 10-year sentence for the kidnapping of Oscar Johnson, wealthy son of the late Oscar Johnson, one of the founders of the International Shoe Co. Urban's conviction for attempted bank robbery, in which he is at liberty on appeal bond, was voted by a jury in Des Moines.

TEACHERS URGED TO WORK TO KEEP SCHOOLS OPEN

Teachers were advised to use every effort to keep Illinois schools open in an address yesterday by Francis G. Blair, Illinois State Superintendent of Schools. He spoke before the southern division of the State Teachers' Association, meeting in East St. Louis.

Blair said there was a crisis in education because of the closing of schools, due to the economic situation.

Addresses on educational subjects were made today by Charles W. Gilkey, faculty member of Chicago University, and by Frank L. Eversull, principal of the East St. Louis High School. Sectional meetings were held at the high schools. The conference will close tonight.

STATE SALES TAX MEASURE KILLED FOR THIS SESSION

Senate Committee Rejects Bill on Ground That Such Legislation Should Not Be Rushed.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7. — Gov. Park's plea to the Legislature for enactment of a selective sales tax to relieve taxpayers of a part of their property taxes was rejected by the Senate Ways and Means Committee yesterday afternoon, and there will be no sales tax law passed at the present session of the Legislature.

The bill for a 1 per cent stamp tax on many commodities and services was passed in the House last week and came before the Senate committee yesterday. Notwithstanding the Governor's interest in the measure the committee voted that it be reported to the Senate with the recommendation that it do not pass. While votes in committee are not disclosed, a member said the committee was "almost unanimous" in opposition to the bill.

The committee took the position that it was inadvisable to rush through such an important piece of legislation in the closing days of the Legislature and that if a sales tax must be adopted the Governor should call the Legislature into special session later in the year and a tax bill be worked out with care and study.

No Special Session.

After the committee's action had become known to the Governor he indicated he had no present intention of convening the Legislature in special session. He expressed doubt that there would be sufficient funds for the public schools in many districts to remain in session for their usual terms. "The State can get along by trimming," he said, "but I don't see what the schools will do."

The Governor disclosed that an early estimate of revenues for 1933 and 1934 would not materialize and said that he now thought the revenue would be about $2,000,000 less than the 1932 estimate. He estimated that the total revenue for the two years will be about $19,000,000. As one-third of this is appropriated to the public schools, less than $13,000,000 will be available for general State purposes.

State Superintendent of Schools Lee has estimated that during the next two years the State can pay to the schools only 25 per cent of the amount necessary to meet the minimum requirements under the school law passed two years ago. Last year there were funds to pay only 44 per cent.

Under the Governor's plans one-half the funds to be derived from the proposed sales tax would have gone to the public schools, replacing local taxation to the same amount.

The sentiment against the sales tax was strong from the time the Governor recommended it in a special message to the Legislature March 14. Some legislators expressed opposition to it in purchase of a sales tax. Others opposed the Governor's proposal for a selective sales tax, saying they preferred a general tax on all purchases.

Adverse Action a Surprise.

After the bill was passed in the House there was no anticipation that it would be killed by the Senate Ways and Means Committee. It was thought that as a courtesy to the Governor the committee would report favorably a tax bill of some kind.

In the committee, however, the sentiment was again against the bill to the floor of the Senate. It was feared by some of its opponents that if it reached the floor the Governor might bring to bear sufficient influence to pass it. Others who opposed it preferred to make their opposition effective behind the closed doors of the committee room rather than be forced to vote openly against the Governor in the Senate.

It is the general opinion among members of the Senate that the condition of the State finances will prove to be such that it will be necessary for the Governor to call a special session in September or October to pass a sales tax bill or provide another source of revenue.

The bill which was killed by the committee would not have increased the funds for general State purposes, as all the receipts under it would go to the schools to pay the costs now assessed against the counties for the care of insane patients in the State hospitals.

YOUTH SEIZED FOR MURDER IN KILLING OF MAN BY AUTO

Prisoner at Elgin, Ill. Says He Planned to Frighten Mail Carrier as Joke.

By the Associated Press.

ELGIN, Ill., April 7.—Earl Miller, 18 years old, son of a coal dealer, was arrested yesterday on a murder charge as the result of the death of Arthur Tracy, 24, mail carrier.

Tracy was run down by an automobile last week. Authorities quoted Miller as saying he did not intend to hit him with his car, but planned merely to frighten him as a climax to a series of jokes the two had been playing on each other.

BROADWAY CAR RIDERS WANT TRANSFER TO GRAVOIS BUSES

Four St. Louisans Send Letter to State Public Service Commission.

Four St. Louisans have sent a letter to the State Public Service Commission protesting against the refusal of the St. Louis Public Service Co. to permit direct transfers between Gravois buses and Broadway cars.

The Gravois buses now run on Market street between Twelfth boulevard and Sixth street, the eastern terminus of the line being at Sixth street, one block west of Broadway. Those signing the letter of protest assert it would be a great convenience and save time if they were allowed to make direct transfer between the bus and the Broadway car by walking the intervening block. Under the company's rule the transfer has to be made by means of another car line running over Pine street between Broadway and Twelfth.

Explaining the situation, S. W. Greenland, general manager of the company, said the present routing of the Gravois bus over Market street is temporary, pending completion of the Market widening, and that eventually a Market street bus line will make direct connection with Broadway. Meanwhile, to permit direct transfers at this point, he said, would result in overloading the Gravois buses. Those signing the protest are Louis F. Schleicher, Milton Hashagen, Edward Klmpel and Oliver Triaka.

MO. PAC. GETS AUTHORITY TO CONTINUE ITS PENSIONS

Federal Judge Fails Permits Payment of $83,000 a Month to Retired Employees.

Federal Judge Farris today granted an application by the management of the Missouri Pacific Railroad to continue paying about $83,000 a month in pensions to retired employees. The railroad went into bankruptcy under the amended Federal statute a week ago.

The application explained that the pension system was inaugurated by the railroad in 1917 and that even a temporary discontinuance would affect present employees. To be placed on the pension roll an employee must be 70 years old and have had 25 continuous years' service with the Missouri Pacific.

Conditions Nearly Normal After Better Understanding.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Their ardor dampened by two days of marching in intermittent rain storms, pupils of Chicago's public schools for the most part settled down to work in their classrooms today.

Parental rebukes, threats of disciplinary measures from school authorities, and a better understanding of why their teachers had not been paid were said by school principals to have practically ended the strike.

TWO SLAYERS ELECTROCUTED AT KENTUCKY PENITENTIARY

One of Pair Murdered Ball Executive Who Gave Him Ride in Auto.

By the Associated Press.
EDDYVILLE, Ky., April 7.—Frank Carson of Detroit and Sam McGee, Paducah Negro, were electrocuted at the Western State penitentiary early today.

Carson was convicted of the murder of C. B. James, Louisville & Nashville Railroad executive, after James gave Carson and Anthony Peterson, also of Detroit, a ride in his automobile. Peterson was sentenced to life imprisonment. The killing occurred near Bardonia two years ago.

McGee was convicted of killing Charles Clark during an attempted robbery at Paducah two years ago. Two other Negroes were scheduled to die today but one received a seven-day stay and another obtained a commutation to life imprisonment.

DICKMANN BREAKS VACATION IN OZARKS

Returns to Install Brother as Head of Elks and Attend Beer Celebration.

Bernard F. Dickmann, elected Mayor last Tuesday, returned to the city for a few hours last night from a brief vacation in the Ozarks. He left again early today and is not expected back until Monday.

The purpose of his visit last night was to install his brother, Judge Joseph F. Dickmann of the Court of Criminal Corrections, as exalted ruler of the Elks' lodge. This position formerly was held by Bernard Dickmann. The installation was timed to coincide with the restoration of legalized beer and a party arranged in celebration.

The Mayor-elect, who will take office April 16, is staying at a clubhouse in the Ozarks. Just where he is has not been announced, as he desired to be free from the visits of office-seekers after his campaign. Dickmann will take up the matter of appointments to city positions upon his return.

He also will sit with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, by invitation of Comptroller Nolte, in hearings on the budget for the coming fiscal year. The board's first budget session will be held next Monday.

Roosevelt Phoned Congratulations. Dickmann repeated statements made during his campaign concerning his attitude in filling jobs. He said he would consider fitness and qualifications of a prospective appointee rather than political standing. He is committed to a policy of appointing capable Democrats. Some of his appointments, presumably to key positions, will be of personal nature, he has said, but it is expected the party organization will have a voice in much of the patronage.

It was learned today that President Roosevelt had telephoned congratulations to Dickmann after the election. Among many congratulatory telegrams was one from Postmaster-General Farley. Many flowers were sent to Dickmann's home by well-wishers and his mail has been heavy.

There is talk among members of the Democratic City Committee that members who supported William Stone Madden, the party's unsuccessful candidate for Comptroller, will be ignored when city jobs are distributed. A majority of the committee had opposed Madden's nomination. Among those who supported him were committee members who are deputies of his brother, Sheriff Madden. Comptroller Nolte, Republican, was re-elected by a 58,000 plurality over Madden.

As to Madden's backers. One committeeman said today that Dickmann had intimidated before the election that Madden's supporters would be rebuked in some way. Committee members also anticipate that in several wards where the committeeman and the committeewoman have been at odds, the patronage whip will be used to force them to make political peace. It is possible the dominant faction may seek to force resignations of quarrelsome committee members or those who backed Madden. The members were elected last August for four-year terms.

Democratic leaders, flushed with the party's success in the election, apart from the Comptrollership, are talking about permanent organization. Heretofore St. Louis Democrats have been loosely organized.

Among the Elks' lodge officers installed last night is Dewey S. Godfrey, chairman of the Democratic City Committee. He was made exalted.

MRS. JUDD'S COUNSEL MOVES FOR NEW TRIAL

Hearing Set for Monday—Plea for Another Reprieve Is Denied.

By the Associated Press.
PHOENIX, Ariz., April 7.—Although her moments of hysteria have increased as the date set for her execution nears, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd held to a thread of hope today in a motion filed by her attorneys asking for a new trial.

The motion, booked for hearing Monday, carries affidavits intended to support charges of Mrs. Judd's attorneys that the jury which convicted her of murdering Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi sought by the conviction to "make her talk."

Contentions have been made that Mrs. Judd alone could not have dismembered the bodies of Mrs. Le Roi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, slain with her, and shipped them to Los Angeles in trunks, as was done following the killings here Oct. 16, 1931.

The motion was filed yesterday shortly after the Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles had rejected her plea for another reprieve from the gallows. She is sentenced to be hanged at dawn April 21.

Mrs. Judd had asked for the reprieve to allow time to carry her case to the United States Supreme Court, and allow the State prison warden to decide whether he would ask for a sanity hearing for her.

MRS. WHITNEY TO DROP CLAIM Convinced Wealthy Explorer Was Not Her Husband.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 7.—The suit by which Mrs. Marie Schukofski Whitney of Harrisburg, Pa., sought to prove that Harry Whitney, wealthy explorer, was her husband and father of three grown children will be dismissed as a result of examination before trial.

The bite of a wolf in Montana in 1896, which sent Whitney to an army hospital at Fort Custer, and other documentary evidence convinced the Harrisburg woman that she was wrong in her identification. Files of the Adjutant-General's office in Washington proved that Harry Whitney was in Fort Custer Hospital at the time when Mrs. Whitney said that she was living with her husband at Steelton, Pa. The examination was held Tuesday.

Company to Close Iron Mines.

By the Associated Press.
ISHPEMING, Mich., April 7.—All mining properties of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. on the Marquette range have been ordered closed tomorrow by W. G. Mather, president of the company, because of "continued absence of demand for iron ore, and consequent inability to move already large stock piles, and to the fact that cash available for present use is temporarily tied up in Cleveland banks."

POLICE DEMAND ON CITY FOR NEXT YEAR $5,537,133

Board Sends Estimate of $5,098,000 for Department and $439,133 for Pensions to Nolte.

The Police Board today submitted to Comptroller Nolte its estimate that it will require $5,098,000 for its 1933-34 budget, and $439,133 for police pensions. Last year's budget was $5,094,400, and the pension figure $431,436.

Under State law, the City Board of Estimate and Apportionment is required to approve, and the Board of Aldermen is required to pass, whatever appropriation is certified by the Police Board as necessary, without reduction. The city's fiscal officials, however, can call the Police Board members into consultation, and make suggestions, and this was done last year. The last Board, headed by Oliver T. Remmers, reduced its estimate from $5,244,000 to the $5,094,400 finally appropriated.

The estimate received today was signed by William L. Igoe as president of the Police Board. It will be considered at the next meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to be held at 10 a. m. Monday in Comptroller Nolte's office. Bernard F. Dickmann, Mayor-elect and close political associate of Igoe, has accepted an invitation to attend the meeting.

Including the amounts requested for the Police Department and police pensions, the budget appropriation requests now total $22,036,040. A heavy reduction of this total will have to be made in the budgeting process. The city fiscal officials control only about 60 per cent of the budget, the other 40 per cent, including the police, being for State-controlled departments.

GIVEN 15 YEARS FOR HOLDUP WHEN FREE ON PAROLE

Robert Garland Convicted of Robbing Illinois Central Ticket Office of $233 Last October.

Robert de Marr Garland, 21 years old, who was paroled last June by Circuit Judge Beck after pleading guilty to two charges of burglary, was convicted by a jury in Circuit Judge Landwehr's court yesterday of holding up the Illinois Central Railroad's ticket office last Oct. 7, when $233 was stolen. His punishment was fixed at 15 years in the penitentiary.

Garland was arrested Nov. 8 when clerks in the ticket office, located at 324 North Broadway, saw him loitering on the sidewalk and recognized him as the robber. He was quoted by police as saying he had spent the proceeds of the robbery in Chicago and New York, and was "getting up nerve" to hold up the ticket office again when he was recognized and arrested. He had a loaded revolver in his pocket.

The prisoner did not take the stand. After the verdict was returned Judge Landwehr turned to two of Garland's alibi witnesses and told them: "I am not going to order your arrest for perjury, but I will have the transcript of your testimony presented to the grand jury. You may go."

The witnesses identified themselves as Mrs. Ada Scott, 5583 Bartmer avenue, and Ray McKnight, 3962 Lindell boulevard. Both testified that Garland was in the West End at the time the ticket office was held up. Garland was identified by three employees of the ticket office, Mark Renicke, Edward Reninger and Lunsford Du Hadway.

On his previous appearance in Circuit Court, Garland admitted robbing two chain stores of cigarettes and other merchandise. Judge Beck sentenced him to two years in prison, then paroled him from the bench.

VETERANS' AGENT GET INFORMATION ON MAKING CUT

Administrator Hines Says President Wants A 'Equitably and Humanely' Applied.

The Associated Press, Washington, April 7.—Veterans' administration agents were instructed yesterday by Administrator Frank T. Hines that President Roosevelt desires the economy act to be "justly, equitably and humanely applied."

A letter from Hines to all field stations said the new law and regulations should be applied with "equity and humanity." The letter said that the new law and regulations should be applied with "equity and humanity."

The basic principle upon which the law is founded and the regulations issued contemplate that pension roll will be always an honor roll and that the veteran who has honorably served his country and has suffered injury or disability in line of duty will be cared for with the ability of the country to do so.

"Every proper effort will be made to assist those who have presented claims to the end that meritorious claims may be granted. Likewise, every care will be taken that no claim is allowed which is not meritorious. In my judgment, the very cause of the structure of veterans' relief depends upon the ability of the nation of the veterans' administration to justly and efficiently administer the new law."

The law and the president's regulations issued pursuant to it will be administered in accordance with their express provisions, interpretive instructions issued by the administrator. The response of all agencies should be free to ask for instructions on point that is not clear, and shall call attention promptly to any inequality or defect in the regulations issued, but no one will make an interpretation without proper foundation.

"It is fully realized that some veterans who heretofore have been allowed benefits and will not now under the provisions of the law feel that a grave injustice has been done them. Consequently it is necessary for personnel of the veterans' administration to exercise the greatest of patience in extending to these veterans the need for the action taken."

"I am sure this problem can be met with courage, kindness and patience."

Florence Atkinson Named in Wright's Will; St. Louis N. Left $1.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—"My best friend" in his will, Florence Atkinson, former movie actress, is left Wilson Mizner's estate, with the exception of the document for probate closed yesterday.

The playwright, who died yesterday, left Miss Atkinson manuscripts, stocks of undated value, interest in scenarios and interest in exchange of the estate of the late Addison, who died at Palm Beach two years ago.

Miss Atkinson was last in movies in "The Miracle" in 1928. She had been married for nearly 15 years. Her husband was dated Feb. 3.

V. King was named executor of the estate, which was valued at $100,000. Mizner's estate, which was valued at $100,000, was left to his wife, Mrs. Mizner, and his children.

UNIVERSITY CITY ELECTIONS
Certificates for all but University City Board of Aldermen, at a special meeting, voted to issue certificates for all successful candidates for city offices in last election, except in the race in the First Ward where about 400 ballots were a precinct polling place were being tabulated.

Monday morning, Mayor-elect David L. Miller, newly elected official, called at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen next evening.

Attorney David B. Miller, who would present a petition within two days on the issue of whether another election should be held in the First Ward, where a theft occurred. Loss of $10,000 was discovered at the time for Mayor and other officials was complete before the count for Aldermen. A watcher at the church, which was in the First Ward, was arrested on $2500 bond pending investigation of the theft.

The Associated Press, Los Angeles, Calif., April 7.—Mexican police reported yesterday that a purse containing $10,000 had been found by Charles Vales, a taxicab driver, who had been driving a movie actress, who had been in Vales's cab. The actress found the purse under the seat of his car.

Consequently it will be necessary for personnel of the veterans' administration to exercise the greatest of patience in explaining to these veterans the necessity for the action taken.

Florence Atkinson Named in Playwright's Will; St. Louis Niece Left $1.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Called "my best friend" in his will, Florence Atkinson, former movie actress, is left Wilson Mizner's entire estate, with the exception of $2,500,000 in the estate of the writer's brother, the late Addison Mizner, who died at Palm Beach two months ago.

Miss Atkinson was last seen in the movies in "The Miracle," produced in 1928. She had known Mizner for nearly 15 years. The document was dated Feb. 10, 1933. John V. King was named executor.

Cash bequests of $1 each were left to Mizner's nieces, Alice Mizner of St. Louis and Mrs. Ysabel Chase Hollins of Pebble Beach, Cal.

UNIVERSITY CITY ELECTION CERTIFICATES FOR ALL BUT ONE
The University City Board of Aldermen, at a special meeting yesterday voted to issue election certificates to all successful candidates for city offices in last Tuesday's election, except in the Aldermanic race in the First Ward.

Where about 400 ballots were stolen from a precinct polling place while results were being tabulated early Wednesday morning.

Mayor-elect David L. Millar and other newly elected officials will be installed at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen next Wednesday evening.

City Attorney David Baron announced he would present an opinion within two days on the question of whether another election should be held in the east precinct of the First Ward, where the ballot theft occurred. Loss of the ballots was discovered after the count for Mayor and other general officials was completed and begun. A watcher at the polling place, which was in the basement of a church at 6800 Washington avenue, was arrested and released on $2500 bond pending an investigation of the theft.

NEW YORK PASSES BILL FIXING MINIMUM WAGE FOR WOMEN

Measure Proposed by Gov. Lehman
Also Applies to Children; Labor Leaders Urged It.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 7.—The New York Legislature today passed a bill providing for minimum wages for women and children in industry, and sent it to Gov. Lehman for his signature.

Labor leaders of the state have been fighting for minimum wage legislation for 20 years but today's was their first success.

The bill calls for the creation of minimum wage boards within the State Department of Labor, to conduct hearings and fix minimum wages for women and children in various localities. Governor Lehman recommended such legislation in a special message to the Legislature in which he charged that unscrupulous employers were capitalizing on the present depression by paying women as little as $2 a week.

73 PCT. GOLD BASE FOR CURRENCY OF FEDERAL RESERVE

Statement for Week Ending April 5 Shows $2,651, 884,000 Is Held Against
$3,644,137,000 in Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The gold in the United States Treasury and its agencies has reached $3,278,837,000, the highest amount since August, 1931, it was disclosed today.

The Federal Reserve statement for the week ending April 5 shows that $2,651,884,000 of the gold is held exclusively against Federal Reserve notes. This means a gold base of about 73 per cent.

Against this gold reserve the Government has outstanding $3,644,137,000 of Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation, while only $15,930,000 of the Federal Reserve Bank notes, constituting the much discussed "new money" is in circulation. Thus far, only five of the 12 regional banks have availed themselves of the new currency which is backed by "sound assets."

Continued Flow of Gold.
The week's influx of gold represented a gain of $42,071,000 in the metal, and a total return of $898,298,000 since the call went out early last month for gold.

Only the banks at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and St. Louis have used the new currency, the amount outstanding rising $1,702,000 during the week. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, however, received $108,000 from actual circulation during the week.

The statement showed that the monetary gold stocks of the country increased $11,000,000 during the week to a total of $4,283,000,000, or 37 per cent of the world's estimated total of $11,600,000,000. The level, however, was $113,000,000 less than for the same week of last year.

A further return of normal banking activities and decline in hoarding, brought money in circulation down $92,000,000 during the week to $3,261,000,000, which is $1,277,000,000 less than the peak reached during the banking crisis early in March.

Attorney-General Cummings said no attempt has been made to determine what action the Justice Department might take after May 1, the end of the period fixed by President Roosevelt for turning in gold and gold certificates.

Mrs. Burritt, whose first husband was the late James T. Drummond, tobacco manufacturer, was the wife of Dr. William H. Burritt, who inherits her estate.

HUNDREDS MADE HOMELESS BY FLOODS IN MISSISSIPPI

Waters Also Out in Lowlands in Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

WICKSBURG, Miss., April 7.—Hundreds have been made refugees by floods in the Tallahatchie, Yazoo, Coldwater and Yalobusha river basins in the Mississippi delta, the St. Francis in Arkansas and Mississippi lowlands along the Kentucky-Tennessee line.

Mr. Brehon Somervell, United States District Engineer at Memphis, after an inspection trip up the Mississippi, said the levees could stand another eight-foot rise without difficulty. The river at Memphis yesterday registered 37.4 feet or 2.4 feet above flood level.

Gov. Bennett Corner of Mississippi authorized R. O. Tamm, manager of the Mississippi penitentiary, to use State convicts to strengthen the levees.

4 RAILWAYS CURTAIL SERVICE TO CHICAGO

Alton to Operate Three Trains in Each Direction, Other Lines Two Each.

Railroads operating between St. Louis and Chicago have agreed to eliminate three of their 12 daily trains in each direction, with a saving estimated at $600,000 a year.

Under the new arrangement, effective Sunday, trains will be available at the same hours as heretofore, but there will be less duplication. Leaving St. Louis, the Alton Railway is discontinuing its morning train and the Wabash and Illinois Central are discontinuing their afternoon trains. Leaving Chicago, the Alton and the Wabash are discontinuing afternoon trains and the Illinois Central its noon train. The new schedule from St. Louis gives the Alton morning and afternoon trains, the Wabash, Illinois Central and Chicago & Eastern Illinois noon trains. All four will operate midnight trains in each direction.

Out of Chicago the Alton, Wabash and C. & E. I. will operate noon trains, the Illinois Central the afternoon train, and the Alton the evening train. For some years the duplication in train service between St. Louis and Chicago has been criticised by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The problem has been discussed frequently by executives of the railroads but nothing was accomplished until it was referred to H. G. Taylor, Commissioner of Western Railroads.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS NOMINATE BLIND JUDGE

Paul Farthing of St. Clair County Chosen for State Supreme Bench.

By the Associated Press.
MOUNT VERNON, Ill., April 7.—County Judge Paul Farthing of St. Clair County was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Supreme Court Justice for the First Judicial District of Illinois on the first ballot at the nominating convention here late yesterday. Judge Farthing is blind.

Judge Farthing was a candidate for the place nine years ago but was defeated by Justice Warren Duncan, Republican, of Marion. Although there was some opposition to his nomination yesterday, before the result of the roll call had been announced the chairman of half a dozen delegations rose to their feet and asked to change the votes of their counties. A motion to make the nomination unanimous then was adopted.

Judge Farthing attended the State School for the Blind at Jacksonville as a boy. He later attended McKendree College, graduating in 1909, and in 1913 he received a doctor of jurisprudence degree from the University of Illinois.

He has practiced law in East St. Louis since his graduation and has been County Judge since 1930. From 1924 to 1928 he was Master of Chancery in the East St. Louis City Court. His present home is in Belleville. He is married and the father of three children.

His leading opponent in yesterday's nominating convention was Peter J. Kolb of Mount Carmel. The names of David J. Underwood of McLeansboro and D. F. Rumsey of Harrisburg also had been placed in nomination.

The nomination of Judge Farthing was assured after a vote of 190 to 138 an attempt to impose a two-thirds rule on the convention.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS WALK OUT ON FARLEY

District of Columbia Club Splits Over Effort of Older Heads to Dominate It.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Young Democrats of the District of Columbia have split into two organizations over "Big Jim" Farley, party patronage dispenser.

Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, wrote a letter opposing "certain changes that Farley insisted upon in the club's constitution." She was elected vice-president of the old organization.

In their number were: Radford Ross, son of Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Lydia Mae Francis, secretary to Mrs. Ross; Louise Falligan Gelleher, young attorney, protégé of Ruth Bryan Owen; Marvin Cox of Georgia, Winfield Scott Magill Jr., Francis B. Taylor Jr., Ralph Lawrence, Homer Tatum and John Goodloe.

Miss Wheeler is fighting.

Miss Wheeler said she was fighting to keep the youth movement from being dominated by older party heads. She said Farley wanted the young Democrats to abandon conventions of their own and to submit their slate of officers and delegates to the approval of national committees.

"So the whole thing would eventually turn over to his control," she said. "He put a time limit of April 1 on ratification of the constitution containing these provisions, trying to rush the thing through, instead of waiting until our convention in June."

Cox, president of the new organization, "The Young Democratic Clubs of America, District of Columbia Division," said: "It is self-evident that it is the duty of every young Democrat to support the administration first, last and all the time. Our first action is to ratify the national constitution of the Young Democratic Clubs of America."

"Lock, Stock and Barrel."

Miss Wheeler's letter was addressed to all the Young Democratic Clubs of the country. Announcing that the Washington club had gone on record against the Farley proposals, it said: "We are sending this vote out to contradict the insidious propaganda that all clubs have adopted these changes when that fact is untrue."

It objected to turning over the organization "lock, stock and barrel" to the National Committee after it had been built up to a membership of 1,200,000 "without material assistance" from the adult organization.

All clubs were urged to reconsider, if they had adopted the change.

FORMER MUSIC PUBLISHER SUES BRIDE OF TWO WEEKS

George A. Bronson, Brother of Glenn Smeeman, Seeks Divorce in Cleveland.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, April 7.—George A. Bronson, former music publisher, filed suit for divorce yesterday against Mrs. Edythe Hill Dusek Bronson, charging his bride of two weeks with misconduct and cruelty. The action followed his annulment suit, filed at Toledo, in which he alleged he was forced to marry under threats of "ruinous publicity."

Mrs. Bronson has sworn to a warrant charging her husband with assault with intent to kill.

Bronson is a brother of Glenn Smeeman, who recently was freed of old convictions on automobile theft charges by the Governors of Colorado and Missouri. Smeeman, who had escaped from the Colorado penitentiary in 1918, was a fugitive until he was found living in Cleveland under another name.

NO TRUE BILL IN AUTO DEATH Grand Jury Votes Not to Indict Men Held at Inquest.

A no true bill was voted by the grand jury yesterday in the death of Mrs. Julia Weber, 68, a widow, 4651A Varrelman avenue, who was killed by an automobile on Gravois avenue a month ago.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS WALK OUT ON FARLEY

District of Columbia Club Splits Over Effort of Older Heads to Dominate It.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Young Democrats of the District of Columbia have split into two organizations over "Big Jim" Farley, party patronage dispenser.

Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, wrote a letter opposing "certain changes that Farley insisted upon in the club's constitution." She was elected vice-president of the old organization.

In their number were: Radford Ross, son of Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Lydia Mae Francis, secretary to Mrs. Ross; Louise Falligan Gelleher, young attorney, protégé of Ruth Bryan Owen; Marvin Cox of Georgia, Winfield Scott Magill Jr., Francis B. Taylor Jr., Ralph Lawrence, Homer Tatum and John Goodloe.

Miss Wheeler is fighting.

Miss Wheeler said she was fighting to keep the youth movement from being dominated by older party heads. She said Farley wanted the young Democrats to abandon conventions of their own and to submit their slate of officers and delegates to the approval of national committees.

"So the whole thing would eventually turn over to his control," she said. "He put a time limit of April 1 on ratification of the constitution containing these provisions, trying to rush the thing through, instead of waiting until our convention in June."

Cox, president of the new organization, "The Young Democratic Clubs of America, District of Columbia Division," said: "It is self-evident that it is the duty of every young Democrat to support the administration first, last and all the time. Our first action is to ratify the national constitution of the Young Democratic Clubs of America."

"Lock, Stock and Barrel."

Miss Wheeler's letter was addressed to all the Young Democratic Clubs of the country. Announcing that the Washington club had gone on record against the Farley proposals, it said: "We are sending this vote out to contradict the insidious propaganda that all clubs have adopted these changes when that fact is untrue."

It objected to turning over the organization "lock, stock and barrel" to the National Committee after it had been built up to a membership of 1,200,000 "without material assistance" from the adult organization.

All clubs were urged to reconsider, if they had adopted the change.

OHAMA HOTEL OWNER ACCUSED OF ARSON MURDER IN FIRE

Charge Follows Death of 7 Persons and Injury of 22 Others

In Blaine.

OMAHA, Neb., April 7.—After a secret investigation by State authorities, Harry Welner, owner of the Millard Hotel, recently destroyed by fire, was charged with arson and first-degree murder while committing arson, in a complaint filed today by County Attorney Henry Beal.

Seven firemen were killed and 22 were injured by flames which destroyed the five-story building the night of Feb. 8.

Horace M. Davis, Deputy State Fire Marshal, signed the complaint, which specifically charged Welner with causing the death of Franklin Kane, one of the firemen killed under a falling wall of the hotel.

Beal said that soon after a county coroner's inquest and a City Council inquiry had been concluded without placing definite blame for the blaze, one of the inquest witnesses notified an official that his conscience was bothering him and he wanted to tell the truth. After taking his testimony, the officials questioned nearly 50 witnesses, Beal said.

SENATE APPROVES 30-HOUR WEEK; HOUSE EXPECTED TO MODIFY BILL

Vote on Black Measure, Designed to Put Many Jobless to Work, Is 53 to 30; Clark for It and Patterson Against.

ROOSEVELT STAND AWAITS STUDY OF IT

Speaker Rainey Says House Action Will Depend on President's Attitude; Sponsor of Bill Sees Executive and Is Confident.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—By a margin of 23 votes, the Senate has passed and sent to the House one of the most drastic legislative attempts ever made to overcome machine age unemployment problems. A bill limiting labor in manufacturing industries to five days a week and six hours a day.

The measure, sponsored by Senator Black (Dem., Ala.), and approved, 53 to 30, would take effect 30 days after enactment and remain in operation for two years.

Democratic leaders would not predict what President Roosevelt's attitude might be, but they did expect the measure to be modified in the House, if taken up there, probably to make the work week 36 hours. The House is in recess until Monday.

Speaker Rainey's Attitude.

Speaker Rainey said at a press conference today that the bill would be sidetracked in the House pending passage of all of President Roosevelt's reconstruction legislation.

"There is a lot of dynamite in that bill," he said. "A lot of complications must be considered. There is the question of constitutionality." Rainey said the bill "is not a part of the administration legislative program as yet, but it may be, but I have received no word from the White House."

Senator Black, who has conferred with Mr. Roosevelt on the subject, is confident that the House will take up the bill.

President to Study Bill.

President Roosevelt is reported to be withholding any decision on the legislation pending further study of the form in which it passed the Senate.

The modification to 36 hours was proposed yesterday by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, but it was beaten, 48 to 40, by 35 Democrats, 12 Republicans and one Farmer-boy voting against it. Robinson had predicted the 36-hour week would be acceptable to the President.

Argument for Bill.

Advocates of the bill argued it would put 6,000,000 jobless back in employment on a share-work basis and that it would be upheld by the Supreme Court despite the 5 to 4 decision of that tribunal holding the Child Labor law unconstitutional.

Opponents said the bill was "plainly unconstitutional and would result in increased unemployment, confusion and discrimination."

As finally passed, after many exemptions were added, the measure would bar from interstate commerce, under penalty of $200 fine or three months in prison, or both, any person "produced or manufactured in any mine, quarry, mill, cannery, workshop, factory, or manufacturing establishment, situated in the United States, in which any person was employed to work more than five days in any week or more than six hours in any day."

Among the Exemptions.

The Secretary of Labor would be given discretionary power to exempt any industries where "special conditions" made it impossible to adopt the drastically reduced work week. It would not affect farms or railroads.

Articles specifically exempted include newspapers and periodicals, perishable commodities such as fish, seafoods, fruits and vegetables, milk and milk products, and all farm products "processed for first sale by the original producer." Millions of laborers and factory hands, however, would be affected, along with white-collar workers in manufacturing establishments, the executives, superintendents, officers and their immediate and personal assistants.

As to Constitutionality.

In its preamble, the Black bill states that millions of citizens

40 FARMERS IN WASHINGTON WITH RELIEF DEMANDS

Self Styled Militants Say They Will Insist on Cost of Production.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A group of self-styled militant farmers, representing organizations in various parts of the country, invaded the Capitol today with the announcement that they intended to force through legislation which would guarantee them the cost of production.

J. F. Botkin of Hancock County, Illinois, acting as spokesman for the group of 40, said they were determined to remain in Washington "a month or more—until such a bill is passed."

Botkin said they represented the Farmers' Union, the Holiday Association, the Wisconsin Co-operative Milk Pool, and the Council of Defense, a new secret society of farmers in the Northwest. The men now in Washington, he added, were from South Dakota, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Montana, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Ohio, Indiana, Arkansas, Alabama, Nebraska, Kansas, Pennsylvania and New York.

"We can't make any money on the farm now," Botkin said. "All the past legislation has been put through by farm organization leaders who have forgotten the troubles of the people they're supposed to represent."

MOTOR-RAIL TRAFFIC BILL IS PRESENTED IN COMMONS

Provides for Regulation of Transportation of Goods by Truck in England.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 7.—The road and rail traffic bill, one of the outstanding measures of the present session of Parliament, was presented in the House of Commons today.

Based on a comprehensive transport inquiry by a royal commission headed by Sir Arthur Salter, it provides for regulation of the transportation of goods by motor vehicles, and amends the road traffic act of 1930 in relation to wages, hours and conditions of employment in connection with motor vehicles.

The bill also would amend the law relating to railways and provides for the creation of a council to advise the Government on transport matters.

VATICAN CITY, April 7.—As if he were an ordinary pilgrim, Pope Pius XI entered St. Peter's through the Holy Door this morning and knelt before the altar of the confessional, praying for indulgence for the Holy Year.

He was attended by the Cardinals and prelates of the Papal Court. Religious students were present, but the Basilica was closed to the public.

Senate Body Approves Johnson Bill Barring Loans to Nations Failing to Pay Obligations.

ACTION URGED AS 'SIMPLE JUSTICE'

Administration's Securities Regulation Program Also Is Being Rushed Through Committees.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A Federal bar on loans to governments in default to the United States or its citizens has been recommended to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee in a formal report on the Johnson bill, which the administration's stringent securities bill is still the subject of committee hearings.

Passage of the Johnson bill, sponsored by the California Republican-Independent, which would prohibit sale in this country of obligations of defaulting governments, is urged by the Judiciary Committee as "a measure of simple justice for the protection of the American investor and the American people generally."

Investigation Conclusive.

Johnson's bill, an aftermath of the Senate Finance Committee investigation of the flotation of foreign issues in the United States, was considered by the Judiciary Committee as justified by that inquiry and necessary "on behalf of the American people."

In the committee report, Chairman Ashurst said that the investigation was "so recent and its results so astonishing that apparently nothing more need be done in denouncing the necessity for legislation upon the subject."

"Billions of dollars of securities of certain foreign countries were offered for sale to the American people with little thought of final payment," the report said, "and in some instances, with sufficient knowledge of the defunct status of the government, the sale of these securities heretofore in this country have brought distressing loss upon our people, or the offering for sale of the bonds and obligations of a foreign country able to pay its obligations to our own Government but repudiating a solemn agreement."

Ashurst said the legislation was designed "to curb the rapacity of those engaged in the sale of foreign obligations, and as an admonition to governments able to pay but which nevertheless repudiate their Chicago Banker Criticisms Bill; Advocates Licensees.

The Senate Banking Committee today heard M. N. MacLean, vice-president of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, assail the provision in the securities supervision bill requiring that officers and directors of corporations floating stocks and bonds be financially responsible in cases of misrepresentation. He advocated that all security dealers be licensed, and that no foreign loans be floated in this country unless held by the Federal Reserve Board to be of benefit to domestic trade and industry.

BRITISH PAPERS PRAISE U. S. ACTION IN RESTORING BEER

Predict Decline in Criminal Class and Saving in Cost of Fighting Gangsters.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 7.—The advent of beer in the United States was reported prominently today in the British press. Newspapers predicted a reduction of the criminal class and a saving in the expense of fighting gangsters.

The Daily Telegraph said: "Congress at last recognized it was better for the state to raise money from the tax on liquor trade than to spend millions in fighting gangsters, who for 14 years have alone profited. But the moral aspect of the question has not been overlooked. Henceforth we believe Americans will see that temperance is a safer ideal than prohibition."

The Times said: "Illegal trade in liquor that was not been over-looked. Henceforth we believe Americans will see that temperance is a safer ideal than prohibition."

G. O. P. ORGANIZES FIGHT ON FARM BILL IN SENATE

Debate Opens With Special Republican Committee to Guide Opposition to Measure.

SUBSTITUTE PLAN OFFERED BY CAREY

Robinson Urging Prompt Passage Says - Proposal Follows Untrod, but Realistic Path.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The administration farm bill was taken up for debate in the Senate today, facing strong opposition among the Republican minority which assigned a committee to go through the bill and report how it should be handled.

The Republicans held a conference on the farm bill this morning and decided to obtain recommendations Monday from Senator Carey of Wyoming, author of a substitute for the sweeping price lifting sections of the Democratic plan, which was chairman of the committee. Steiwer of Oregon and Patterson of Missouri completed its membership.

The substitute offered by Carey, which the conference discussed but on which it did not take a stand, in substance is the Hyde land leasing suggestion advanced in the closing days of the last Congress.

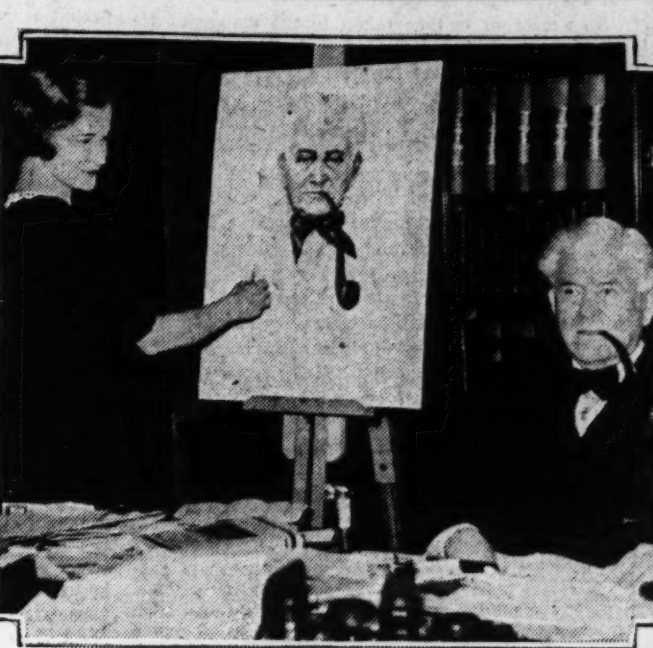

Considerable opposition to the administration bill vesting broad powers in Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to attempt to raise farm prices to the 1909-1914 levels through marketing agreements, the domestic allotment plan and other machinery, has developed among the Republicans.

Despite any Republican attack on the bill, Democratic leaders were hopeful as they brought it up for debate that it could be disposed of next week and sent back to the House for consideration of Senate changes.

As Chairman Smith undertook explanation of the bill, Senator Logan (Dem., Kentucky), asked if he thought he could "explain this bill so we can understand it?"

"No sir," shot back Smith, who opposed the bill, "but I can read the bill and attempt to explain what it

LEAGUE MISSION TO HELP MODERNIZE CHINA DEPARTS

Director of Health Section Instructed to Co-ordinate Education, Labor and Transit.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, April 7.—The League of Nations has thrown its entire organization behind the movement for reconstruction modernization of China, with the departure last night for China of Dr. Ludwik Rajchman, director of the health section of the League, who has been instructed to co-ordinate education, transit and labor movements in the Eastern republic.

This action is in fulfillment of the Lytton report which held that the development of law and order required centralization of China's efforts to rebuild. It was pointed out that the mission was technical but it was admitted that it also probably would be political.

Japanese circles gave importance to the mission as a League gesture to unify China. Already there has been some talk that Japan may never carry out its intention to quit the League.

Mellon Calls on Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Andrew W. Mellon, retiring Ambassador to Great Britain and former Secretary of the Treasury, called on President Roosevelt today and discussed the general situation. Mellon said his visit was the customary call of a returning Ambassador on the President, "and I was glad to make it."

NAZIS TO SET UP DICTATORSHIP FOR GERMAN INDUSTRY

Head of Krupp Works Negotiating Terms—Aim Is Commercial Policy in Line With Hitlerism.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 7.—A virtual National Socialist industrial dictatorship will be established in the federation of German industries with the election of a National Socialist executive board. The reorganization of industries is intended to develop an industrial policy in line with the views of the Hitler government. The old executive board resigned yesterday.

Baron Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, head of the great Krupp Works at Essen, was authorized to negotiate with Chancellor Hitler and his cabinet for this purpose. The federation recently endorsed the Hitler government.

Von Papen to Confer With Pope.

What course the Hitler government will take in regard to the Catholic Church may be disclosed after a talk this week-end between the Pope and Vice-Chancellor Von Papen in Rome. Von Papen and Capt. Hermann Goerring, of the Hitler cabinet, will visit the Pope over the week-end to discuss the situation in Germany.

It was stated here that Von Papen would discuss the relations of the National Socialists with the Catholics. Von Papen is a Catholic and a former member of the Centrist (Catholic) party before his affiliation with the Nationalists and National Socialists. German Catholics and some Protestant organizations have expressed alarm at a National Socialist program to reorganize the Christian elements

OIL STABILIZATION AGREEMENTS

Action Taken by International Conference at Paris.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 7.—Agreements aiming at a stabilization of the oil industry were adopted at the closing session of the International Oil Conference today.

The terms of the agreements were not published, but it was reliably reported they included an agreement among American interests to reduce production to 2,000,000 barrels daily as well as to reduce excess stock. A communique said the agreement contributed to work undertaken at Washington and that another conference was foreseen for June, when further measures would be considered.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong; whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

As to Our Board of Education.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In an editorial appearing just before the recent election, the Post-Dispatch aptly called attention to the fact that the citizens of St. Louis were entirely without guidance in the selection of School Board members, and furthermore remarked the absence of the League of Women Voters from this, their annual field of activity. Your editorial comment, together with numerous private requests from voters, indicates expectation on the part of the public of finding us in this field. That the league prefers to concentrate its efforts on working for a new system of choosing School Board candidates (Post-Dispatch editorial) is a proper interpretation of our position. Our reasons we should like to explain.

In previous years, the League of Women Voters has followed not only the School Board elections, but the School Board activity between elections, and it has been our observation that the changes required cannot be effected by the mere election of a few good members. St. Louis needs a Board of Education of the modern type acclaimed by Government leaders on this subject. We need a board small enough to permit each member to be aware of all the business transacted by the board. In other words, we need a board that meets in a committee of the whole (not, as now, in pocket committees). We need a board that functions in an executive manner, one which will select a director of education and then turn the management of the schools over to him, holding him strictly accountable. Now the board votes on numerous details of administration. This would necessitate abandoning our present co-equal status of building, instruction, auditing, supply and finance departments and, incidentally, would demand less time of the members (since they would not handle details) than at present, but would, nevertheless, concentrate responsibility.

The League of Women Voters hopes those citizens interested in these and other necessary changes of a basic nature will co-operate in presenting to the next Legislature a bill which would establish basic policies. The bill recently passed converting the Board of Education into a bi-partisan (instead of a non-partisan) board will not, in my opinion, solve our problems. At the time this bill appeared before the Legislature, the education committee of the League of Women Voters presented arguments in favor of a small board and an appointive one. We believe the electorate in St. Louis desires a good Board of Education, but finds the task of selecting desirable candidates from the many who file too difficult. It may be of further interest to know that a number of able men and women, when requested to run, declined, principally for two reasons: (1) because of the present confused conditions existing in our Board of Education; (2) because of their unwillingness to take part in the strenuous and frequently undignified campaigning.

The league invites all citizens interested in co-operating on a plan for basic changes in our manner of selecting School Board members to send their names to the League of Women Voters headquarters, Kings-Way Hotel.

MARION WILSON WEIR, President.

Brickbats and Bouquets.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NO doubt quite a number of our citizens had the blues Wednesday, due to the outcome of the election. I wonder if the editor of the Post-Dispatch, who so ardently upheld and supported the City Hall machine, is one of them? Anyone in doubt as to how to vote should consult the editorials of the Post-Dispatch and then vote for the opposite party, and he will be sure to do his duty as a good citizen. The good advice on your editorial pages has lost its charm. The American people have learned to do their own thinking and act accordingly, as the late election returns have proved.

N. M. FREUND.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been reading the Post-Dispatch for 30 years and if old Father Time does not interfere, I expect to read it for 30 years more.

C. B. HOWELL.

The American Ideal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial of April 3, "Still Far From Fascism," though somewhat delayed, should be mimeographed and copies of it sent to many of the supposed intelligent leaders and thinkers, not only of this country, but of the world. For a fairly true interpretation of a dictator, your editorials enlighten the many. Under our Constitution, dictatorship, monarchy, plutocracy and Communism are entirely foreign, unless the people themselves show utter lack of co-operation and allow a select few to take over the reins of our Government. Representative government, that true American spirit, is too deeply imbedded in the vast majority of us.

L. J. KLEBE.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S FUTURE.

The question of the Democratic party's future is discussed at some length by James Truflow Adams in the Yale Review, under the heading, "The Democratic Party in Office." The article contributes nothing new or original in the way of political thought; it doesn't aim to. The premises are familiar and the deductions or conclusions rather obvious; but it is, nevertheless, an interesting and realistic picture of our political and social scene.

No exception will be taken to the statement that the Republican party has for a long time been the "standpat party of wealth, privilege and Toryism." In a word, the conservative party. Nor will there be any dissent from the judgment, reminiscent of Voltaire's aphorism, that such a party is necessary in a congressional government and if it didn't exist it would be necessary to create it. It will be agreed, too, that the Democratic party has for a generation been the liberal party, and as such it must capably function if it is to enjoy any extended tenure of power or is to render any service of value to the country. We need these two parties, one of conservatism, one of liberalism, in our political experiment, and it will be well for the nation, Mr. Adams thinks, if neither of them withers away into a helpless minority, but that both continue as formidable contenders for popular favor and severely competent critics each of the other.

One sentence may be quoted, somewhat paradoxical, the significance and truth of which will be conceded: "We are entering one of those periods in a nation's history in which the most genuinely conservative guides will be found among the liberals and not among the conservatives; for, as Hobhouse well said, 'To maintain an old order under changed circumstances may be in fact to initiate a revolution.'"

At this juncture, the Democratic party has been entrusted with power. Admittedly, many a Democratic vote in the late election was not cast for Mr. Roosevelt so much as against Mr. Hoover. So the Democratic party's lease of office lies in, in a way, a "gift of negation." How is it going to hold the confidence and support of those citizens who turned to it in protest and disappointment rather than in a spirit of faith or hope? By the adoption of sound, liberal policies, Mr. Adams says, without any attempt, however, to formulate or even outline such policies. But that omission need not be censured. The Roosevelt administration will probably be judged by its underlying philosophy quite as much as by its specific policies and actions. If it proceeds on the assumption that the changed circumstances require a new order and devotes its energies unsparringly and competently to the institution of a new order which will clean out the debris of the old, which will smash entrenched privilege and all its sinister ramifications and malevolent practices, which will recapture the vision of the American conception and reinstate the individual in the dignity and opportunity of his constitutional heritage—if the Roosevelt administration reveals that to be its purpose, the Democratic party will have deserved well of the electorate and may face with assurance the verdict of the ballot. By such philosophy, it will have made its appeal to Young America, the arbiter of the country's destiny.

But parties, like people, grow old, and their viewpoints, interests and philosophies change. Consider the Republican party. When it came into power under Lincoln, it was the party of protest against the status quo. It was the party of youth, daring, vision, and the Democratic party was as the Republican party of today—the party of property, privilege, class. Preponderant numerical strength and unbroken continuance in office rout liberalism and install Toryism. So it will be fortunate for the United States if it can never again be said the country is "normally Republican" or "normally Democratic." The ideal political status is that in which the minority party, whichever it is, will be so strong as always to be a threat in elections and a force for sanity and square dealing in the administration of affairs.

CIVIC CONSCIOUSNESS DE LUXE.

When it comes to discriminating electorates, the people of Levy, Ark., take all the ribbons. Down in Levy, voters not only decide whether the candidate is fitted for the office for which he offers himself, but they elect him to some other post. If they think he can fill it to better advantage. Take the case of C. B. Green. Mr. Green thought he would make a good Town Recorder for Levy, and so ran for that office. His fellow citizens felt otherwise. They wrote in the name of R. J. Gillen and elected Mr. Gillen instead. This did not mean that Levy citizens were through with Mr. Green. Far from it. They wrote in his name for Mayor, and he is now receiving congratulations as Levy's Mayor-elect. So if one of these voters word comes from down Little Rock way that the people of Levy have elected the candidates for Constable to the School Board and vice versa, don't be surprised. The good folk of Levy will just be performing their duties as voters in a manner more discriminating than the most optimistic among the founding fathers dared hope for.

UP TO THE GOVERNOR—AND AFTER.

The Senate has accepted the House amendments to the Burford bill, passed it, and the measure now goes to the Governor, who admittedly has never read it and, impliedly, does not know what it's all about. The Governor, however, is not the only official in Jefferson City who has not read the bill. With the exception of Senator Joffe, nobody seems to have read it. Senators and Representatives apparently voted for it without knowing what they were voting for. In the House, so Senator Joffe says, members consulted utility lobbyists as to what to do, and did it. "The most dastardly thing he had ever seen in the Capitol" is Mr. Joffe's description of the occurrence. Gov. Park will, of course, read the bill before approving or vetoing it. And it must also be assumed that he is familiar in a way with its contents. It must be assumed that he knows it abolishes the present Public Service Commission, that it will make jobs available for a lot of deserving Democrats (some 300 is the estimate) and that it will fundamentally change the law and alter the State's policy of regulation of public utilities. It may fairly be assumed that the Governor is as well informed about this bill as the average citizen who reads the papers and that, therefore, he knows the bill was drafted by and for the public utilities, and, if he signs it, it will be a victory for those special interests and a defeat of the popular interest.

Gov. Park may or may not know it now, but if he signs this bill he will assuredly know that that act alone will brand him officially and his administration with the public utility brand.

Further, the Governor's signature will not necessarily make this bill a law. The bill may have to go through the test of a referendum before it gets on the statute books. So the public utility interests will be well advised to postpone their jubilation until the people have spoken. They have won a battle, but they haven't won the war.

OPPORTUNITY FOR THE ECONOMY LEAGUE.

We are glad to hear that the National Economy League intends to continue its activity for reduction in governmental expenditures. Although formed just about a year ago, the league has already achieved its first major objective, namely, the reduction of veterans' expenditures. Where will it go from there?

No effective answer has ever been made to the league's point, adopted by President Roosevelt, that only veterans with service-connected disabilities are entitled to financial aid from the United States Government. It is, in our opinion, unanswerable. However, it has been charged against the league that it is an association of rich taxpayers, interested only in reducing their obligations to the Federal Treasury.

We do not believe the accusation is fair, but, at any rate, the league, if it wishes, can effectively dismiss it. Perhaps the greatest chance for economy in Federal expenditures now lies in the conversion of Government bonds into new issues at lower rates of interest. It has been estimated that conversion of the First and Fourth Liberty Bond issues alone to a 2 per cent basis would save the country in interest payments almost $100,000,000 a year.

Great Britain's experience shows what can be done. In 1932, she converted $2,068,977,000 in bonds of the 1917 war loan, bearing 5 per cent interest, into bonds bearing 3½ per cent. In February of this year, she brought the total conversion to $2,352,000,000. The two conversions mean a saving of approximately $130,000,000 annually in interest. They were achieved largely by an appeal to patriotism.

Here is a field for economy made to order for the National Economy League. Its masterful presentation of facts in the case of the veterans overcame all opposition, and it can do the same for the subject of bond conversion. Since, by and large, holders of Government bonds are in far better position to take income cuts than veterans, Government employees and others who have already felt the ax, immediate action should be taken.

We cannot have a national economy program, as has been pointed out before, unless everybody helps.

FARMER SANDINO.

Gen. Sandino was "licked at his game" as a bandit in Nicaragua, says the National Republic, and "deserves no special credit for submitting to the established order after he had failed to overthrow it." On the contrary, honors were pretty much with Sandino when the American marines, after several years of vainly pursuing him, left the country. Whether he knew it or not, his was one of the noblest of human aspirations, a political ideal which dates back to the historic utterance of Appian Claudius: "Rome never negotiates while foreign troops are on Italian soil."

If Sandino wanted to overthrow the Government, the way was made easier when the marines withdrew. Instead of seizing the opportunity, however, Sandino made his peace with the Government and settled down with 1000 of his men to a career as farmer. His first undertaking, says a dispatch from Mexico City, is the deepening of a river, to provide access to markets for his colony's products. That Sandino should abandon the soldier's glamorous career for the hard labor of a farmer's life seems sufficient evidence of his sincerity. It is difficult to reconcile such behavior with the label of "notorious bandit" that apologists for our invasion of Nicaragua have conferred upon him.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN.

The prodigal returned from ostracism to a reception that might have turned his head and caused him to doubt his identity. Until he had been branded a criminal and banished by the law, he had been at best a plodder. He had never occasioned extreme emotion. His presence never excited rapture, his absence, though annoying, never rated more than a disappointment. He had moved along the levels of the commonplace, fulfilling his humble mission, contented quite with his colorless destiny. He had, to be sure, won honorable mention in song and story, but poetry had never decked him out in the bright livery of lyricism. The most accorded him was balladry's hammering measure. So he went away, presumably forever, wondering in his slow-witted head just what he had done to merit such a savage verdict.

Well, there is no forever in the swift, short space of time. The eternity to which he had been condemned endured some 13 years. He came back last night—came back to an estate he had never previously possessed, to a welcome he had never dreamed of, to an acclaim which only a conquering hero knows. Fair women smothered him in caresses, and brave men stood up and cheered him with the lusty, gusty cheers of manly pride. Debutantes tossed kisses at him and dashing beaux shouted a cheerio, and little children piped their gladness greeting.

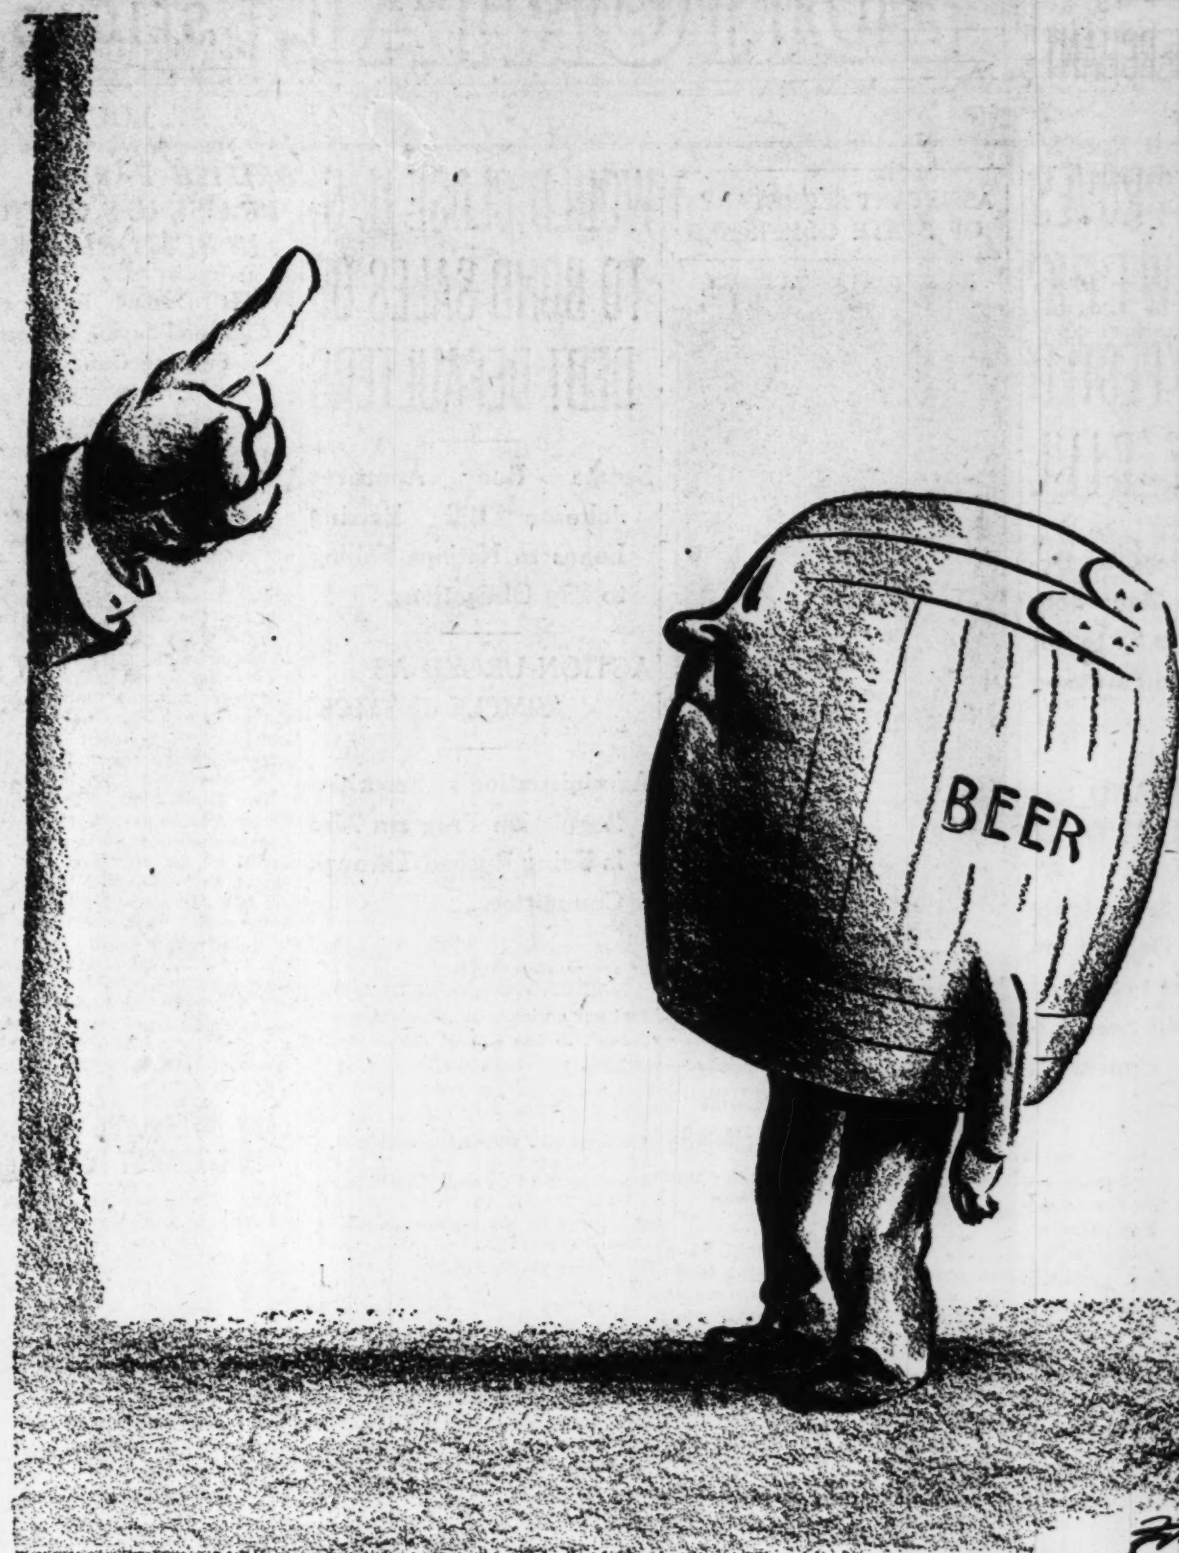

The prodigal came back by way of flowing hilarity to a glorious importance. Yesterday a felon, today a princely fellow. The prodigal's game is over.

PRESS AND PRESIDENT.

Still another move has been made by the Roosevelt administration to make easier the lot of the Washington correspondents, a group whose work gives them little rest these days. This latest step is to have the press attend the meetings of the various Federal departments instead of the Wednesday and Friday meetings at which President Roosevelt talks informally with the newspaper men. The value of this lies in the infinitely better co-ordination which will result. The State Department press chief, for example, will be able to deal more intelligently and satisfactorily with the correspondents if he knows precisely what the President had said at press meetings about State Department problems.

In the past, certain departments have tended too much toward being governments in themselves. This has caused the correspondent no little trouble, and it will be recalled that there have been instances of contradiction and repudiation of correspondents in order to preserve a united administration front. The cold, formal and truly useless press conferences of the Hoover administration have gone the way of the pathetic White House "spokesman" of the years of Coolidge, and the country is the better for it. Only further improvement in press relations can come from requiring the departments to be fully informed of the advance of the President and the newspaper men in their attack on the nation's problems.

Michigan is as wet as the lake.

"NOW DON'T MAKE A FOOL OF YOURSELF!"

TODAY and TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Roosevelt's Achievement

AT the end of its first month in office, the Roosevelt administration has a record that is a record for the country that it had when it started. Yet no economic miracle has happened. The depression continues, and the specific measures thus far taken have called for heavy sacrifices by many large groups of people. Ordinarily, one might have expected to see the initial enthusiasm for a new President cool off and the lines of an opposition begin to form. There are no signs that this is happening. Yet when it borrowed a few billions of dollars, adding about 25 per cent to the national debt, its credit was shaken. Why? Not because the Government was borrowing, but because the Government that was doing the borrowing was politically impotent.

What Mr. Roosevelt has done in the past month is to conquer three of the strongest outside forces which had been paralyzing the Government. He overcame the veterans' lobby, the bureaucratic lobby and the dry lobby. He proved that these organized minorities could not prevent retrenchments or block one of the great sources of revenue.

As his program is unfolded, we shall doubtless see innumerable vested interests which had become sovereign over portions of the Federal revenue swept aside. When he comes to his public works program, we may expect, if he proceeds along his present line, to see the whole principle of the pork barrel as drastically overturned as has been the principle of the veterans' legislation.

Now a Government which has asserted its control over its expenditures and its access to revenue has accomplished what "balancing the budget" means. It is master in its own house and, having become the master, it is entitled again to borrow for any social purpose which can be made intelligible to the people.

The position of the Government is like that of a wealthy young man who fell into bad company and got himself involved in obligations that seemed to have no end. That young man's credit would be shaken even though it appeared that his father's income was still more than sufficient to support his former mistress and pay his gambling debts. No prudent man would care to go into partnership with him. But if the young man said a fond but decisive farewell to the gold-diggers among his old companions, and took an honest job, his whole position would be changed.

Something like that has happened to the Federal Government in the past few months. It has changed its habits, its obligations and its way of life. It is, therefore, no longer necessary to scrutinize so anxiously the relation between income and outgo. For the Government is now freeing itself of the outside forces that were paralyzing it and, as long as it remains free, as long as it continues to be clearly stronger than any vested interest, the fight to "balance the budget" is won. The administration has restored the national credit, and it has earned the right to use that credit for national purposes.

"Weak Sister of the States"

From the Arkansas Democrat.

OUR sweet sister of Journalism, the Wall Street Journal, is angry with us again, and insists upon making nasty faces at us over the back fence. The darling of the Mitchells, the Harrimans, et al., tells its readers that Arkansas is back at her old tricks of repudiating her honest debts, thereby leaving all honest creditors out in the bitter cold.

"Whatever else may be said of Arkansas and her high-handed conversion of all outstanding bonds, notes and what-not into long-term 3's," says the Journal, "it must be admitted that the State is consistent in this recurrent disregard of the moral rights of bondholders. Moral rights, admittedly: apparently the situation allows no legal rights." After pointing out that none save other states can sue Arkansas, the New York Journal asks this question: "But once the verdict is rendered against Arkansas, what then? Who will force the Legislature to appropriate the funds? The Supreme Court of the United States once declared its power or that of Congress to enforce a decree involving debt between states, but the declaration ended 'no matter'."

The Journal skyrocket bursts into this shower of literary stars as it reaches its conclusion, also its zenith: "The Arkansas Constitution offers provision for payment of all just and legal debts of the State. Just? Legal? Who shall decide? Why, Arkansas. Her creditors are not even to be consulted."

The holy writ of the money changers suffers from the same ailment which affects them—an attack of "6-per-cent-and-the-debtor-be-damned." Always a little slow, the Journal has not found that we have a depression. Never infallible in its accuracy, it says our creditors have not been consulted. The Journal should subscribe for some good newspaper, and should get its information from some disinterested person. We won't quarrel over trivial things. The editor, in his rage, is a bit inconsistent. He picks Arkansas out of 48 states as a horrible example, principally because he, like so many of his New York brothers, knows less about this State than about their own—if that be possible. He knows that more debts are in default today than at any time in the history of man, yet he has a literary spasm over the fact we have attempted to protect our creditors, rather than rob them, by offering to refund our debts.

Arkansas today is in the same fix as a host of the Journal's admirers—the big banks—but the depression has hit her twice, of thrice as hard as it did Wall Street, and the R. F. C. hasn't been nearly so generous with her.

THE TERRIBLE SHRINKAGE.

From the Emporia (Kan.) Daily Gazette.

THE extent to which workers' wages have shrunk in this country in the last four years is revealed by looking at the number of employees on Class I railroads. The total is 362,112 compared with an average of 1,863,476 employed in 1923, representing a drop of 47 per cent. The compensation showed a greater decline. It was 54 per cent. The wage loss indicated was $117,738,572 per month. That is in just one industry.

That loss explains the empty buildings on the business streets, the empty offices, the empty homes, the cloth signs advertising forced sales on store fronts, the hitchhikers on the highways, the army of the unemployed. The farmer and the worker must prosper before the times will seriously change.

N. STRAUS DIES,
NEW YORK MERCHANT

Vice-President of R. H. Macy Co.—Former State Republican Treasurer.

The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Herb Straus, president of L. Bamber & Co., Newark department store vice-president of R. H. Macy Co. of New York, died at his home here yesterday.

He was a brother of Jesse L. Straus, recently appointed Ambassador to France. He had been suffering from a heart ailment for weeks. He was 51 years old. A native of New York, Mr. Straus was educated at Harvard University. During the World War he was a member of the Hoover administration in Washington, controller of the War Treasury.

He was the youngest of the three sons of Isidor and Ida Blum Straus, who were lost in the Titanic disaster in 1912.

Began as Stock Boy. Following his graduation from Harvard in 1903 he started for H. Macy & Co., then a partner of his father and his partner in the late Nathan Straus, as a stock boy.

When Macy's was incorporated in 1919 he became secretary-treasurer, and when the company acquired stores in Atlanta and in Toledo was made a director of each. With the acquisition by Macy's of the Bamberger store in New York he became president of that store. N. STRAUS DIES, NEW YORK MERCHANT

Vice-President of R. H. Macy & Co.—Former State Republican Treasurer.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Herbert N. Straus, president of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark department store, and vice-president of R. H. Macy & Co. of New York, died at his home here yesterday.

He was a brother of Jesse Isador Straus, recently appointed Ambassador to France. He had been suffering from a heart ailment for six weeks. He was 51 years old.

A native of New York, Mr. Straus was educated at Harvard University. During the World War he became a member of the Hoover administration in Washington and later controller of the War Trade Board.

He was the youngest of the three sons of Isidor and Ida Blum Straus, who were lost in the Titanic disaster in 1912.

Began as Stock Boy.
Following his graduation from Harvard in 1903 he started work in R. H. Macy & Co., then a partnership of his father and his uncle, the late Nathan Straus, as a stock boy.

When Macy's was incorporated in 1910 he became a secretary-treasurer and when the company acquired stores in Atlanta and in Toledo, he was made a director of each.

With the acquisition by Macy's of the Bamberger store in Newark he became president of that unit. His friendship for Franklin D. Roosevelt resulted in his becoming a trustee of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation several years ago.

He diverged from the Democratic trend of his family by supporting Herbert Hoover for the presidency. In 1928 he was elected treasurer of the New York State Republican Committee and served for two years. He was one of the New York delegates who nominated Mr. Hoover at Kansas City and in December of last year he was made treasurer of the Republican New York Mayoralty Committee for 1933.

ARMY DAY PARADE IN CAPITAL
President and Sec'y of War Derna Review Procession.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt, with Secretary of War Derna and Army and Navy officials, yesterday reviewed an Army Day Parade of 80 Military and Patriotic units, commemorating the Sixteenth Anniversary of America's entry into the World War.

The Presidential Party was in a specially constructed stand on Constitution Avenue. Included were Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the Army; Admiral William V. Pratt, Chief of Naval operations, and Major-Gen. Ben A. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps. Two confederate veterans broke ranks at the reviewing stand and joined the President.

Price, a former Governor of Missouri, was made Major-General of State Militia in 1861. At the outbreak of the Civil War he gathered together and headed 9000 Confederate troops. He fought the battle of Wilson's Creek which Gen. Nathaniel Lyon was killed. In September, 1864, he invaded Missouri and advanced to the environs of both St. Louis and Jefferson City, but was repulsed in his attack at these places. Price died in St. Louis Sept. 28, 1867.

CHERRY BLOSSOMS PILGRIMAGE SUNDAY

Great Crowds Will View Beauty of Japanese Trees in Potomac Park at Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The national capital's famous harbinger of spring, the Japanese cherry trees in Potomac Park, are expected to be in bloom by Sunday, and Washington is preparing for the customary cherry blossom pilgrimage.

The trees, long considered symbolic of American-Japanese friendship, as said by Government horticulturists to be in unusually good condition, presaging one of the most beautiful blossom "shows" in years.

First to bloom is the Somers Yoshino, the single blossom tree, most famous of the 12 varieties in Potomac Park. That is the kind familiarly pictured with the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial in the background.

Remaining in flower about 10 days, they still will be in blossom Easter Sunday unless killed by adverse weather conditions. The double blossom trees, which bloom about two weeks later, usually are in flower for a period of two weeks.

Single Blossom Flowers.

The single blossom flowers are of a delicate pink shade but gradually fade, becoming as the Japanese express it, "like the snow which never touched the sky."

Some persons, however, consider the double blossoms, which are of a rich pink, more beautiful. Their Japanese name is Kikuokuj, meaning supreme happiness or fertility. Other varieties range in color from white to a greenish yellow or reddish pink.

Presented to the City of Washington by the municipality of Tokio in 1912 as a token of good will and esteem, these trees are seen in bloom annually by increasing thousands. Many return year after year to enjoy their delicate beauty.

On a Sunday April, 1931, a second-breaking crowd of 22,000 journeyed to Potomac Park to see the blossoms, the park police counting 34,340 bridges crossing the inlet, a bridge near the tidal basin within 40 hours.

"First Lady" Planted First Tree
Mrs. William H. Taft, as "first lady," planted the first tree in the presence of the Japanese Ambassador in March, 1912. At Mrs. Taft's invitation, Viscountess Chinda, wife of the Japanese Ambassador, planted the second tree. Both trees now are marked by inscribed bronze tablets.

Katsuj Dabuchi, present Japanese Ambassador to the United States, says "they have come to be looked upon as a lasting emblem of the friendly relationship that has existed between the country which sent them forth and the country which adopted them."

The imperial festival of the cherry blossom has been celebrated for more than 1000 years on the island of Nippon. Each year the Emperor gives a blossom garden party at the palace.

lending company or an investment house are liable for recovery (in case of misrepresentation in prospectuses)," he said, "it will make it impossible for business to be done because no one will take such responsibility. Honest men of means would not risk their property. Crooks would put their property in the name of some one else and then there would be no recovery."

MacLean asserted the "financing of industry in this country depends to a considerable extent upon the activities of legitimate security dealers and, unless they are permitted reasonable freedom of action and reasonable profit in their business, a large amount of development work in this country will be retarded."

He complained also against the grounds upon which it is proposed the Trade Commission may revoke registrations of securities, saying the bill as now drawn would give the Commission "practically dictatorial power over all business in this country."

Thomas Creigh, counsel for the Cudahy Packing Co. of Chicago, contended the definitions of securities were so broad that personal notes and ordinary commercial borrowings would be hampered. Members of the committee told Creigh the bill already had been amended to make certain it did not apply to such transactions.

"Nothing But Advertising Men." Ollie M. Butler of the Commerce Department told the committee that to relieve directors of responsibility of mistakes or misrepresentations of an auditor, would "practically nullify the strength of that provision. The theory back of that section is that a majority of directors are nothing but advertising men."

While the Senate Committee continued its hearing, the House Interstate Commerce Committee designated a subcommittee to redraft the administration bill. Representatives Rayburn of Texas, Chairman, Huddleston of Alabama, and Lea of California, Democrats, and Parker of New York, Mapes of Michigan, Republicans, were the members chosen for the task. They met in executive session and began immediately a redraft of the measure. An amendment limiting the bill's regulation to issues of securities made after the bill becomes effective already has been approved.

44 Pct. of Defaulted Foreign Bonds Those of National Governments.

NEW YORK, April 7. — The American Council of Foreign Bondholders, of which Dr. Max Winkler is president, has completed an analysis which discloses that about 44 per cent of all the defaulted foreign bonds outstanding are the issues of national governments. The total amounts of foreign dollar bonds in default, according to the Council's survey, is apportioned as follows: National governments, $16,881,500; provincial governments, $275,708,700; municipal governments, $196,222,400; banks, $121,900,000, and corporations, $238,321,000.

Perhaps the most discouraging feature of the situation, the survey points out, "is that so large a proportion of the whole should be national or Federal Government obligations since, evidently, the superior resources of supreme powers should enable them to continue payments after political subdivisions and corporations give up the struggle and confess their insolvency."

The Government of the Republic of Chile heads the list with bonds in default with interest payments totaling $175,405,000. Following Chile, the Government of Brazil is listed with defaults of $144,672,000; Peru with $87,210,000; Russia with $74,000,000; Bolivia with $59,432,000; Jugo-Slavia with $43,804,000; Greece with $36,518,000; Bulgaria with $16,988,000; Salvador with $12,800,000, and Costa Rica with $7,285,000.

SHAW ISSUES A DENIAL

NEW YORK, April 7.—George Bernard Shaw, playwright, intends to elaborate on the theme that "all Americans are blind and deaf—and dumb" when he arrives in New York on April 11, but he denied today that he ever made the remark in the presence of Helen Keller.

Shaw made the denial in a wireless to the Brooklyn Eagle in response to a query from that paper. "I shall repeat the remark at greater length on the 11th, but I never made it in the presence of my friend, Helen Keller," his message said. Miss Keller had said, in a published article, that her teacher conveyed the remark to her at the home of Lady Astor after Shaw had been told that she was blind and deaf and dumb.

Something More than Beer is back

Beer is back! In those three simple words a great American industry goes back to work. Hands long idle find new jobs. Faces empty of hope brighten to a new promise. Thousands upon thousands find honorable livelihood. A vast American market—a new frontier of industry reopens,—bringing sorely needed business to farmers, transportation and to hundreds of other industries. And with it, a new fountain head of tax revenue arises to add its dollars gladly to a nation in need.

Beer is back! But is that all? No! To cheer, to quicken American life with hospitality of old, the friendly glass of good-fellowship is back. Sociability and good living return to their own, once more to mingle with memories and sentiments of yesterday. America looks forward—and feels better.... Beer is back! Yes! But much more than that. Beer at its best is back—the brew that everybody knew best—the king of bottled beers that outsold any other bottled beer on earth.

Measure Rewriting Utility Law of State Will Not Reach Governor for Several Days.

SENATE APPROVES HOUSE CHANGES

Measure Goes Through Legislature Backed by the Most Powerful Lobby in Many Years.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—The Senate has put up to Gov. Park the Buford bill to rewrite the public utility law of the State. The measure had the backing of the most powerful public utility lobby which has operated at the State Capitol in many years.

As when the bill passed the House a week ago, lobbyists representing electric and gas companies, bus companies and railroads occupied seats in the galleries and were in constant attendance at the doors of the Senate chamber. One occasionally was seen on the floor of the Senate during the debate yesterday.

They heard themselves denounced from the Senate floor by Senator Joffe of Kansas City, who characterized the scene in the House as "the most dastardly thing he ever had seen in the Capitol."

"Members of the House went to these lobbyists for their orders," Joffe said. "They listened to the voices of their constituents, but to the orders of the lobbyists."

Amendments Adopted.

The action of the Senate marks final passage of the bill. All the amendments adopted in the House were approved in the Senate and it will be unnecessary for the bill to go back to the House. The measure will not reach the Governor for several days and he will not act on it for some time.

Though there were 11 votes against the bill, Senator Joffe was the only Senator who made any actual fight on it during the debate.

He charged that the Senate had been misled as to the provisions of the act, which contains 190 printed pages and which few, if any of the Senators, have read entirely through. He cited a memorandum circulated by Senator Buford, the author of the bill, in the substitute on which final action was taken.

He absolved Buford from responsibility for the misinformation, saying that he understood the memorandum had been prepared by others, but he pointed out numerous changes which had been made in sections which, according to the memorandum, were said to be the same as in the original bill.

No Regulation of Gas.

He asserted that under the bill all gas distributed in Missouri for heating and cooking purposes, which he said was 96 per cent of the gas sold, would not be regulated by the commission. He said the bill was specifically in the interests of the electric, gas, bus and railroad companies.

"There has been no explanation of any reason why this bill should be passed," Joffe said. "Its opponents have been criticised, but not one word has been advanced as to a reason for any changes which this bill proposes in the utility law."

"We have the right to inquire as to who is back of the bill," Joffe said. "We had our answer when the bill was before the House a week ago. There we saw the lobbyists of these powerful interests, at work with members in the corridors and in the lobbies and on the floor of the House. I personally saw House members go to these lobbyists for their orders. It was the most dastardly thing I have ever seen in the Capitol."

"We" Have the Votes.

"One of these lobbyists, representing probably the most powerful gas corporation in the State, was asked when the vote in the House was about to be taken, 'How many votes have you?' He replied, 'I think we have 62 for certain.' 'Who, may I ask, are we?' The answer is plain: the public utility interests."

"To pass this bill will give to these utility interests the things they want, the things they were willing to pay high-priced lobbyists to get for them. If you pass it you will wreck the public utility law, and you will desert the interests of the people of the State."

Senator Rollins of Columbia and Senator Bates of St. Louis spoke briefly in opposition to the bill. It was defended by Senator Buford and by Senator Clark of Richmond, who handled it on the floor for Buford.

St. Louisans 4 to 2 for bill. Four St. Louis Senators, Kinney, Brogan, Depelheuer and Doran, voted for the bill, and two, Bates and Nolte, against it.

The vote was:
For the bill—Briggs of Macon, Brogan of St. Louis, Buford of Ellington, Casey of Kansas City, Clark of Richmond, Clayton of Hannibal, Crouse of St. Joseph, Daggs of Kahoka, Dail of Marceline, Depelheuer of St. Louis, Doran of St. Louis, Gordon of Liberty, Hixon of Ozark, Kelly of Pineville, Kennedy of Marshall, Kinney of St. Louis, McDowell of Charleston, Robertson of Rockport, Shotwell of St. Louis County, Terry of Pastus and Wisdom of Bowling Green—21.

Against the bill—Bates of St. Louis, Donnelly

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE AWAITS WASHINGTON ACTION

Prepared to Modify Regulations if Necessary, Its President, B. F. Jacobs, Says.

B. F. Jacobs, newly elected president of the St. Louis Stock Exchange, said today no changes in regulations of the local exchange were contemplated pending action along that line by the Federal Government. The New York Stock Exchange and exchanges in other cities have been watching developments in Washington with reference to increased restrictions on market operations.

"We will be the first to modify our rules to comply with any suggestions coming from Washington," said Jacobs. "We will be guided, too, by changes which may be made in regulation of the New York Stock Exchange. Of course, we have never had the problems here that have arisen in New York—we have more of an investors' market in St. Louis than a speculative one."

The first meeting of the new board of governors will be held next week, and any proposals by new members for modification of existing rules will be heard then, Jacobs said.

Woman Flyer Reaches Hanoi. HANOI, French Indo-China, April 7.—Maryse Hiltz, French woman flyer, arrived here this morning from Vientiane on a flight by easy stages from Paris to Tokyo. Fears had been expressed at Rangoon, Burma, that an accident might have befallen her since she was overdue at that point. She left Vientiane at 7 a. m. today after landing there at 6 p. m. yesterday from Calcutta.

BEER SENT TO ROOSEVELT FORWARDED TO PRESS CLUB

Cases From Breweries in Three Cities Are Received at White House.

WASHINGTON, April 7. — The shipment of beer delivered to President Roosevelt were forwarded by him today to the National Press Club with his compliments. Breweries of Washington, Baltimore and Milwaukee sent cases of the new brew to the White House.

Mrs. Roosevelt has said beer would be served in the White House to those who desired it but she didn't care for any herself. The President has reserved comment on whether he will care for any but apparently none is going to be served right away.

Flown by an airplane, "The Spirit of 32," two cases of beer arrived at the White House today from Milwaukee. The two cases brought the product of seven Milwaukee breweries to President Roosevelt. The airplane left the Wisconsin city at 1:10 o'clock this morning.

With the beer was a long resolution. It began: "In gratitude to Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, and related 'by this single act of expunging from our national statutes onerous restrictions that were contrary to the spirit of a free Government, your administration has restored to useful employment thousands of worthy Americans.' The communication ended, 'Good health, President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Long life, prosperity, Prosperity.' A truck from the Abner Drury Brewery here delivered two cases to the White House at 12:05 a. m.

COURT PERMITS SHIPMENT OF BEER IN KENTUCKY

Orders Railroad to Accept It Without Paying on Whether 3.2 Per Cent Is Violation.

By the Associated Press. FRANKFORT, Ky., April 7. — Without deciding whether 3.2 per cent beer violates the Federal or State prohibition amendments, the Kentucky Court of Appeals yesterday ordered the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to accept for intrastate shipment beer of such alcoholic content pending final determination on its merits of a test suit brought by a Louisville brewing company.

The decision assured Kentuckians for the present, at least, they will be able to quaff 3.2 beer unless their local officers interfere. Acting on an opinion of Attorney General Bailey P. Wootton that there is nothing in the State Constitution or dry enforcement act to forbid the manufacture or sale of 3.2 beer, most Kentucky communities went ahead with plans for sale of the beverage.

The question as to the legality of the beer was put up to Appeal late Judge William Rogers Clay and five other members of the State's highest court at a hearing on an appeal from a decision of Judge John Marshall Jr. of Louisville enjoining the L. & N. Railroad from refusing to accept 550 cases of 3.2 beer from the Falls City Ice & Beverage Co. of Louisville for shipment to Henderson, Ky. Judge Clay ordered the injunction continued in force without passing on the merits of the issue.

TO BE ON ROLL

Associate Director M.
Estimate — No Sea
Letdown, May Was Last Year, He Says.

Relief agencies of St. Louis asked Gov. Park to apply Reconstruction Finance Commission for $1,027,000 in Federal funds to be used in May and June. P. H. Byrnes, associate director of the Citizens' Committee for Relief, said the figure is for 37,000 families would be under during those months and the total cost of relief would be $1,027,000. That figure is for city alone, and is exclusive of cost of work relief.

During March there were families under care in St. Louis and the cost of relief $573,024. For March and April relief agencies are to receive $1,000 from the R. F. C.

Byrnes said there was no expectation the seasonal decline relief burden which occurs in May and June would have been the relief agencies curtailed their work for lack of funds.

Deficit of $1,850,000. The R. F. C. has made $2,000,000 available to meet relief costs from last October until the end of the fiscal year. The deficit from that source are on to meet the major part of cost of family relief work in St. Louis this year.

The United Relief Campaign will be recalled, fell $1,280,000 of its $3,850,000 goal. Allow uncollectible pledges, the commission estimates $2,000,000 will be available from funds raised in that campaign having a deficit of $1,850,000.

With the approval of R. F. C. officers, it was decided that orphan asylums, homes, aged and similar institutions participated in the United Campaign should receive the allotment, and that family relief organizations, which may use relief money, should absorb the deficit.

The relief budget for St. Louis this year is $3,800,000, which includes $2,300,000 to be used for the city's $4,600,000 relief bond. Half of the bond issue fund budgeted for use next year.

Several Hundreds Seeking Jobs Turned Away. Several hundred young men applied for jobs in the Citizens' Conservation Corps today at the Citizens' Committee Application Bureau, 1806 Washington.

They were turned away because the committee has already filled the 900 men St. Louis rolls in the first contingent of the corps.

These men, it is anticipated, will be sent to Jefferson Barracks next week for two weeks of physical conditioning and discipline.

They will then go to work on the national forests in Mississippi Valley. There are 100 men in the corps. The men will be $30 a month, in addition to clothing, lodging and medical care, and will be expected to contribute a substantial part of their families. Relief think $15 a month may be a "substantial."

RELIEF AGENCIES SEEK $1,027,000 MORE FROM R. F. C.

St. Louis Asks Gov. Park to Request Appropriation to Meet Needs for May and June.

37,000 FAMILIES TO BE ON ROLLS

Associate Director Makes Estimate — No Seasonal Letdown, May Was Peak
Last Year, He Says.

Relief agencies of St. Louis have asked Gov. Park to apply to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $1,027,000 in Federal relief funds to be used in May and June.
F. H. Byrns, associate director of Citizens Committee on Relief and Employment, estimated today that 37,000 families would be under care during those months and that the total cost of relief would be $1, 027,000. That figure is for the city alone, and is exclusive of the cost of work relief.

During March there were 30,893 families under care in St. Louis and the cost of relief was $743, 000. For March and April the relief agencies are to receive $743, 000 from the R. F. C.
Byrns said there was no reason to expect the seasonal decline in the relief burden which occurs in normal years. May was the peak month last year, he pointed out, and June would have been had not the relief agencies curtailed operations for lack of funds.

Deficit of $1,650,000.
The R. F. C. has made $2,248,438 available to meet relief costs in St.
Louis from last October until May.
Funds from that source are relied on to meet the major part of the cost of family relief work in St.
Louis this year.

The United Relief Campaign, it will be recalled, fell $1,280,000 short of its $3,850,000 goal. Allowing for unobtainable pledges, the committee estimates $2,200,000 will be available from funds raised in that campaign, leaving a deficit of $1,650,000.

With the approval of R. F. C. officials, it was decided that hospital and orphan asylums, homes for the aged and similar institutions which participated in the United Relief Campaign should receive their full allowance and that family relief organizations, which may use public relief money, should absorb the deficit.

The relief budget for St. Louis this year is $8,600,000, which includes $2,300,000 to be used from the R. F. C.'s $4,600,000 relief bond issue.
Half of the bond issue funds are budgeted for use next year.

Several Hundreds Seeking Forest

plied for jobs in the Citizens' Conservation Corps today at the Citizens' Committee Application Bureau, 1906 Washington avenue.
They were turned away because the committee has already selected 300 families now on the relief roll. The 300 men St. Louis may enroll in the first contingent of the corps.

These men, it is anticipated, will be sent to Jefferson Barracks early next week for two weeks of physical conditioning and disciplinary training.

They will then go to work in one of the national forests in the Mississippi Valley. There are none in Missouri. The men will be paid $20 a month, in addition to food, clothing, lodging and medical care, and will be expected to contribute a substantial part of their wage to the families. Relief workers think $20 a month may be regarded as "substantial."

HOUSE WOULD FORCE J. P. DUTIES ON SUPREME COURT

Vote to Have Missouri Tribunal Decide Claims for Damages Against Highway Department.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—An amendment to an appropriation bill which in effect would impose justice of the peace court duties on the Missouri Supreme Court, by requiring it to determine the reasonableness of certain claims for damages against the State Highway Department, was adopted today by the House.

Under this amendment any claimant for damages against the Highway Department would be required, after obtaining a relief appropriation from the Legislature, to have the claim approved by the Supreme Court before the State Auditor could pay it.

The proposal confers original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to pass on these claims, varying from $200 to $2000.

The amendment was devised after a number of House members objected that they had no knowledge of the circumstances or merits of about 30 such claims, for which appropriations had been included in the relief appropriation bill. It was urged that some means be provided for investigation of the claims.

Rural members objected the amendment was intended to provide additional business for lawyers, in handling such claims before the court. So the House lawyers consented to a provision in the amendment by which the Supreme Court would limit attorney fees in cases involving such claims.

The House disregarded a provision in the existing law, that at least $7500 must be involved in a civil case to confer jurisdiction on the Supreme Court, unless the case involves a constitutional point or the title to real estate.

MORO OUTLAW SURRENDERS

Last of Band That Killed 12 Members of Constabulary.

MANILA, P. I., April 7.—Almnan
Saccam, sole survivor of the outlaw Moro band which ambushed a detachment of constabulary men last Oct. 9, killing 12 officers, surrendered today. In fighting which followed the ambush, more of the rebellious tribesmen were involved and 50 more lives lost.

Saccam told Capt. Leon Angeles at Jolo in the Southern Islands where the outbreak occurred, that his five remaining followers would surrender tomorrow. The outbreak, the most serious of its kind in recent years, resulted in the sentencing to prison for murder of Datu Abdullah. His son, Imman
Ibba, led the ambush.

TAX PENALTY BILL REPASSED

Measure for Cancellation on Delinquencies Ready for Governor.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.— Senate bill No. 80, providing for cancellation of all penalties on delinquent real estate taxes, providing the taxes are paid in full by June 30, was re-passed by the Senate today with two House amendments.

One amendment made certain that 1932 taxes are included as well as those of prior years and the other clarified a phase of the bill which House members thought might exclude some counties of the state from its provisions. As amended, it refers to all counties. It will be sent to Gov. Park for signature within a day or two.

HOUSE OF COMMONS PASSES SOVIET EMBARGO MEASURE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 7.—The Government's Russian embargo bill went to the House of Lords today after receiving final approval of the House of Commons.

It is expected to become effective April 15 but the Government made it clear it hoped never to have to use its provisions. The bill was requested as a Government weapon to be used to protect the interests of six British engineers who are to be tried soon in Russia on charges of espionage and sabotage.

The House of Commons passed the measure by a vote of 291 to 41, with opposition Liberals abstaining.
Last night after Foreign Secretary
Sir John Simon said the Government would make it applicable only to the case of the engineers and for no longer than three months. The British Government contends the men have no chance for a fair trial and that the charges were manufactured to provide a "show" to draw attention from Soviet industrial difficulties.

SHRUBS FOR NEW HIGHWAY 66

Almost a mile of the newly built highway No. 66 has been planted with shrubs and trees at Eureka by the Eureka Beautification Club.

The work was done under the direction of the State Highway Department with funds raised when the highway was opened last Oct. 22.
Most of the shrubs and trees have been donated by residents of the neighborhood. Trees planted include sycamores, elms, redbird, wild crab, wild plum, and service berry.
The club is co-operating with a similar organization in Gray's Summit to complete the planting out

UMBRELLA TO PROTECT PLANE PROPELLERS FROM ICE

Perfection of Device to Make Flying Safer Announced
By Cornell University.

IITHACA, N. Y., April 7.—An ice umbrella for propellers, a device said to overcome the last remaining ice peril for airplanes, was announced at Cornell University.

This umbrella shields the hub of the propeller, it is small, about the diameter of the hub, its shape that of a mushroom. It projects slightly in front of the propeller.
In flight ice that ordinarily gathers on the whirling hub does not form there at all, but all collects on the umbrella. The danger is not from the ice on or directly in front of the propeller, but the danger is that because of this hub, ice spreads both directions outward along the whirling blades.

By preventing the formation on the hub, the announcement states, the ice on the blades is eliminated completely.

What's the Value of a TRADE-MARK?

TODAY the Chesterfield trade-mark is very valuable.
Back of it is the good will of thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands—of smokers.

Chesterfield cigarettes were first manufactured more than twenty-five years ago. At the start, they were sold at a loss, but the quantity sold increased steadily from year to year, until now Chesterfields are sold in great volume at a very small percentage of profit.

The Chesterfield trade-mark, as indicated above, is registered in the United States Patent Office. This means that the United States Government says that only Chesterfield may use this trade-mark for cigarettes.

This is not only for our protection, but for yours as well, because what the Chesterfield trade-mark really means is that you and all Chesterfield smokers will get Chesterfields manufactured under the same formula, by the same people, and in all respects absolutely the same, in every package you buy, year in and year out.

Wherever you buy them, in this or in any other country, you can depend upon the Chesterfield trade-mark.

FORESTRY JOBS GOAL IS SET AT 100,000 BY MAY 1

Director of Unemployment Relief Hopes to Have First 25,000 in Conditioning Camps Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Preparations went ahead in 17 cities today for movement of the first men selected for President Roosevelt's Forestry Conservation Corps into conditioning camps.

The first contingent consisting of 25,000 men is to be fully mobilized by tomorrow.

Robert Fechner, director of the combined forestation and employment relief program, has set enrollment of 100,000 men by May 1 as his goal.

After two weeks of conditioning, the men will go into the woods.

Fechner, with approval of the White House, has announced that selection of recruits after the first 25,000, will fall more heavily on state public employment officials. In selecting the first contingent, city, state and other agencies were used by the Labor Department, and there was considerable criticism, some coming from members of Congress.

Younger Men Preferred.
Fechner explained that, under the new plan, the Labor Department "will consult with the state officials having had the administration of unemployment relief in the respective states, and will arrange for the selection of men from the lists of applicants for work and for other assistance which already exist in every state in the Union." Unmarried men from 18 to 25, who will comprise the entire membership of the first contingent, will be the preferred classification in future enrollment. But, in addition the new arrangement will open the way for a small number of unemployed who live in the area where projects will be undertaken. The young men enrolled must agree to allot from $22 to $25 of their $30 monthly pay to dependent relatives. Each state will have a fixed quota in proportion to its population.

Thousands of projects were outlined yesterday at a meeting of state foresters and other representatives of states.

From Hats to Toothpaste.
Everything from hats to toothpaste will be furnished members of the Forestry Conservation Corps. Army clothing will be issued while the men are in conditioning camps. Each recruit will receive an olive drab jacket and slacks, work suits of denim, socks, shoes, a work hat, other clothing and two blankets.

Those who want to use their own clothing may do so, provided it is suitable for work in forests. Toilet and mess kits will be supplied.

The remainder, after recruits allot from $22 to $25 to dependents, out of their $30 monthly wage will be sufficient to meet their needs for spending money, in the opinion of Fechner.

The work camps will house 200 men. The number may be reduced in cases where only 20 to 50 men will be required on small projects. Army tents will be used while the War Department's surplus supply lasts. Additional tenting may have to be purchased.

By Truck, Bus and Train.

Most of the work equipment will be furnished by the Forestry and Park services and the War Department except in cases of projects on State or private lands, where State equipment will be used in many instances.

Transportation to recruiting camps and later to work camps will be handled by the Corps Area commanders. Short movements will be by motor truck and bus; longer jumps by rail.

The Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and other organizations plan entertainment and welfare programs for the camps. Each camp will set up a medical tent. Some camps will provide libraries. Moving pictures will be shown wherever possible and sports programs are to be arranged.

NINE PERSONS GO ON TRIAL FOR KENTUCKY CULT MURDER

Children of Woman Victim Among Defendants; Insanity Plea by Leader of Mountaineers.

By the Associated Press.
INDY, Ky., April 7.—A weird ceremony among Kentucky mountaineers in which an elderly woman was offered up as a human sacrifice was said by the defense in a murder and conspiracy trial here yesterday to have been due to the insanity of John H. Mills, 35-year-old leader of a small cult.

Mrs. Lucinda Mills, 67, the victim, known as "Aunt Lucindy" to most of the population of this isolated hill county, was the mother or mother-in-law of eight of the defendants and the grandmother of the ninth. When the trial was called, counsel for John H. Mills obtained an agreement from Commonwealth Attorney J. B. Clark that two mental specialists be brought here from Lexington to examine him. The trial was postponed pending the examination.

"It is our idea that he was crazy then and that he is crazy now," said Harry H. Ramsey of Salyersville, of defense counsel. "The case will probably turn on the condition of this defendant, not only at the time of the killing, but at present." Scores of people came in from the hills on horses and mules and in wagons and automobiles to join the townspeople in hearing the trial, despite the dirt roads wet from April showers.

BRIDE IN FIRST BALLOON WEDDING, DIES IN GENEVA, N. Y.

Mrs. J. F. Boynton, Former St. Louisan, Was Married in Ceremony Over New York in 1870.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
GENEVA, N. Y., April 7.—Mrs. Mary A. Boynton, 90 years old, the first aerial bride, died here today. She was the widow of Dr. John F. Boynton, noted geologist and professor at Syracuse University.

Mrs. Boynton, as Miss Mary A. West of St. Louis, was married Nov. 8, 1870, in Prof. Thomas S. C. Love's balloon "United States," several thousand feet above Central Park, New York. It was the first recorded aerial marriage and attracted wide attention. Because there was some question of its legality, the ceremony was repeated in a Fifth avenue hotel.

Last Nov. 8 Mrs. Boynton voted in the national election and recalled that her wedding was also on election day.

Hot raised rolls for the bridge luncheon or other entertainment are delicious with fruit or chicken salad and the woman with an electrical refrigerator can easily treat her guests to these. Refrigerator cookies are food also.

Brain Refrigerator Rolls.

One cup shortening.
One cup boiling water.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
One cup bran.
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
Two eggs (well beaten).
Two compressed yeast cakes.
One cup lukewarm water.
Six generous cups flour (sifted before measuring).
Mix shortening, boiling water, sugar, bran and salt, stirring until shortening is melted. Let stand until mixture is lukewarm. Add eggs and yeast cakes dissolved in lukewarm water. Add flour, beat thoroughly. Cover bowl and place in refrigerator overnight. Form balls of dough to fill muffin tins about half full. Let rise two hours. Bake in hot oven about 20 minutes.

Refrigerator Cookies.

Mix two-thirds cup white sugar, one-half cup brown sugar, three-fourths cup melted shortening (one-half butter) two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, three cups sifted pastry flour (sifted twice with one-half teaspoon soda) and one cup rice flakes, measured, then crushed. Blend thoroughly after addition to each ingredient.

Pack into a pan lined with waxed paper, and chill six hours. Cut in very thin slices, and bake in a hot oven for five minutes.

STUFFED VEGETABLES ARE GOOD LUNCHEON DISHES

Form Spanish onions into cups by cutting out the centers and then pour enough boiling water to cover them and cook for about five minutes. Be very careful not to cook long enough to let them lose their shapes.

Make a mixture of the centers, bread or cracker crumbs, butter, salt and pepper to taste. Stuff the onion cups with this mixture and stand side by side in a pan with enough water to cover the bottom. Bake until tender.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Halve two cucumbers and remove seeds. Drop into a kettle of boiling water and cook for five minutes. Put them in a colander and let cold water run over them. Make a mixture of two well beaten eggs, one cup of bread crumbs, one cup chopped meat and enough cream to moisten.

Salt and pepper to taste. Stuff the cucumbers with this mixture and place in a baking dish with one-half cup of water and two tablespoons of butter, a slice of onion, a bay leaf and let cook for an hour.

A SALAD—DESERT WILL COMBINE TWO COURSES

Soak together for about five minutes one level tablespoonful gelatin and one-quarter cup cold water.

Combine two egg yolks, slightly beaten, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-third cup mild vinegar, three tablespoonfuls sugar, one tablespoonful butter, and two tablespoonfuls pineapple juice.

Heat in double boiler and gradually add to the above mixture two-thirds cup milk.

When mixture thickens remove from fire and add soaked gelatin. Cool and when mixture begins to congeal add one cup cream or evaporated milk, whipped, and one cup fruit, cut in small pieces.

Turn into wet mold. When ready to serve, remove to bed of crisp lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise to which a few tablespoonfuls whipped cream have been added.

CHICKEN CUTLETS

One cup cooked chicken, chopped. One and one-half cups finely crumbled crackers. One-half cup chicken stock, well seasoned. Three-quarters cup strained canned tomatoes. Salt and pepper. Two tablespoonfuls butter. Mix all ingredients except butter. Let stand 10 minutes. Season and shape into six cutlets. Place on a buttered pan, brush with butter and bake in a hot oven until brown. Serve with the following sauce: Brown one cup diced mushrooms and one tablespoonful flour in two tablespoonfuls butter, add three-quarters cup milk. Season and serve over cutlets.

Eggs in Coffee.

If you are one of the people who think that the addition of an egg helps enormously when you are making coffee, try this: Let the whites of two eggs become dry by leaving them on a shallow dish. Then crumble and mix this with your whole pound of coffee. This will save you both time and eggs, as the dried whites do not spoil.

OLD NOTION OF FISH AND MILK IS WRONG

Government Bureau De Two Can't Be Cooked Together.

Discard, if you have it, the old notion that fish and milk do not go together. One of the ways to cook fish steaks or to bake them in milk, says the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. Fish chowder is with milk. Cream sauce is with scalloped fish, and is a perfectly safe to eat fish and cream at the same meal, with anything adds to the value, and usually improves the food.

There are points of another to bear in mind in the cooking, according to Mrs. Fanny Featman, one of the food specialists of the bureau. First of all, she says, cook fish at moderate temperature. Fish is a protein food, high temperature toughens the moderate heat allows the protein to cook evenly, keeps the protein tender and doesn't drive out the fat. To brown the outside, of course, may have to start with a high temperature or increase the heat at the end.

Otherwise, for best results, method of cooking should be according to the fatness of the fish. The fattest kinds—halibut, mackerel, shad—are broiled or baked. But the kinds need fat to give them taste and flavor. They are fried or baked in milk, or with a sauce.

For baking fish, Mrs. Featman recommends a temperature of 350 degrees F., which is a moderate heat. If it is a large fish, on a rack in the pan just add water. If the fish itself is fat and there is danger of drying out, lay a few strips of pork or bacon over the top, or occasionally with melted fat.

To cook fish in water, similar to the same principle of meat. If it is a large piece, wrap it in a piece of cheesecloth and there is danger of drying out, lay a few strips of pork or bacon over the top, or occasionally with melted fat.

OLD NOTION OF FISH AND MILK IS WRONG

Government Bureau Denies Two Can't Be Cooked Together.

Discard, if you have it, the old-time notion that fish and milk are not good together. One of the best ways to cook fish steaks or fillets is to bake them in milk, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. Fish chowder is made with milk. Cream sauce is used with scalloped fish, and is served with fish baked or broiled. It is perfectly safe to eat fish and ice cream at the same meal. Milk with anything adds to the food value, and usually improves the flavor.

There are points of another kind to bear in mind in the cooking of fish, according to Mrs. Fanny W. Yeatman, one of the food specialists of the bureau. First of all, she says, "cook fish at moderate temperature. Fish is a protein food, and high temperature toughens protein. Moderate heat allows the fish to cook evenly, keeps the protein tender and doesn't drive out the juices. To brown the outside, of course, you may have to start with a higher temperature or increase the heat at the end."

Otherwise, for best results, the method of cooking should be chosen according to the fatness of the fish. The fattest kinds—herring, salmon, mackerel, shad—are better broiled or baked. But the lean kinds need fat to give them richness and flavor. They are better fried or baked in milk, or served with a sauce.

For baking fish, Mrs. Yeatman recommends a temperature of about 350 degrees F., which is a moderate heat. If it is a large fish, put it in a rack in the pan just as you would a roast of beef, and don't add water. If the fish itself is not fat and there is danger of its drying out, lay a few strips of salt pork or bacon over the top, or baste it occasionally with melted fat. Fillets of haddock with a well-seasoned bread-crumbs stuffing between and bacon on top are delicious this way, she suggests.

To cook fish in water, simmer it, do not boil it, says Mrs. Yeatman—in the same principle of moderate heat. If it is a large piece of fish, wrap it in a piece of cheesecloth, then put it in the kettle, pour on barely enough water to cover, add salt cover, and cook very slowly. Fish has no tough parts or tissues, so it cooks in a short time. An egg sauce—that is, sliced hard-boiled eggs in white sauce—is good with boiled fish. So is a creole sauce with canned tomatoes and green peppers. Left-over fish can be easily reheated in the sauce and served on toast. Or it can be used with vegetables in a fish chowder.

For frying, which to many people's way of thinking, is the best method of cooking fish, Mrs. Yeatman says give the pieces a good coating of flour or corn meal, have the fat hot when the fish is put in, but once the fish is brown, lower the heat and let it cook slowly, uncovered. This will give a crisp crust but will not dry out the fish.

Curried Fish.
Two pounds fresh halibut or other large fish.
Four tablespoons butter or other fat.
One tablespoon chopped green pepper.
One small onion, chopped.
Three tablespoons flour.
Two cups liquor from the simmered fish.
One-half to one teaspoon curry powder.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Two tablespoons chopped parsley.

Simmer the fish about 10 minutes in a small quantity of water, in a shallow pan; then drain. Meanwhile melt the fat and cook the green pepper and onion a few minutes; add the flour and the cooled fish liquor with water, if necessary, bring the quantity up to two cups. Cook for three or four minutes, add the seasonings, and stir constantly. Remove the skin and bones from the cooked fish, arrange on a hot platter with a border of fluffy rice, pour the sauce over the fish, and sprinkle the parsley on top.

Baked Fish Steak.
Two pounds halibut steak.
One-fourth cup melted butter or other fat.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One teaspoon minced onion.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-fourth cup finely chopped parsley.
Wipe the fish, remove any bones, and cut it into pieces for serving. To the melted fat add the lemon juice, minced onion and salt. Dip

PARLEY OVER THE FISH AND SERVE FROM THE DISH.
Broiled Fresh Fish.
Have the fish split down the back, wipe clean, and remove any scales and the head and tail if desired. Lay the fish skin side down on a greased shallow pan. If the fish is oily, no fat need be added; otherwise add enough to season well. Place under the flame in a broiler at moderate heat and cook for 20 to 30 minutes. Slip the broiled fish carefully onto a hot platter, season with salt and pepper, pour on the drippings, garnish with cress or parsley and sliced lemon, and serve at once. If the fish is very large and thick, heat for 15 minutes in a moderate oven before putting under the broiler flame.

CREOLE SALAD

Two large tomatoes.
Two green peppers.
Two oranges.
One tablespoon minced onion.

Cut each tomato into three slices. Take seeds from green peppers and cut each one into three rings. Peel oranges and cut in small pieces. On each salad plate arrange tomato slice topped with pepper ring. Fill center of ring with orange. Add minced onion to French dressing. Pour over salad.

Cottage Cheese Balls.

To one pound of Cottage Cheese add one tablespoon of melted butter, one and one-half tablespoons cream, a little paprika and salt to taste. Mix thoroughly and set on ice. Before serving mold into balls; roll these balls in ground walnut or pecan meats and serve on lettuce.

TUNA AND CAULIFLOWER

Slice four medium-sized cooked potatoes in thick slices, put a layer in buttered baking dish, cover with layer of flayed tuna, add a layer of small bits of cauliflower, covering with part of two cups of seasoned white sauce in which has been stirred two-thirds cup grated cheese. Repeat layers, and cover top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven half an hour.

tablespoons butter in pan, add four tablespoons flour slowly, blend well, add slowly two cups milk, stirring all the time. Bring to boiling point, season with salt and paprika, and cook about three minutes.

PRETZELS DATE BACK TO ANCIENT TIMES

Associated With Pagan Rites and Considered Early Good Luck Charms.

In a study of history of food products it has been found that one of the oldest is the pretzel. The pretzel's early history is shrouded in the mists of antiquity, pre-dating the ancient Romans, associated closely with mystic pagan rites and religious ceremonies.

At one period the pretzel took the form of a ring to be worn around the arm or neck on feast days, and was supposed to ward off the evil influence of witches and demons. Another long-standing tradition maintained that pretzels strung on cords or willow switches and fastened to fruit trees would insure good crops.

Good luck seems always to have been associated with the pretzel. In some European localities pretzels were distributed to the poor, and to school children, particularly on feast days. One legend has it that by pulling a pretzel apart while making a wish, one's fondest desire would be attained.

Nowhere was the pretzel more esteemed than in conservative Switzerland. Here in ancient days they were apportioned out as if they had been gold pieces. On baking day an allotment was made of eight for each male and five for each female.

Apparently they begin to lose some of their earlier mystic significance about the time the Renaissance began, and from then on they have been considered only as something good to eat.

Bending Done by Hand. The "bending" and baking of pretzels is one of the ancient handicrafts that grew up in Central Europe in the dark ages, and was introduced into this country by early Dutch and German settlers. Their descendants make up the present ranks of pretzel "benders."

The recipes for making pretzels are substantially as they have been handed down from mother to daughter through many generations of Dutch and German-Americans. Modern bakery methods have, of course, been introduced. The dough is mixed on a scientific basis to insure uniformity of product, and the actual making is done under rigid time and temperature controls. The mixing, rolling, cutting and slicing have been mechanized, and many pretzel products of simple design, such as the pretzel stick, require but little hand work.

But the actual shaping or "bending" of the old-style product for the most part still resists mechanization. It still remains a handicraft. The dough reaches the girls in a thin roll, about the length and circumference of a lead pencil. One end is staked in each hand and a double twist brings the two ends together and completes the looped design. Like the movement of a magician's hands, the operation is so rapid that the eye can hardly follow it. The daily output of the girl bakers runs into the thousands.

SOUR CREAM SALAD DRESSING

One teaspoonful mustard
One teaspoonful sugar
One-half teaspoonful salt
Speck pepper
One tablespoonful flour
One-half cupful milk
One and one-half teaspoonfuls butter

One egg
One-third cupful hot vinegar
One-half cupful sour cream
Combine dry ingredients in the top of a double boiler. Beat the egg, add the milk, and stir into the dry ingredients gradually. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture coats the spoon (do not let the water boil in the bottom of the double boiler). Add the hot vinegar and butter, and remove from the heat. Cool and add the sour cream.

ALMOND SAUCE

Four slices canned pineapple, one pint pineapple juice and water, one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup blanched almonds, one cup candied cherries cut in quarters, one-half cup finely cut citron.
Strain the juice from the canned pineapple, add sufficient water to make one pint, combine with sugar and salt and cook for about 10 minutes, or until the syrup is fairly thick.
Break the almonds in half, cut the sliced pineapple into thin pieces and add with the cherries and citron to the syrup. Boil for a few minutes, chill and serve over frozen custard, vanilla ice cream or blanc mange.

GRAPE SHAKE

Two and one-fourth cups grape juice
Three-fourth cup evaporated milk
Three-fourth cup cold water or chopped ice
Choose a standard brand of grape juice. All ingredients should be cold. Mix milk and water. Add grape juice and shake vigorously. The addition of three-fourth cup lemon juice adds zest to grape shake. If sour grape juice is used, add a little sugar.

CHOCOLATE DESERTS ALWAYS WELCOMED.

But a Little Variety Is Appreciated Now and Then.

No doubt you've heard of the Englishman who didn't care what kind of meat they served him as long as it was beef steak or roast beef.
Many don't care what the dessert is if it is only chocolate flavored.
But it needs a number of recipes to make even chocolate always interesting. Here are some to add to your dessert files, including two good chocolate frostings for any favorite cake recipe.

Chocolate Cream Pie.
Three squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces.
Three and one-half cups milk.
Three tablespoons flour.
Two tablespoons cornstarch.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons butter.
One egg slightly beaten.
One and one-half teaspoons vanilla.
One baked nine-inch pie shell.
Add chocolate to three cups milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Sift flour, cornstarch, sugar, and salt together; mix with one-half cup milk and add to chocolate mixture, stirring constantly until thickened.
Cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add butter and remove from fire. Add egg and vanilla and beat well. Turn into pie shell. Cool.
Chocolate Bread Pudding.
One and one-half squares unsweet-ened chocolate, cut in pieces.
Three cups milk.
One cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three eggs, slightly beaten.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One and one-half cups stale bread, cut in one-fourth inch cubes.
Add chocolate to milk in double boiler and heat. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, salt, and eggs. Add chocolate mixture gradually, stirring vigorously. Add vanilla. Place bread in greased baking dish. Pour mixture over it. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 50 minutes, or until pudding is firm. Serve hot with sauce, or cold with top milk.

Chocolate Souffle.
One-half cup finely crumbled soda crackers.
One ounce (one square) unsweet-ened chocolate.
One cup milk.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
Two egg yolks.
Two egg whites.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Crumble crackers into top of double boiler, add chocolate, milk, sugar and cinnamon and cook over hot water 10 minutes, stirring occasionaly. Remove from fire and stiffly-beaten egg whites and add vanilla. Turn into buttered baking dish, set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 45 minutes. Serve with cream.

Soft Chocolate Frosting.
Four squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces.
One and one-fourth cups milk.
Four tablespoons flour.
Two tablespoons butter.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Add chocolate to milk in double boiler and heat. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Sift flour with sugar; add a small amount of chocolate mixture, stirring until smooth. Return to double boiler, cook until thickened, add butter and vanilla. Cool and spread on cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two nine-inch layers.

Seven-Minute Frosting.
Two egg whites, unbeaten.
One and one-half teaspoons light corn syrup.
Three squares unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Five tablespoons water.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Put egg whites, sugar, corn syrup and water in upper part of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater and cook seven minutes until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire; fold in chocolate and vanilla.
(Do not heat mixture.) Cool and spread on cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two nine-inch layers.

Spinach Balls.
Prepare mashed potatoes in the usual way. Prepare creamed spinach as usual. Make small balls of spinach, cover them over with a thick coating of potato. Dip in beaten egg and bread crumbs and fry in hot fat until thoroughly brown.

BAKED PEPPERS

Baked peppers make an appetizing main dish—a mixture of boiled rice, grated cheese, a little onion and a beaten egg is usually used; or canned corn may be used with rice and just enough cheese to add flavor, or bread with leftover meat and seasonings. Parboil the peppers for five minutes, then drain, cool, remove a slice from the top and all the seeds.
If the peppers are very large they may be cut in half lengthwise and a half used for each portion. Fill

Combine half butter with flour in saucepan, blend smoothly, add water and bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Season, add lemon juice and pour while boiling over beaten egg. Finally add remaining butter a little at a time, beating well into sauce.
Apple Butter Tarts.
Line shallow tart pans with pie crust and fill with apple butter. Mix together until crumbly one heaping teaspoon flour, two heaping tablespoons of sugar and one tablespoon butter. Cover the top of the tarts with this mixture and bake in a moderately hot oven.
Braised Tongue.
Mix two cups sliced potatoes, one cup diced carrot (parboiled for 8 minutes) and one-half cup diced onion with one-half teaspoon salt and pepper and arrange with one-half pound thinly sliced cold smoked tongue in alternate layers in casserole.
Pour one cup cream of tomato soup over all, cover and bake in moderate oven until vegetables are tender and sauce rich and thick.
Salmon Loaf.
One large can salmon.
Four well beaten eggs.
Four tablespoons melted butter.
One-half cup bread crumbs.
Pepper, salt, parsley to taste.
Rub butter into salmon; put crumbs into eggs. Mix all together, season and mold into a buttered mold. Let steam for one hour.
Sauce for Salmon Loaf.
One cup hot milk thickened with one tablespoon of flour or corn starch. Add one tablespoon of butter and liquor of the salmon, one tablespoon of tomato catsup, one egg. Boil for one minute, and before serving, pour over mold.
Chicken Pie.
One stewing chicken.
One-half medium onion.
One tablespoon parsley.
Salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One-fourth cup flour.
Clean and cut up chicken. Put in a casserole with onion, parsley and bay leaf, salt and pepper. Cover with boiling water and cook slowly until tender. Thicken stock with flour, allowing two tablespoons of flour per cup of stock. Cover the chicken mixture with two cups of mashed, seasoned potatoes mixed with one beaten egg.
Potato Puffs.
Prepare three cups mashed potatoes. Add three tablespoons butter, salt and pepper to taste and yolk of two eggs. Beat until thoroughly mixed, then add enough hot milk to make potatoes light and creamy. Fill into baking dish, cover with a meringue made by beating stiffly the whites of two eggs and adding one-half cup grated cheese. Dust with paprika. Bake in modern oven until lightly browned.
Spring Onions on Toast.
Allow six or seven finger-sized onions for each serving. Trim off the green tops, cook the onions until tender in lightly salted boiling water in an uncovered vessel. This will take only about 20 minutes for fresh, young onions. When they have cooked tender, drain, add more salt if needed and season with melted butter. In the meantime, toast slices of bread. Arrange the onions in the same way as asparagus on toast, and serve at once.
Fish in Tomato Cups.
One pound halibut.
Six medium-sized tomatoes.
One and one-half cups cheese sauce.
Cut fish in bits, removing bone. Sprinkle with lemon juice, parsley and melted butter. Scoop centers out of tomatoes. Season on the inside with salt, pepper, put a roll of fish in each. Place in a baking pan and add a little water. Bake 30 minutes in hot oven, basting the fish with the liquid in the pan. Serve with cheese sauce.
Cheese Sauce.
One cup grated cheese.
One cup seasoned white sauce.
Dissolve cheese in white sauce.
Flour Measures.
In measuring a cupful of flour, the flour should not be packed tightly. When a recipe calls for a cupful of flour, it usually means a cupful of sifted flour.

Do not be deceived
by soap packages that look larger than the WHITE KING PACKAGE

THE White King Granulated package contains more pure soap than many packages of twice the size. That is because White King is made of condensed soap granules with no fluffing to make bulk. White King packs closely in the carton, like sugar.

■ The White King package weighs most in the way that counts most, because it is all pure condensed soap with all excess moisture taken out—with no filler added.

■ White King requires less rubbing, no bleach, no bluing. White King makes white things whiter and colored things brighter. For soap economy—soap satisfaction—soap efficiency—ask your grocer for White King Granulated Soap.

WHITE Granulated KING SOAP

CINNAMON WALNUTS

One cup granulated sugar
One-half teaspoon cinnamon
One-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar
One-fourth cup boiling water
One-half cup walnuts
One-half teaspoon vanilla
Mix the sugar, cinnamon, cream of tartar and water and boil to 246 degrees Fahrenheit or until it forms a firm ball when tried in cold water. Add the walnuts and cool. Add the vanilla and stir until the mixture sugars, then turn onto a flat surface and separate the walnut kernels.

Stew Hint.
A stew boiled is a stew spoiled. Let it simmer, never boil.

Wilted Lettuce.
Wash and drain the lettuce thoroughly. Fry diced salt pork on strips of bacon until crisp. If bacon, break the drips loose, after frying, into small pieces. Pour the fat and the drips pieces over the lettuce, which has been placed on hot vegetable dish. Serve at once with slices of hard-cooked egg on the top, if desired, and a little vinegar or lemon juice for added seasoning.

HOLY WEEK MENUS ARE EASY TO PREPARE NOW

Fish and Vegetables Plentiful—Cheese Combinations Good Also.

There is a wide variety of choice for meatless meals during Holy week. Never have fish and oysters been more plentiful or cheaper in St. Louis.
Then there are countless cheese recipes to be drawn from for soufles or in combination with spaghetti and macaroni.
A somewhat neglected possibility is vegetables for main dishes with cheese layers or cheese sauce to give substance to the recipe.
A Chinese curry sauce with shrimps, given below, is delicious on rice as a meat substitute. Rice is good also in croquettes.
Rice Croquettes.
Two cups boiled rice.
One beaten egg.
One-half teaspoon onion juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Two tablespoons minced parsley.
Two tablespoons melted butter.
Egg and bread crumbs.
Blend all ingredients and form into ball or cylinder shapes. Roll each in fine bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and again in crumbs.
Fry in deep hot fat until golden brown, drain on soft paper and serve with tomato or cheese sauce.

Chinese Curry.
Two tablespoons fat.
Two tablespoons flour.
One cup milk.
Two onions, sliced thin.
One cup shrimps.
One-third cup shredded coconut.
One tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.
One tablespoon salt.
One tablespoon curry.
One cup shrimps.
Melt fat in skillet, add flour and brown. Add milk, onions, shrimps, coconut and seasonings. Partially cover and cook over slow fire until onions are tender (about 20 minutes).
Escalloped Corn With Tomatoes.
One can corn.
One cut bread crumbs.
One and one-half cups canned tomatoes.
One small minced onion.
Two-thirds teaspoon salt.
One-sixth teaspoon pepper.
Slight grating nutmeg.
Two tablespoons buttered crumbs.
Put one-third of corn into baking dish, cover with one-third crumbs, then one-third tomatoes with which onion and seasonings have been simmered for 15 minutes. Repeat layers twice, sprinkle cheese over surface and bake half an hour in moderate oven.

CHICKEN A LA KING
Two cupfuls diced chicken meat.
Five tablespoonfuls oil.
Three tablespoonfuls chopped pimiento.
Six tablespoonfuls chopped green peppers.
One tablespoonful capers.
One and one-half cupfuls mushroom caps.
One teaspoonful salt.
Three cupfuls thin cream.
Two and one-half tablespoonfuls flour.
Two cupfuls fat.
Two egg yolks.
Cook mushroom caps five minutes in the oil, then add the mixture to the chicken, capers, peppers and pimiento, and add a dash of paprika and the salt. Prepare a white sauce of the fat, flour and cream, beating the two egg yolks, and pouring the sauce on them when it is done. Add the chicken mixture, heat thoroughly and serve on slices of buttered toast.

ORANGE CREAM
Three-quarters tablespoonful gelatine.
Two tablespoonfuls cold water.
One-half cup boiling water.
One-third cup sugar.
Grated rind of one-half orange.
Three tablespoonfuls cream whipped.
One egg yolk well beaten.
One egg white stiffly beaten.
One-quarter cup orange juice.
One-quarter cup evaporated milk.
Two teaspoonfuls lemon juice.
Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Simmer orange rind and sugar in water three minutes, add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Slowly stir hot mixture into beaten egg yolk, cook over boiling water until mixture thickens slightly, stirring constantly. Add orange juice, lemon juice, milk and cool until nearly set. Fold in egg white and whipped cream, mold and chill until firm.

Finger Bowls.
A very pretty touch is gained by placing a geranium or mint leaf in the water of each finger bowl. Try this the next time you have dinner guests and see how enthusiastic everyone is about the lovely fragrance these leaves impart when crushed.

JELLIED STRAWBERRIES

Three-fourths tablespoonful gelatin.
Three tablespoonful cold water.
Three-fourths cup hollup water.
One-half cup sugar.
One tablespoonful lemon juice.
One-half cup mashed strawberries.

Old Strings

Take a long screw and insert it in a large empty spool. Screw this into some handy place and use it to keep all your odd pieces of string on.

What to have to eat for the Easter party is a question now with many women, whether the guests are to be children or grown-ups.

A bunny salad will amuse and tempt the children, and sandwiches may be cut in bunny shape with a 10 cent cutter.

Flower pot ice cream is charming for the kiddies or bridge, and a peach Easter salad is good for the latter.

Easter eggs in baked chicken nests is an appropriate main dish for a luncheon.

Bunny Salad.

Place half a large canned pear, rounded side up, on a bed of shredded lettuce.

At small, or stem end, stick two salted almonds for ears, and three tiny pink candies for eyes.

Attach a small marshmallow or piece of fine on a toothpick at the other end for the bunny's "cotton tail."

A little grated carrot is placed on a lettuce leaf for the bunny to nibble, and a little boiled salad dressing may be served on one side.

Bunny Sandwiches.

Make these of slices of whole wheat bread and white bread, using one of each in each sandwich.

Crust lightly, spread with cream cheese or other filling and cut in bunny shapes with a small fancy cutter.

Flower Pot Ice Cream.

Pack ice cream in tiny flower pots, lined with waxed paper, or in paper cups which may be had in various colors and freeze it. Sprinkle ice cream with grated sweet chocolate to look like soil, and serve with tiny artificial flowers stuck in each portion.

Easter Fruit Salad.

Chill six halves of canned peaches and scoop out a small part of the center, leaving a basket for the salad. Next divide two small packages of soft white cream cheese into four parts and, using a small amount of vegetable coloring, tint each part of cheese a different color, leaving one part white. Chill the colored cheeses and form into small egg-shaped balls, using one egg of each color in each Easter basket. Do not color the cheeses deeply. After placing one tinted egg of each color in a pear basket, place on crisp chilled lettuce and garnish at one side with fruit salad dressing, made by folding into mayonnaise salad dressing an equal part of whipped cream.

Baked Chicken Nests.

Two cups cooked chicken, diced. Two cups chicken gravy. One teaspoon minced onion. One and one-third cups finely crumbled soda crackers. Six eggs. Two tablespoons butter.

Combine chicken and gravy and onion. Turn in buttered baking platter and cover with two-thirds of the crackers. Make six nests in the crackers and put an uncooked egg in each. Cover with remaining crackers. Dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes until egg whites are firm.

CELERY, APPLE AND NUT LOAF

Four cups soft crumbs. Two teaspoons salt. Two teaspoons minced parsley. One-half teaspoon powdered sage. One teaspoon pepper. One teaspoon paprika. One and one-half cups celery, chopped fine. One sour apple, chopped fine. One-half cup melted shortening. Two eggs.

Three-fourths cup milk. Two cups nuts, chopped fine. Mix crumbs, salt, parsley, sage, pepper, paprika, celery and apple. Stir in melted shortening. Beat eggs, add milk, and pour over bread mixture, letting stand until crumbs are softened. Add the nuts. Pack mixture in greased bread pan and bake in moderate oven one and one-half hours, basting with melted butter. Turn out on hot platter and garnish with parsley.

CRAB TOAST

One-half teaspoon salt. One teaspoon lemon juice. Put the butter in a saucepan to melt, when melted add the flour, crab meat and other ingredients. Simmer and stir until right consistency, then place on thin slices of buttered toast, sprinkle with lemon juice and serve hot.

COFFEE JELLY

Reheat one cup coffee to boiling point, then pour over a package of lemon flavored gelatin. Stir until it dissolves, then cool until it begins to thicken. Whip with an egg beater until fluffy, add two well beaten egg whites, and continue beating until stiff. Pour into sherbet glasses, chill and serve with a custard sauce made with the egg yolks.

CRAB TOAST

One tablespoon butter. One teaspoon flour. One cup crabmeat. One-half cup evaporated milk. One small stalk of celery, chopped.

One-half teaspoon salt. One teaspoon lemon juice. Put the butter in a saucepan to melt, when melted add the flour, crab meat and other ingredients. Simmer and stir until right consistency, then place on thin slices of buttered toast, sprinkle with lemon juice and serve hot.

COFFEE JELLY

Reheat one cup coffee to boiling point, then pour over a package of lemon flavored gelatin. Stir until it dissolves, then cool until it begins to thicken. Whip with an egg beater until fluffy, add two well beaten egg whites, and continue beating until stiff. Pour into sherbet glasses, chill and serve with a custard sauce made with the egg yolks.

JELLY ROLL

Seven-eighths cup flour.
One cup sugar.
One teaspoon baking powder.
Three eggs.

Three tablespoons water. Beat eggs well and add sugar gradually. Add water and flour (sifted four times with baking powder). Add one-half teaspoon vanilla flavoring.

Fifteen minutes in a moderate oven. Turn on to a cloth covered with powdered sugar. Spread with jelly and roll.

Fish Values.

Fish may not be "brain food," as some people tell us, but it is excellent food for the body. In common with other animal flesh, fish are rich in proteins of high quality. They furnish minerals—phosphorus, and iodine especially. Some fish, especially the fat kinds, are rich sources of vitamins A and D. Some contain vitamin G.

"SAD" CAKES HOW TO AVOID THEM

At Last, A New 125% Sugar-safe Cake Flour ... 81% Extra Value, Too

When we asked food chemists to tell us what causes "sad" cakes they said, "Too much sugar for the kind of flour used causes 'sad' cakes. The flour must absorb sugar much like a sponge does water. Only a 'sugar-safe' cake flour can do that. Unsafe cake flours will cause 'sad' cakes, or cakes with small volume, crumbly grain and heavy, sunken crust with 'freckle-like' sugar spots."

Now it's easy to avoid "sad" cakes. Simply use a cake flour that will absorb all the sugar in the recipe.

At last, after 5 years of research, a new "sugar-safe" cake flour has been perfected. Dainty Super-Cake Flour has that extra ability to absorb sugar. By actual test, Dainty Super-Cake Flour absorbs 125% of its own weight in sugar. That is the highest "sugar-safety" factor of any cake flour milled today.

81% Extra Value, Too!

Instead of packing Dainty in the customary pretty but costly box, we use

Amazing Guarantee—Take home this 5 pound value of the only 125% "sugar-safe" flour. Bake with it. Try it. Carefully pick over the spinach, discard wilted leaves, cut off the stem ends, and wash in several waters to remove grit. If the spinach is young and tender, it can be cooked in the water that clings to the leaves. Start the cooking at moderate heat, cover the kettle at first, turn the spinach now and then until thoroughly wilted, then remove the cover, and stir frequently. Cook about 10 to 15 minutes (a quantity of two pounds), chop fine, season with pepper, salt and butter, or other fat, and serve. Spinach cooked in this way will retain its attractive green color and fresh flavor.

or other fat, pepper, and salt. To vary the flavor, brown a small quantity of finely cut onion in the fat before adding it to the spinach, or season with vinegar and bits of crisped salt pork or bacon, or serve with olive oil and sections of lemon. Sliced or chopped hard-cooked egg is of course always attractive served on spinach.

If some of those "so-called bargains" could tell, what a story they could tell. They would tell you THEY helped bring about unemployment, low wages, and the distress that millions of America's citizens are going through. "Cheap" foods at low prices mean lower incomes and lower standards of living for all. Here's one reason for the depression. Does it pay to ruin the homes of America by purchasing too CHEAP?

There's a big difference between VALUE and "price." It is a policy of the I.G.A. to offer its customers genuine values rather than cheap merchandise.

NARCISSUS BOWL WILL BRIGHTEN KITCHEN

A Set of Three Is Suggested to Prolong Fragrant Blooms.

These are the days when the kitchen seems duller than ever and we long to escape into the spring out-of-doors. But why not bring some of that indoors to cheer up the daily routine? There's nothing better than starting narcissus.

First of all you will have to have enough pebbles to fill three bowls. Be sure to select bulbs that have started to sprout. Plant in one of your bowls, using the pebbles instead of earth. Remember to cover them with fresh water once a day. In about a week, plant the second bowl in the same way.

A week later plant the third. It will take about three weeks for your first bowl to bloom and the blooms should last for about a week. By the time they fade your second bowl will be in bloom. In this way, you will have an endless chain of dainty, fragrant narcissus.

And while we are on the subject of flowers, here are some suggestions to prolong the lives of cut flowers as the season comes on when garden blooms are easily obtained for table decorations.

Place withered flowers in water the entire length of their stems and leave them there for several hours. This will often revive flowers which look almost hopeless. Cut the tips of stems (in a half-vertical cut) while under water. This allows the stem to absorb the water immediately instead of becoming partially dried as it does if exposed to the air for even an instant.

To keep flowers fresh place a piece of charcoal, camphor or an aspirin tablet in the water. Any one of these will do the trick, or you might try a little aromatic spirit of ammonia.

VEAL BIRDS

One pound veal cutlet.
One cup bread crumbs.
One tablespoon minced onion.
One-half teaspoon sage.
Two-thirds teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Three tablespoons butter or other fat.
One and one-half cups water or stock.
Cut meat into portions for serving, pound with rolling pin to spread. Combine crumbs, onion, salt and seasonings (one-third cup uncooked rice may be substituted for crumbs if desired). Put a little on each slice of meat, roll up and tie or fasten with toothpicks. Brown in the heated fat, add water or stock, cover closely and make in moderately hot oven about 45 minutes.

Garlic.
Part of a clove of garlic added to French dressing adds a delicious flavor.

"I DIDN'T HAVE ANY LUCK WITH THAT OTHER BAKING POWDER"

... AND ANOTHER WOMAN CHANGES TO CALUMET!

Plenty of women have experimented with cheaper baking powders. But one by one, they change back to Calumet.

For they find that Calumet's Double-Action has been the biggest reason for all their successful baking. Without it, cakes seem to lack that velvety texture... quick breads seem less fine and even.

Calumet bakes better because it acts twice. The first action starts in the mixing bowl. But the remarkable second action is held in reserve to be released in the heat of the oven. It is this balanced Double-Action which gives such perfection to your baking.

Calumet is reasonably priced too. And you use less. Its thrifty proportion is only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour in most recipes.

Better baking—moderate price—and it goes further!

1st ACTION 2nd ACTION

POTATO ROLLS.

One cup diced raw potato.
Two cups water.
One-half cake yeast.
Four cups sifted flour.
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
One tablespoon sugar.
Three tablespoons fat.
Cook the potato in the water until soft, drain, and save one cup of the potato water, or if necessary add more water to make one cup of liquid. Slice the potato. Soften the yeast in the lukewarm potato water. Sift three and one-half cups of flour with the salt and sugar. Rub in the fat with the tips of the fingers, and add the yeast liquid and the potatoes. Knead the dough until it springs back into place when pressed with the fingers, and add the remaining one-half cup of flour if required.
Place in a greased bowl, grease the dough, cover, and let rise until double in bulk. Without kneading the dough again, pinch off small pieces, shape them lightly and place by threes in greased muffin tins, to form clover leaf rolls. Let rise again until double in bulk. Bake for about 25 or 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven until golden brown. Serve hot.

HANNIBAL MUNICIPAL PLANT REDUCES RATES

Saving of $30,000 a Year to Consumers—Electric and Water Systems Free of Debt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo., April 7.—New electric lighting rates are announced by Hannibal's board of public works which operates local municipal light and water plants. The new schedule will be effective on the March 15-June 15 readings. The rates will mean a saving of $30,000 a year, Supt. W. S. Watson states.

They provide for a minimum of 3 cents a kilowatt hour. The 3-cent rate is applied on all current above 50 kilowatts used in any one month, the first 50 kilowatts being at the rate of 5 cents.

Previous rates had been 6 cents for the first 10 kilowatts, 5 cents for the next 20, and 3 cents for all above 30. There is a minimum bill charge of 50 cents.

The board is making this reduction in spite of an improvement program which includes $60,000 in additions to its plant. A new boiler unit has been added and other improvements made.

In addition $20,000 has been contributed to the general operations of the city, most of which has been used in relieving the unemployment situation.

The municipal plants are free from all debt. For the year ending May 31, 1932, the light plant earned $326,529.70 with a net profit of $106,569.05, while the water plant showed earnings of $82,466.54, with a net profit of $13,095.

Included in operating expense for the light plant was a total of $47,667, which covered a franchise tax paid the city, electric service to city buildings, street lights, park improvements near plant and $17,000 to the city's unemployment relief.

The water plant furnished free water to the city for municipal purposes and all fire hydrants, as well as paying $1796 a franchise tax.

TREASURY AID SELECTED

Atlanta Man Expected to Be Assistant Secretary.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—L. W. Robert Jr., Atlanta, is expected to succeed Ferry K. Heath as assistant secretary of the Treasury in charge of the public building program.

A consulting engineer and architect, he is a member of the firm of Robert & Co. of Atlanta and has been at the Treasury for several days familiarizing himself with the new position. He is expected to return to Atlanta tonight and come back here Tuesday. Announcement of the selection will be made when his nomination is sent to the Senate. Robert will have charge of the supervising architect's office of the Treasury and the public health service.

BRITISH MARINES LAND IN CHINA

The Chinese here said Japanese aviators were bombing towns along the Lwan River.

Beer Truck Kills Man.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—A beer truck, with a trailer in tow, got out of control on a steep street in the Hollywood area early today, rolled down a hill and crashed into a print shop, killing Forrest Myers, 34 years old, printer, and severely injuring his mother, Mrs. Mamie Myers, 66. Both were asleep in the building.

SOCIALIST PARTY TO CONTINUE TO HOLD MEETINGS HERE

The Socialist party, though defeated in the city election, as it anticipated, will continue to hold meetings and expects to achieve "gratifying results" in the aldermanic election two years hence, George E. Duemler, who was the nominee for Mayor, said today.

The Socialist vote has not been determined, as it was not included in the press tabulation, but will be shown in the official count, soon to be finished. In the November election there were 6660 Socialist votes. Duemler thinks there were about 5000 Tuesday.

Duemler said there were Socialist watchers in scattered precincts. Some of their reports indicated, he declared, that "disinterested" watchers should be posted in all polling places. He added:

"The Socialist party was anxious to see three things happen. All three did happen. First, we built up a strong organization for the foundation on which we expect to grow. Second, we witnessed a Dismaying Democratic victory, which will prove to many people in the next two years that lack of understanding is mutual with Democrats and Republicans. Third, we received a large enough vote to convince us that there are some people with will power enough to vote their convictions rather than to be drawn into a sham battle between two parties that did not raise one issue between them."

RULES TOM MIX DOES NOT HAVE TO PAY $50,000 TO EX-WIFE

Los Angeles Judge Makes Decision on Notes Given by Movie Cowboy.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Tom Mix, movie cowboy, will not have to pay his former wife, Mrs. Victoria Mix de Olazabal, $50,000 on notes he gave her. Superior Judge Carl A. Stuman ruled yesterday that the notes were given for the one specific purpose of providing a home for the pair's child, Thomasina, 11.

In the trial of the former Mrs. Mix's suit against the actor, in which a family shooting of nine years ago was brought to light, Mix contended it was impractical to provide a home for the child, as it would be equivalent to providing one also for Mrs. de Olazabal and her present husband, the Argentine Consul at San Francisco. She admitted the shooting but contended it was because Mix "beat me black and blue."

Man and Wife Hurt in Auto Crash.

David Kornbium, a merchant, living at 739 Heman avenue, University City, suffered concussion of the brain, and his wife, Birdie, 30 years old, suffered a fractured leg when their automobile collided with another, then knocked down a lamp post and a traffic standard at Skinker boulevard and Forsythe avenue at 3:30 a. m. today. The driver of the second automobile, Norman Maender, of Clayton, escaped injury.

Officer Jailed at St. Joseph.

By the Associated Press. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 7.—While the new 3.2 per cent beer flowed freely today in many restaurants and drink places in St. Joseph, Patrolman Fred Kirk was taken in custody by fellow officers. He was locked in a cell at Central Police Station by order of Chief of Police Enos, who said Kirk would be given an opportunity to resign. On a previous occasion Kirk was suspended for intoxication, police records show.

Buying information of genuine importance appears regularly in the Post-Dispatch in greater variety and larger volume than can be found in any other St. Louis newspaper.

St. Louis stores and shops Concentrate their advertising in the Post-Dispatch because profitable experience has proved that readers of the Post-Dispatch are most responsive to announcements concerning styles and values.

The extent of this Concentration is illustrated in the accompanying charts which show the percentage of advertising carried by each newspaper in various groups.

In each of the groups shown, the Post-Dispatch carries a greater volume than the second newspaper---in a number of the groups more than both the second and third newspapers combined.

The regular reading of the advertisements in the Post-Dispatch is both profitable and informative. Here will be found the latest news of merchandise---styles, qualities and prices---where to buy to the best advantage.

* Post-Dispatch leads second newspaper.
 Post-Dispatch leads second and third newspapers combined.

RUMOR GANGSTER
PAID POLICEMAN TO SHOOT RIVAL

Chicago Detective Is Indicted for Assault to Kill in the Wounding of Frank Nitti.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Police Detective Harry Lang was charged with assault to kill Frank Nitti, public enemy and former Capone lieutenant, in an indictment returned today by the County grand jury.

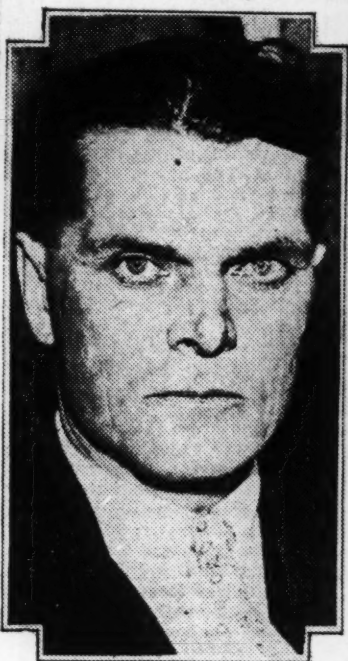

The indictment grew out of a fight last December on a downtown street in which both Lang and Nitti were wounded.

The gangster originally was charged with attempting to kill the policeman, but Lang declined to plead in court that Nitti shot him.

Another detective in the raiding party testified that Lang shot Nitti three times as the gangster stood armed with his hands at his sides. Asked how Lang was wounded, the detective said: "He must have shot himself."

Lang has been released on $2000 bond on a perjury charge based on

KIDNAPER CAUGHT

RAY ROBINSON.

ARRESTED at Borketon, Mani-toba, he is said to have confessed that he was involved in the kidnaping of Haskell Bohn, son of a wealthy St. Paul manufacturer, who was seized and held for $12,000 ransom about a year ago.

testimony allegedly given before a previous grand jury that Nitti shot him. At Nitti's trial yesterday, Lang would say only: "I don't know who shot me; I can't remember what I told the grand jury."

Called before the grand jury, Detective Harry Miller, who accompanied Lang on the raid, testified that he had heard rumors that Ted Newberry, leader of a North Side gang, had paid Lang $15,000 to kill Nitti during the raid. Newberry was murdered in Northern Indiana three weeks after Nitti was shot.

Police Commissioner James Allman suspended Lang after the grand jury action and announced that an inquiry would be made by the police trial board.

When Lang refused to identify Nitti as the man who shot him, the prosecutor ordered the detective arrested for perjury. Lang was released on bond on this charge.

Nitti was ordered freed after Police Commissioner Chris Callahan testified that Lang shot Nitti as Nitti stood unarmed in an adjoining room of the elaborate suite occupied by "Crime, Inc."

"How was Lang shot?" Callahan was asked. "There was only one gun fired up there," Callahan answered. "Lang must have shot himself."

Beer Comes Back
The Time to Buy
Meddling With Religion
Last of the Akron

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

THIS day ends "bone-dry" prohibition, that was to empty jails and insane asylums, prevent the young from ever knowing the taste of alcohol and bring the golden age. This is "beer day," a day to delight old Gambrinus, imaginary Finnish King, who may have been Jan Primus, alias John the First, Duke of Brabant, credited with being the first beer-brewer.

It was not the first beer-brewer, for beer was brewed in Egypt thousands of years ago and in other places before Egypt.

Yesterday thousands of New Yorkers stood in line, waiting for beer licenses. Sixty-two thousand, it is said, expect to sell beer, Health Department licenses not being ready. The Fire Department issued, temporarily, licenses ordinarily used for storage of gasoline, explosives and other combustibles. That will seem appropriate to the ultra-dry, although 32 beer is not exactly "explosive," rather sedative.

"Beer racketeers" have no intention of abandoning a profitable business and yesterday, as usual, they unloaded beer of poor quality to hundreds of speakeasies in the New York City. They tell proprietors, "You'll take it and like it." The proprietors knew what that meant.

Police offer to defend any that complain, but customers of racketeers know better than to complain. For their beer they pay $36 a keg. Legitimate brewers announce a price of $15 or $16 a keg, enough to take care of all sorts of taxation.

While thousands were applying for beer licenses, and an army of millions preparing to drink beer, a "human army" of another kind stamped the streets looking for some official to whom they might apply for $1-a-day jobs, working in the forests, but could not find any. They were looking for forest jobs to give out. If it were as easy to bring back beer and prosperity as to bring back beer, the national problem would be simple.

"Circumstances alter cases." What in peace times is a crime, namely, killing strangers, becomes a patriotic virtue when war comes, and killing strangers becomes a nation's business.

Similarly, in this war of depression, what might be called "extravagance" in better times, changes to "helpful spending" and "management of business."

Those able to spend should spend even though they strain a bit to do it. To refrain from buying things that you WANT or things that you NEED, when you have the money, is another form of hoarding.

Every dollar put in circulation now does duty doubly and quadruply whether it be used for replenishing wardrobes, new household equipment, furniture, automobiles, renovating, painting and otherwise improving houses. All money spent now is literally PATRIOTIC SPENDING.

Revolution always means great changes, a desire to do something new. The French revolution, directed to establish religion, decided that there was only one God and ordered worship of "the supreme being." Russia's revolution utterly eliminates that supreme being, the opium of the people, putting the people to sleep, making them obey orders of their exploiters.

Nazis representing revolution in Germany would rewrite the constitution of the Lutheran Church. Thirty-nine million German Lutherans, practically the entire Protestant Church in Germany, are to see the ancient Swastika emblem taking its place beside the cross.

The church constitution is to be rewritten and German Protestants carrying members of a foreign race will be excluded from the church. It will be laid down as a tenet of the church that if Christ came back he would lead the Nazis against Communism.

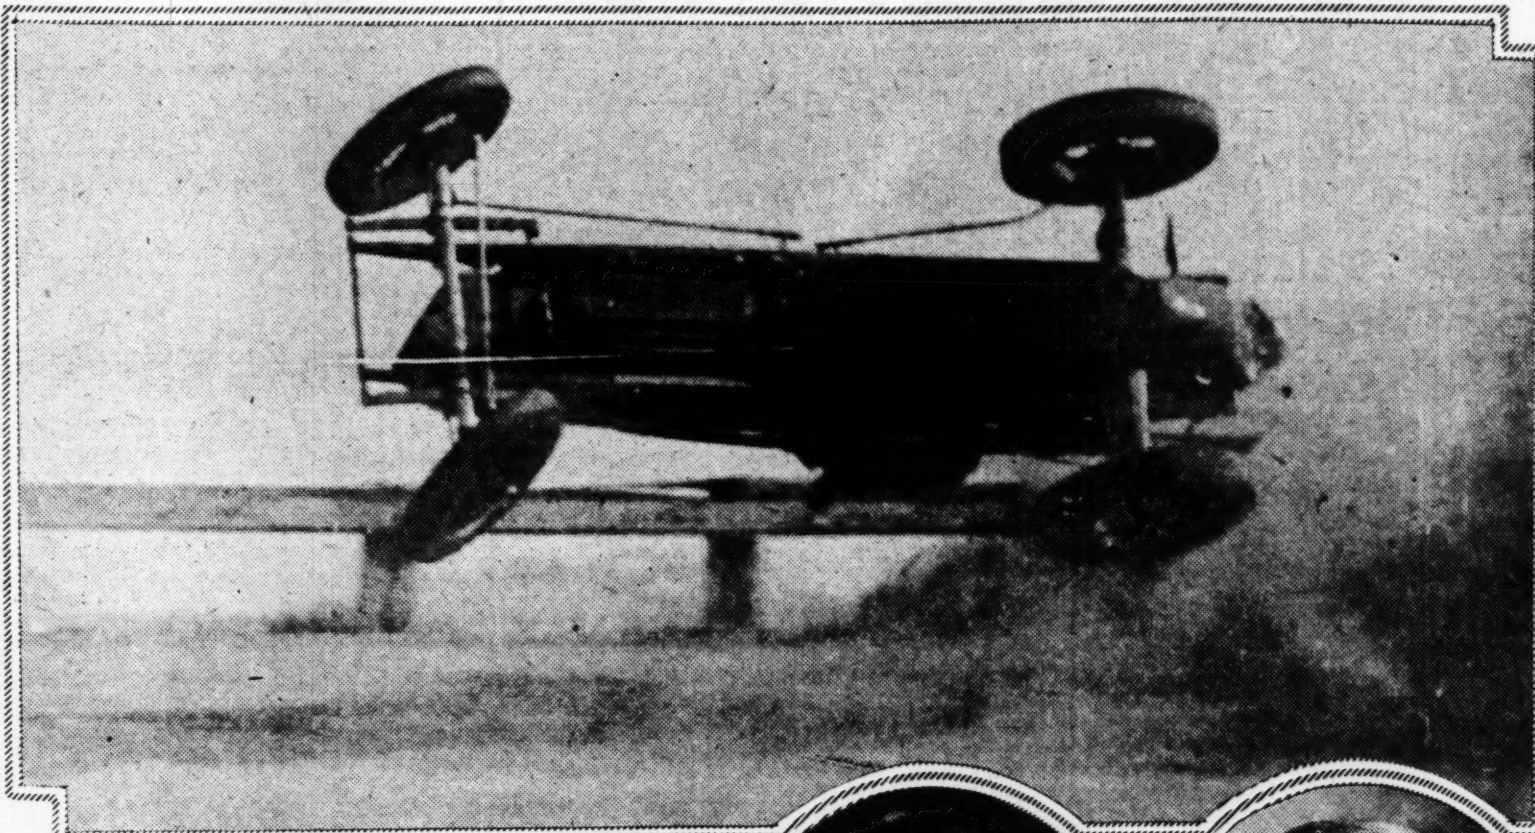

The Old Testament is to be banned and peddlers hawk a pamphlet written by Jews of planning to murder Hitler, crying out "Murder of Hitler." The Jews Demand Murder of Hitler! The Old Testament is banned, presumably, because written by Jews.

Not ready to give up Christianity entirely, the Hitlerites pass over the fact that the mother of Christ was a Jewess, and his disciples were Jews. Possibly Herr Hitler, a man of great energy and a violently effective orator, has stirred up hatred that will get beyond his control.

It is particularly interesting to read that Nazi commissars will be installed "to rule the Catholic as well as the Protestant."

Wedding Courtships.
HEN must a wedding invitation have a reply?
A. When it is written by a friend, it is an obligation. When it is written by a stranger, it is a courtesy. When it is written by a friend, it is an obligation. When it is written by a stranger, it is a courtesy.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith accept with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. Jones' kind invitation for Tuesday the first of June at half after twelve o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith accept with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. Jones' kind invitation for Tuesday the first of June.

How should a letter to a bride, giving her your best wishes, be addressed?
Answer, Dear Mary.

Will you give a sample note written by a bride thanking a club or ex-official associates for a gift sent collectively?
Answer: Usually you would write the office manager and ask him to express your thanks for it. Or if the office is small then to whoever was your best friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones (or Dear Mary) can't half tell you how much I thank each one of you and how much I appreciate your beautiful gift and the kindness that prompted it.

Hoping to see you all at the wedding (or as soon as we get back) that I can thank each of you individually.
Yours sincerely (or Affectionately) MARGARET SMITH. (or Meg.)

A letter to a club would in the same way be written to the secretary of the club.

NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, laxatives must not be used. Mother must take them as long as she is nursing or nursing the little one. Doctors will tell you that laxatives are dangerous to the mother and dangerous to the baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why we often advise Cream of Nujol. This new form of Nujol is specially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not irritate the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk. If you are expecting a baby, take a new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take, at a cost of only a few cents a day. It will make you "as regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

Franklin Roosevelt's Life

Children's Evening Story

MY BOY FRANKLIN

As Told to Isabel Leighton and Gabrielle Forbush
By MRS. JAMES ROOSEVELT.

CHAPTER FIVE.
HE WAS quarantined with two other boys who were recovering from the same ailment that had attacked my son. All three were making satisfactory progress until one of them—I'm afraid it was Franklin—put a highly nefarious plan into action. Their nurse, a waddy, good-natured soul, used to make frequent trips into the ward to note the condition of her patients, and no sooner was her back turned, than they would hunch on to her starched skirts, and, with her first move in the opposite direction, send the beds, which were on casters, skating across the highly-waxed floor. This performance repeated at frequent intervals aggravated Franklin's condition that he was soon in the throes of a relapse. Of course, we caught the first boat home as soon as we heard that his temperature was mounting, but when I arrived on the scene I was told that unless I, too, meant to remain in isolation I could not see him.

In spite of my husband's anxiety, he was tremendously amused, as were the others there, by the way I circumvented the "no visiting" rule. Several times each day I would climb a tall, rickety ladder, and, by seating myself on the top, manage to see into the room and talk with our small, convalescing scapegrace. He loved to see me appear over the window ledge, and, at first sight of me his pale, little face would break into a happy, albeit pathetic smile. He was dreadfully thin, and so thin that a neighbor called him my little recondito, a term applied in those days to groups of starving Cubans. As a matter of fact, Franklin chose his school days to go through the whole succession of children's diseases, which his isolation at home had probably prevented his getting earlier. He had the mumps and also the measles, and the latter disability, trivial though it sounds, may truly have altered the course of his entire life.

It was at the time of the Spanish American War and, like all boys of his age, Franklin and his uncles were fascinated by the newspaper accounts and by their own dreams of heroism and adventure. I knew nothing of his enterprising schemes of course, until some time later, but it happened that he and one of his boon companions became so violently imbued with the bellicose spirit that they planned to run away from school and enlist. He and his partner in crime had arranged, by what devious means I can only imagine, with the local policeman—a familiar figure at the school because of his frequent visits to smuggle them off the grounds safely stowed away in the little cart which a fat, indolent horse trundled from place to place. No one would have suspected that the side it, so well known was this community character. As the boys had saved up their pocket money for weeks in anticipation of this journey to the Spanish War, they would probably have been miles away before their absence was discovered, and because they were so unduly tall for their ages, might easily have been enlisted and beyond our reach before steps could have been taken to stop them.

But on that fateful morning, as luck would have it, they awoke with sore throats, running noses and splitting headaches, and because one more, through the similarity of common physical discomfort, two small boys who had been temporarily lost in the adult maze of martial glory. To add to their humiliation came the diagnosis that was nothing more impressive than old-fashioned measles, an ailment hardly appropriate to the newly assumed role of soldier of fortune. This coming insult ended Franklin's early military ambitions, and his school career continued uninterrupted by any further contemplated deeds of valor, to end in a solemn and touching graduation ceremony which his father and I attended.

There was a great temptation to coddle Franklin after the several illnesses he had just been through. I should have liked either to have brought him home for an indefinite stay or to have made frequent visits to Groton to satisfy myself that he was going along as it should, but I put the notion promptly behind me.

But that meant that Franklin had to write regularly, which he did, painstakingly and conscientiously, once a week. I must say that on the whole he was very good about it for it could not have been easy at all times to unearth the rather scant news that went into some of these weekly efforts. A schoolboy's letters are notoriously lacking in sentiment and sense, but in fairness I cannot recollect any grave omission of either in Franklin's. His letters were short and to the point, but had character and sounded like him. They did not, I must admit, give any intimation of the enthusiastic correspondent he was to become in a few years. They say that few public men conduct anything like the personal correspondence which Franklin enjoyed almost ever since he has held office, and no account of persuasion has ever succeeded in making him abandon his custom of attending to his own mail even in the face of the most exacting of official duties.

It has happened that his close contact with his own correspondence has proved to be of great assistance to one of the younger members of the family at least. I remember that once when Franklin came home at the noon hour

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

Entertaining the Quackers
WILLY NILLY took the balls of string and yarn and wound them everywhere so that the shop looked like a spider web of many colors.

When the guests arrived each was given a end of one of the balls of unwound string. They started to wind up the string one more following the web it made around legs of chairs, over tables until the end was reached and each had wound up the ball of string once more.

There were presents of leafy fans for the hot days at the end of each separate ball of string.

After the spider web game was over Mrs. Quack led them to the supper table which Willy Nilly had arranged for her. In the center was an enormous nest and each Duck pulled from the nest a patty cake wrapped in pretty pale green paper. There were also caps made of green paper for every Duck to wear.

Surrounding the nest were little acorn cups filled with brook lemonade. Instead of using lemons for flavoring Willy Nilly had used the juice of willow twigs.

girls and boys alike. Every mother knows (at least we hope she knows) that a boy can't dress like his sister and get away with it, but a little girl can adopt her brother's swaggy styles successfully.

Brother and sister outfits are very much in vogue. They may be the regulation navy blue flannel which is, perhaps, the most serviceable of all. They may be of brown and white checked wool, very English and swanky. Or they may be of white flannel with brass buttons shining with military splendor.

This popularity of brother and sister outfits extends beyond spring coats and caps to linen and broadcloth suits in matching, cool colors. Occasionally blouses of dotted swiss are combined with trousers and skirt of blue linen.

Matching knitted tops also are available in colors that are not too young for sophisticated, party dresses with grown-up backless features are on display in the stores.

Sketched today are some outstanding fashions for boys and girls who have outgrown their baby clothes but who haven't passed the kindergarten age. The twin brother and sister suits sketched in the left corner illustrate the importance of linen in a season when the tailored influence is supreme.

The little girl in her Alice in Wonderland dress and apron registers surprise at the funny-looking Easter bunny and chicken dressed up in their terry cloth togs. Surely these novel Easter toys are enough to take a child's breath away. Nothing quite so original or fascinating ever stepped out of a fairy tale book. The rabbit is dressed for some state occasion in a dainty dress with the skirt bound in blue to suggest an apron effect; the Dutch chicken with wooden shoes and a gay pink bonnet.

The costume which our little girl is wearing includes a dress of white organdie embroidered with red dots and trimmed with red binding and a white dimity apron with wide shoulder straps and a sash with flannel and an enormous bow tied in the back.

While this Vogue lists there is little chance for a boy to be individual in his clothes if his sister wishes to imitate him. But a girl can be individual not only by having a feminine cost in a pastel color and a hat with flowers but by wearing those clever Alice in Wonderland dresses and aprons about which every mother is exclaiming. She also can be daintily feminine in her party dresses. Taffeta with ruffles from top to bottom, net in delicate shades of pink or blue with cape shoulders and rose bud trimming are typical of the dressy frocks for girls invited to their first party.

If a mother thinks that the age of six is not too young for sophisticated, party dresses with grown-up backless features are on display in the stores.

If a mother thinks that the age of six is not too young for sophisticated, party dresses with grown-up backless features are on display in the stores.

Sketched today are some outstanding fashions for boys and girls who have outgrown their baby clothes but who haven't passed the kindergarten age. The twin brother and sister suits sketched in the left corner illustrate the importance of linen in a season when the tailored influence is supreme.

The costume which our little girl is wearing includes a dress of white organdie embroidered with red dots and trimmed with red binding and a white dimity apron with wide shoulder straps and a sash with flannel and an enormous bow tied in the back.

While this Vogue lists there is little chance for a boy to be individual in his clothes if his sister wishes to imitate him. But a girl can be individual not only by having a feminine cost in a pastel color and a hat with flowers but by wearing those clever Alice in Wonderland dresses and aprons about which every mother is exclaiming. She also can be daintily feminine in her party dresses. Taffeta with ruffles from top to bottom, net in delicate shades of pink or blue with cape shoulders and rose bud trimming are typical of the dressy frocks for girls invited to their first party.

LISTEN, WORLD!

by Elsie Robinson

Pray for Them!
PRAY for those men in Washington!

That man in the White House and those other men in Congress who are trying today to save America—pray God to steady their aim.

Oh, yes; I know how you feel about politics and politicians—

That it's a phony game. That it doesn't really represent the people.

That the men in it are neither so good nor wise as they pretend.

That they do silly, rash, extravagant, sometimes downright crooked things—

And that there's nothing you can do about it.

You feel that way, don't you? So do the rest of us. And with plenty of reason, for most of it's true. But you're wrong in one thing.

You're wrong when you say that you "can't do anything about it."

Generally speaking, that might be correct. Politics has been a tight game. Only the Regular Gang could "get in," and the deals they shuffled had mighty little to do with your private fate or mine. But all that has changed. Something has happened—something greater than politics or political master minds.

HUMAN NEED HAS HAPPENED.

And, for the time being, it isn't money that counts most, or power, but it's human despair—the Little Fellow's gnawing need and pitiful despair. And so there is something you can do—something that's more potent than the most wily political scheme—YOU CAN PRAY!

YOU CAN PRAY FOR THOSE MEN WHO ARE FIGHTING IN WASHINGTON TODAY!

Never mind if you're not the praying kind. Never mind if, with the years, you've lost your faith in prayer. Pray now. Have faith again now. For never before was it so desperately needed. America needs it. Those men who are fighting to save America, need it.

Make mistakes? Of course they have. Of course they will. Who hasn't? Who won't? Wouldn't you, if you stood in their shoes? And would it help you to have everyone nagging, sneering, sniggering—watching to see you make your first mistake?

It wouldn't. You know it wouldn't. You'd want, instead, to have someone believe in you. You'd give anything if someone would help you to keep on believing in yourself.

THEN GIVE THOSE MEN THE BREAKS YOU'D ASK FOR YOURSELF!

Let's forgive and forget the foolishness and the crookedness. Let's remember, instead, how weak and bewildered they are; yet how, in spite of their dullness, a light is burning in them today; and how, in spite of their weakness, they've armed themselves for war.

A WAR AGAINST MISERY—AGAINST IGNORANCE AND TERROR AND PAIN.

Pray for those men who must fight it. They're bewildered, and sick at heart, and God only knows how weary! They've done their chores, plenty of chores, long since. They've fostered their rest. No possible money or power or fame can ever repay them for what they are going to lose in the struggle that lies ahead. Yet, with all they've left, they're fighting on.

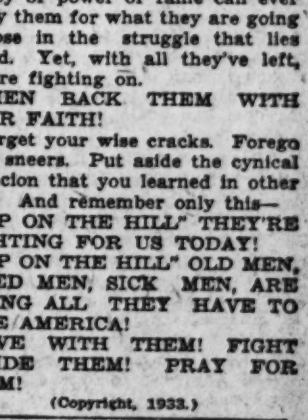

THEN BACK THEM WITH YOUR FAITH!

Forget your wise cracks. Forget your sneers. Put aside the cynical suspicion that you learned in other days. And remember only this—"UP ON THE HILL" THEY'RE FIGHTING FOR US TODAY!

"UP ON THE HILL" OLD MEN, TIRED MEN, SICK MEN, ARE GIVING ALL THEY HAVE TO SAVE AMERICA!

GIVE WITH THEM! FIGHT BESIDE THEM! PRAY FOR THEM!

CHAPTER FIVE

CHAPIN and Sutter were waiting for him in the outside room. There was a typewriter and a desk piled with letters and lots of newspapers marked with blue pencil.

"Sit down," said Chapin. "Have a cigarette."

"Thanks," said Scotty.

"Sutter has been over the mail pretty thoroughly. It's still comparatively light. Later we may need some one else to help out."

"What is it about?" said Scotty.

"He was going to keep up with things this time. If he didn't understand he'd be swamped again, just as he was this morning."

"What is what about?" said Chapin patiently. His hard eyes caught Sutter's eyes for a second. Just as if they were dealing with a lunatic, thought Scotty. Well, they're not. I'm all right. If they'd just tell me what they mean, I could understand.

"This mail," said Scotty. "You keep talking about mail. What mail? What have I got to do with it?"

"These are the letters which people have written to you," said Chapin in that patient way he had.

"But what people? Why should they write to me?"

"Because, my dear boy, you're a well-known public character. If you like. The whole country has read about you."

"And just reading about some one in the paper, these people sit down and write?"

"Yes," said Chapin. "Just as they write to film stars. Some of them are from cranks, of course. Those can be ignored unless they are of such a nature that it seems wise to turn them over to the police. Then there are the requests for autographs. In most cases it is better to send the autograph. It makes for good feeling. And right now, my dear chap, at the beginning of our association, there is something I want to get across to you as forcibly as possible."

"What's that?" said Scotty.

"Never underestimate the importance of the public's good will. It can make you, just as public disapproval can break you."

"But I don't want to be made or broke—broken," said Scotty. Once again that glimmer, half contempt, half pity, between Chapin and Sutter. "All I want is to get a job. An engineering job probably."

"You don't seem to understand," said Chapin.

"No," said Scotty. "I don't see."

"When you sacrificed yourself to save the others in that submarine—"

"O NLY one," said Scotty. "There were 12 of us. Eleven could get out."

"Well, be that as it may," said Chapin, smoothing Scotty's hair out of his way, "when you lay unconscious for two days—the race to get you out before it was too late—all that—that was your chance."

"It wasn't drama to me," said Scotty. "I was just being sick and scared and having a pain in the chest."

"Make a note of that, Sutter," said Chapin. "That's fairly effective with a little reshaping."

"Make a note of that? What's he doing that for?" Scotty's voice was querulous. They'd reduce him to idiosyncrasy if he didn't fight to understand.

"As I told you this morning, the Inquirer has contracted with us for six articles."

"Articles by me?" said Scotty.

"But I can't write. Besides, what could I say?"

"Well, that can be taken care of," said Chapin. "Sutter and I can rough them out, then you can run over them before we file them."

"Oh, you're going to write them?" said Scotty.

"Yes," said Chapin, "with your—uh—co-operation, of course."

"You write them and I sign them," said Scotty. "Is that it?"

"Yes," said Chapin. "That is, we try to put your own thoughts into form."

"Well, I don't like it," said Scotty. "I haven't anything to say, and no one can say anything for them. They would make sense because there isn't anything to say about the whole business."

"But, my dear McClellan, these articles will pay very well."

"But they're phony," said Scotty. "I get paid in a few days, anyway. They promoted me. I get more this month."

"I'm afraid, my dear fellow, you can't quite ignore the financial end of things. There will be a great mass of secretarial work to be done. I don't think you've learned just how valuable Sutter is. There is a volume of correspondence. Handling it will take all the time of a highly trained man for some time to come."

"UT why should I answer all those letters?" said Scotty. "The people who write them are all goops or they wouldn't write to some one they didn't know."

"If you take a high-handed, public-bedlammed attitude, McClellan, you'll soon regret it."

"But why should I regret it?" asked Scotty. "I don't want anything from them, I tell you. I just want a job."

"Well, you're a little overwrought just now," said Chapin. "I think you'll realize when you see the type of article Sutter will turn out that there's nothing undignified or undesirable about them."

"Nothing," said Scotty, "except"

SYNOPSIS

When Scotty McClellan went down with a rumored submarine he shot his men to safety through an escape tube and walked for death. It was time to do his duty, but Scotty didn't want to. He wanted to get the navy and marry Janet and go into some kind of business. The boat was raised and Scotty found that he was a hero. He revealed, but it was useless, and he was dragged off by a lot of men in silk hats to be made a spectacle in New York. A plausible gentleman named Chapin appeared with an assistant, Sutter, and they took charge of Scotty's affairs.

that they're signed by some one who didn't write them and they—

"You'll adjust yourself to conditions after a time," said Chapin. "You've had a strenuous few days. Now there are several business offers which have come along—"

"People offering me jobs, you mean?" said Scotty.

"Yes," said Chapin. "But nothing we need consider just yet. We want to make our way pretty carefully along those lines."

"Do you think I might really get something good that way?" said Scotty. "That would be swell, not having to look."

"I don't think you'll have to look very far," Chapin smiled again, indulgently. "It's a matter of making a choice. What else was there, Sutter?"

Sutter looked at a typewritten list. "Schedule for tonight and tomorrow," he said.

"Oh, yes," said Chapin. "Tonight we have the Citizens' Committee Dinner at the Payne. Then you've had a very cordial invitation to drop in at 'Cherie'."

"Yes, a big musical comedy. It's opening tonight. Mr. Rothberg was particularly anxious to have you there. I told him we'd do the best we could on it."

"Cherie?" said Scotty.

"But I don't want to go to a musical comedy," said Scotty. "I want to go back to sleep."

"You'll have plenty of chance to sleep on the train," said Chapin. "There wouldn't be any advantage in coming back here before the train goes, anyway. Now, tomorrow morning in Washington there will be the parade from Union Station right out to the grave of the Unknown Soldier, where you will lay a wreath."

"With sound?" said Scotty.

Chapin looked at him. "What do you mean?"

"Just that it seems pretty stinking cheap," said Scotty.

"My dear fellow—"

"I'm beginning to catch on," said Scotty. "We're all in business, you and Sutter and I. The business of cashing in on an accident. On my having done what I blundered into, and not liking it much, either."

Even now Chapin didn't lose his temper. "McClellan, whether you like it or not, you're in the public eye. The disadvantages of that position are numerous. There are certain advantages. Some of them financial. Why close your eyes to them? But make up your mind to this, you're not, you can't be, a private citizen any more."

"Well, all right," said Scotty. "Only it's not all right, Scotty. But I don't see why I should have my fool picture taken laying a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's grave."

"You haven't any particular prejudice against the Unknown Soldier, have you?" Chapin's voice was terribly polite.

"No," said Scotty with equal politeness. "I have not."

"To hit Mr. Chapin right across his neat, brisk mouth. 'But I have a prejudice against this monkey-on-a-stick you're making of me.'"

"McClellan, our association can be both pleasant and profitable to us both if you will give me a reasonable amount of co-operation."

"By the way," said Scotty, "how did we come to be associated? I don't seem to remember asking you to run my affairs for me."

"Of course," said Chapin. "If you feel perfectly competent to manage everything yourself I will be happy to withdraw right now. For your sake I would regret that because I understand this whole problem so much better than you could be expected to understand it. You have shown me clearly that you have no knowledge of the responsibilities and the pitfalls ahead of you."

"To any one else some of your remarks would have seemed discourteous in the extreme. I am willing to overlook them because I would be genuinely sorry to see you mislay your cards at this time and get yourself disliked, which you're in grave danger of doing."

"Who's going to dislike me for reminding my own business?" said Scotty.

"Your ignorance of just what is your business has already put you in a fair way to being thoroughly disliked," said Chapin. "Sutter, get"

SEEN IN THE STORES

By Sylvia

A WOMAN who is money mad (either because she has or hasn't got it) may be somewhat pacified by wearing a suit in the exact shade of new golden money. Such a suit I saw in a St. Louis store the other day. It is knitted in a way that only an expert could undertake, and the lacy blouse has a wide, shoulder-hugging collar with white yarn providing a border.

Among the decorative novelties that spring this brought to town are the door-stops and knockers of flower-basket designs. These ornaments were designed especially for bedrooms since they present dainty pastel color schemes. A woman might not spend her money for such home furnishings, but to win them as a bridge prize would suit her perfectly.

Those finely woven hats which are on display in the smartest shops look as though they were made of some very rare straw, but the truth is they are made of rayon. There is one in dark brown advancing the merits of the shepherdess style and having a jaunty bunch of red berries tacked to the back of the crown.

Perhaps it isn't fair to those retailers who like to sell their novelties to tell you that there is no smarter footwear at the moment than patent leather. Either plain pumps or dressy eyelet types are the most accepted types. And you who have become accustomed to the long years of the depression to making your shoe money go a long way, will find patent leather a good spring investment.

Five little elephants all in a row appear most complacent on a tailored cravat. The platform on which they stand looks very much like a real elephant tooth. It is of ivory and the elephants also are carved on this same gleaming substance.

The papers for Commander McClellan.

Sutter laid a pile of the blue-penciled newspapers in front of Scotty. The black type jumped at him.

S-89 HERO PLAYS RAMMER

"Scotty" Arrives Fightin' Mad

His brown eyes alight with anger, Commander Scotty McClellan, hero of the S-89 disaster, today lashed out against "that darn fool who rammed us." The youthful hero's wrath was directed against Capt. Eric Nilsson of the excursion boat Laura, which rammed the submarine S-89 on Thursday and sent 12 men to a watery tomb.

The extraordinary coolness and daring of McClellan, 27-year-old Annapolis graduate and football idol.

"Lord Harry! Oh, my gosh," said Scotty. "I don't mean to say that."

Gay Favors Brighter All Meals On Easter

In looking ahead, don't forget that the shops are filled with clever favors which can be purchased at low cost and which will impart a festive touch to Easter tables.

If there are children in the family, the traditional chickens, colored eggs, rabbits and baskets can be used effectively on the table for all the meals of Easter—with spring flowers, of course.

Tiny sandwiches for tea-time are very dainty with a filling of chopped candied cherries polished in a fair way to being thoroughly disliked, said Chapin. "Sutter, get"

In Hollywood

-- With -- Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 6. THE Marx boys, all four of them, talk a lot. You never know how much is said in fun and how much in earnest. So I am taking with a grain of salt their statement that they have purchased the film rights to "Of Thee I Sing" and Groucho will play the president, Harpo the vice-president, Chico the Ambassador and Zeppo the young love interest. Sounds like a very good idea to me, and I'd be the last to make light of it, but you know the Marx brothers and their brand of humor.

A brave film company, indeed, that tries to do an encore to any of its pictures. Paramount is taking the risk, however, in "Too Much Harmony," a companion to "Close Harmony," one of their first successful talking pictures. The successful talking pictures, the first "Harmony" had Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher and Harry Green; also the red-headed Nancy Carroll. The second edition will have the three men and another girl. Harry Green, who has been traveling here, there and everywhere, returns to the screen, after an absence of two years.

Chatter in Hollywood: Looks to me as if the Countess di Frasso-Gary Cooper romance is deadlier than yesterday's newspaper. Dorothy was out dancing with Ivan Lebedeff until the wee sma' hours and having the time of her life. She came back to town with Mary Pickford 20 pounds thinner and looking like a million. Lebedeff, who was a Lieutenant in the Czar's Imperial Army, has many friends among the Russian nobility in exile in Rome and Dorothy was asked to carry personal messages to him.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Bennetts—Constance and Joan, ready to welcome sister Barbara Wednesday. Barbara arrives with Morton Downey, who opens at Loew's State here April 13. Pretty Mrs. Jack Conway (Virginia Buchanan) betting on every race at Agua Caliente and never losing one. Mrs. Richard Barthelmess, the most stunning woman at the track. She wore a white sports suit, hat, shoes, gloves to match. Carole Lombard striking in black, was photographed and photographed when she put a wreath around the winning horse's neck.

Laurence Stallings, co-author of "What Price Glory" and other plays, has resigned from M. G. M. He will freelance, his resignation having been accepted and arrangements made for him to write at other studios. His last picture on the M-G-M lot is "Fast Workers," Jack Gilbert's picture. By the way, Jack and the Missus left Saturday night via the canal for New York. They will spend three weeks vacationing there.

The old Sully House in Los Angeles, in a way, is a landmark. Daniel Sully, cotton king and grandfather of young Douglas Fairbanks, was at one time a very rich man and it was here that Doug's mother, Beth Sully Fairbanks, lived. The old house still stands and Douglas Jr., who recently separated from Joan Crawford, is moving in. Joan is having the time of her life these days, dancing with this and that young swain. Her last public appearance was with Bill Hollingsworth, young society lad, at the Coconut Grove.

Thirteen Years Ago

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

AT MIDNIGHT the curfew rang the cash register. We are off on another noble experiment. Like the spendthrift, who inherited the second fortune, all we can say is, "Good grief, do we have to go through that thing all over again?"

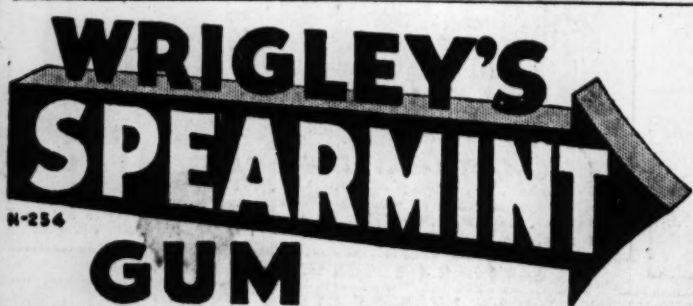

Now that we can get it a lot of people won't want it. That's human nature. The prohibitionists need not worry a bit. There ain't a man living who can drink the amount he boasts about.

One oldtimer in our neighborhood swears he is going to drink until his hat floats off his head. He will probably get muscle bound trying to lift his first stein.

The writer remained at home. We didn't want to see a bartender roll up his sleeves, look at us in a sabotage manner and growl, "Didn't I just throw you out in 1919?"

We hope it's all for the best. When one experiment lasts 13 years no man can live through more than eight or nine noble tests.
